In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and brother, Knute, who died 10 years ago Aug. 14th, 1934.

We cannot forget you, dear brother and son,
The long may seem the years;
And often in the lonely hours,
We wipe away the tears.
We try to still our heart aches,
And try our best to smile;
For God will let us come to you,
After a little while.
O, may we meet, dear brother and son,
Where friends no more shall weep,
For those who died in Jesus,
Their death is only sleep.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Torjus Larson and family. 33p

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father Joseph Vakoch who passed away Aug. 20, 1943.

As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our memory he is near.
Friends may think we have forgotten,
When at times they see us smile,
Little do they know the heartaches
That our smile hides all the while.
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.

Dearly loved and sadly missed by his daughters, Mrs. Frank Horejsh, Mrs. Joe Cernousek, Mrs. Alex Kosanda. 33p

Work Room Needed

Every farm should have a work space or room especially reserved for repairing and constructing farm equipment. The storage of new machinery, increased use of labor-saving devices to offset the scarcity of farm help and the inability of local service men and dealers to take care of all reconditioning and repair work makes it highly desirable for every farm to be as self-sufficient as possible in this respect.

LOCALS WIN AGAIN OVER GRAND FORKS ARMOURS SUNDAY

Woody Almquist Hurls Four-Hit Game, Scores Two Home Runs

Woody Almquist's two terrific homerun drives, and his nifty four-hit pitching, paced the locals to an 8 to 2 win over the Grand Forks Armour's here Sunday afternoon. Manager Gordy Reierson announced that the Minto-Oslo aggregation will face the locals on the Fair Grounds diamond next Sunday afternoon.

Following a scoreless first inning, Woody Almquist, first man to face pitcher Marvin Skyberg in the locals' half of the 2nd inning, poled a shoulder-high pitch into deep right-centerfield for a homerun.

A hit batsman, a double by Wally DuChamp, singles by Almquist and Bossman, and three errors, accounted for four runs in the 3rd inning. The locals picked up another tally in the 5th inning when Blackie Stephens singled, stole second, gained third base on Rosendahl's infield out, and scored on Almquist's fly to left field.

The locals' final markers were scored in the 7th inning. Rosendahl was safe when centerfielder Zimmerman muffed his fly ball, and then scored ahead of Almquist when Woody smashed a homerun over the right-fielder's head.

Fatigued by his homerun efforts of the preceding inning, Almquist allowed Grand Forks three hits and two runs in the 8th frame. Up to the 8th inning Almquist had granted but one scratch hit, a drive that fell safe when outfielders Wally DuChamp and Orry Aase had a near collision. Marv Skyberg singled to right field, and after Fossum had been erased on a ground ball to Baker, Yearke drew a walk, and Helmer Johnson's trickler down the third base line filled the bases. Ronny Aarvig poked a single into right field, scoring Skyberg and Yearke. Almquist whiffed Tim Schmalenberg, and Red Bossman threw out Roy Robinson to end the inning.

1,000 Threshing Hands Needed in R. R. Valley, Extension Service Says

With harvest nearing completion in the Red River Valley, the agricultural extension service has called for 1,000 threshers, bundle pitchers, bundle wagon drivers, and other workers needed to man threshing rigs.

"The Valley's harvest is one of the area's best," says Paul E. Miller, state director. "It will go far in helping to feed our armed forces in France, Italy, in the South Pacific, and elsewhere, and persons in liberated countries, as well as ourselves here at home—if we can get enough workers to help finish the job; that of manning the threshing machines.

"Any man who wants to devote a few days, at good pay, to harvesting this crop should contact his local county agent; the farm labor office at University Farm, St. Paul, or the nearest U. S. employment service office."

Charles Hovden of Camp Polk, La. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph T. Hovden.

Marlyn "Tony" Dorn, defenseman and captain of the Hornets last season, is in receipt of a letter from Wm. Tobing, president of the Chicago Blackhawks hockey club, advising him (Tony) to report to manager Paul Thompson at Hibbing on October 1st for a tryout. Tony plans on taking advantage of the opportunity of trying out with the Blackhawks, for he believes that the experience he gains and the acquaintances he will make, will be of value in furthering his hockey career.

Tony will not reach his 18th birthday u[illegible] next March (he intends to e[illegible]st, probably in the Marines before he has to register for the draft), so he will be available for nearly the entire hockey season.

Vic Hegliger, hockey coach at the University of Illinois, is a member of the Chicago Blackhawks and he may give Tony a look-over at Hibbing too, and he may help the 190-pound defenseman in completing arrangements to attend college after he finishes his term of duty with Uncle Sam.

Well, the hockey fans around here all wish Tony lots of luck. The fact that the Blackhawks are giving the former Hornets' captain a chance should give this territory's junior hockey quite a boost.

Woody Almquist Day

Last Sunday's ball game at the Fair Grounds, with the locals playing Armour's of Grand Forks, developed into a one-man show. Woody Almquist had a "day" for himself. The stocky right-hander clubbed out three hits, including tremendous homeruns in the 2nd and 7th innings, in four trips to the plate; scored three runs; batted in six scores; struck out 14 opposing batsmen; and allowed but four hits. And following the game, Woody hurried home, hooked up the tinder and reaped sweet clover most of the night.

Incidentally, those three hits that Woody collected, boosted his season's average to a .515 mark, with 17 hits in 33 times at bat. Wally DuChamp and Red Bossman are trying to arrange for a loan of a couple-of-hundred-of-Woody's batting average points — they need them.

With the Minto-Oslo team slated to play here next Sunday, the boys will need all the batting average points they can gather. It is expected that Oslo's Smokey Robinson will accompany the Minto team, and he may do some pitching. Bunty, Smokey's younger brother, and a veteran of World War II, having served with North Dakota's famed 164th in Guadalcanal, may be in the lineup, too.

Golf League Playoffs

In the semi-finals Friday evening, the Lincoln Life plays the Soo Line, and the Oen's meet Poppler's Furniture. In the pre-season reckonings, the Lincoln Life and the Soo Line were established as favorites to reach the playoffs; but the Oens and Popplers were rated as "dark horses" with the Hartz Bakery, Bratrud Clinic, and J & B Drugs favored to earn playoff positions.

On the season's play the Lincoln Life team, with Hans Chommie, Rev. G. S. Thompson, Lloyd Bennes, and Ray Jude in the lineup, have turned in the most consistent golf, and if they get by the Soo Line on Friday, they should defeat the winner of the Oens vs. Popplers match and regain the championship they won in 1942. The Lincolns lost two matches during the season, losing to the Firestone and the Popplers, but team captain Bennes excuses those losses by explaining that he wasn't able to play in those matches.

Play in the championship flight of the club tournament has been at a standstill the past week, pending the outcome of the Dr. Homer Hedemark vs. Dr. H. Helseth lower bracket semi-finals match. Defending champion Hans Chommie has reached the finals, having defeated Stan Larson in a semi-finals match last week, and he will face the winner of the Hedemark vs. Helseth match for the club championship.

All-State Bill

According to all reports, Anoka's Billy Bye played a bang-up game at shortstop during the state junior baseball tournament held in St. Paul this past week. Bill, batting in the lead-off spot, connected for "3 for 7" against So. St. Paul, driving in the game-winning runs, and "2 for 3" against Richfield of Minneapolis, the winner. And as a result of his all-round play, Bill was named as the third baseman of the all-state team selected by the Star-Journal and Mpls. Trib.

How yours truly got out of the "ower class"

I USED TO BE the kind of a guy who was always on the owing end of the deal. If I was even with the grocer I owed the gas man. If I was even with the gas man I owed the grocer. I owed on the house, the car, and the furniture.

But it's all different now. Every payday I lend 10% of my pay to Uncle Sam. The payroll plan is a simple, easy way to do my part.

Well, the other night, fingering over those nice, crisp War Bonds, I said to the Mrs.: "For once," I said, "we got somebody owing us money. Uncle Sam! He is promising to pay us back $4 for every $3 we put into these bonds."

"My," said the Mrs., "why don't we try to buy more of these bonds out of your pay? I could do some paring down. Let's see if we can't make it 15% instead of 10%." We did it, by golly, and so can you.

If you ask for Hamm's Preferred Stock Beer and your dealer has none, it probably is because Uncle Sam has first call, but ask, nevertheless.

ARE THESE STAIRS RIGHT-SIDE UP,

OR UPSIDE DOWN

If you look hard enough, you can have these stairs either way.

However faulty your sight, real stairs will never look upside down. But faulty sight can make them hazardous. Many accidents result from defective vision on stairs, at machines, on the highway, etc.

Faulty vision makes work more difficult; robs recreation of enjoyment. Live well; see well. Be sure your sight is right. Have it examined—now.

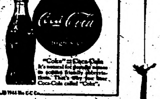
Have a "Coke" = Welcome back

... or giving a returned soldier a taste of home

To soldiers overseas, Coca-Cola is a reminder of home. To soldiers at home on furlough, "Coke" is part of the old familiar way of living. With frosty bottles of "Coke" on hand, offering a man in uniform a refreshing welcome is an easy matter. Have a "Coke" is always the hospitable thing to say. In many lands overseas, as in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a happy symbol of hospitality.



"Coke" = Coca-Cola It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

More came Out of that Old Lunch Pail than went In Big sandwiches with thick slices of bread helped to build the brawn that built America's industrial might.

Wartime demands upon men and women, young and old, have brought us as a nation to a stern realization of the need for an adequate diet for all.

So today—in homes, in plant cafeterias and in restaurants large and small—America is wisely recognizing the nutritive importance of bread. Now enriched, it is the finest bread ever set before the human race . . . so good that our ancestors would have called it cake.

When you eat plenty of enriched bread, you improve your diet besides saving ration points for other good foods.

In addition to supplying the bakers of America with yeast, Anheuser-Busch manufactures glider and bomber fuselage frames, wing parts, gun turret parts and foodstuffs for the government, and produces other materials which go into the manufacture of: Rubber • Aluminum • Munitions • Medicines • B Complex Vitamins • Hospital Diets • Baby Foods • Bread and other Bakery products • Vitamin-fortified cattle feeds • Batteries • Paper • Soap and Textiles—to name a few.

In your own family circle or on evenings when good friends surround you, simple sandwiches become delicacies when served with golden, bubbling Budweiser . . . which accents the flavors of all good foods, yet never loses the identity of its own distinctive taste.

After cutting the grain they use stone boats to haul the bundles out of the mud and water, to shock it on higher ground. A recorded rainfall of over nine inches in a week's time that ended last Thursday night flooded all the fields and meadows of this vicinity to such an extent that the water flowed over the highways on several places near here.

Drying Plants at Fosst Roseau Will Serv Territory

FOSSTON PLANT IS NEARING COMPLETION

Ground Broken Last Week for New Building at Roseau

Creameries in this territory are speeding arrangements for the handling of whole milk, those to be served by the drying plant now nearing completion at Fosston, expecting to start the new operation this fall. These include St. Hilaire, Plummer and Oklee, and at a meeting in Fosston tonight, representatives of these creameries will receive instruction on operation methods. Construction of another drying plant at Roseau was started last week and this plant will serve Thief River Falls, Goodridge, Holt, Middle River and other creameries to the north, operations scheduled to start next spring.

Receiving station equipment is already arriving at creameries in the Fosston territory and is being installed as rapidly as possible. Remodelling of the present building has been completed at St. Hilaire and necessary additions to the old buildings are now under construction at Plummer and Oklee.

Equipment being installed at St. Hilaire includes increased refrigeration, automatic weigher and can washer and separator that has a capacity of 11,000 lbs. per hour. It is expected that the creamery's payroll will be increased to ten people. The services of three truckers has already been contracted for and two more may be added.

The Thief River Falls creamery, which will be serviced from the Roseau plant, has arranged for the installation of receiving station equipment and installation will be started this fall. The present building provides ample room, some second floor space probably being utilized. Equipment is being financed through government agencies on a rental basis, rental payments being applied on the cost if the creameries decide later to buy it.

SPECIAL BUSINESS TRAINING COURSE IS BEING OFFERED

Lincoln High School Provides Part-Time Cooperative Course

Students interested in office and secretarial training as a career may now enter the part-time cooperative course at Lincoln High School. Seniors who are able to meet office training requirements may work in local offices and business places part of the day as part of their school training for secretarial and office work, according to a new program to be offered this fall. In addition to regular school courses these students will work in offices in order to gain practical experience for full time employment after they finish high school.

The cooperative training plan was intended for sales-people and students interested in selling and retailing who wish to continue with their field. In addition to sales work, students may work in offices or trades and secure training on the job while attending school.

This is the only program of this kind in operation in the northern part of Minnesota although there are a number of other cities offering this work in the central and southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Nelson last week received a telegram from the war department informing them that their son, Cpl. Miloy Nelson, had been seriously wounded in action July 30. They have not yet received word as to the nature of his injury.

With the invasion forces in France since D-Day, Cpl. Nelson has been stationed in England since going overseas last summer. He has been in the service since April 29, 1942. He graduated from Lincoln high school with the class of 1938 and was employed at the National Tea Co. store prior to his entry into the service.

Scouts to Stage Scrap Paper Drive Saturday

Members of four Thief River Falls Boy Scout troops are participating in a nation-wide scrap paper drive and Saturday, August 26, has been designated as the first Clean-up day of the two month campaign. A fleet of eight trucks has been arranged for by the Eagles and bundles of paper will be picked up starting at one o'clock. Residents are asked to have their paper on their boulevards, tied in bundles, by that time.

Scrap paper will be assembled at scrap headquarters across from the Arena, and Morris Owen, who is in command of the scrap paper army, states that calls for information will be handled at the Arena phone. All proceeds will go into the local scout fund and it is hoped that money raised in this way will enable the organization to buy a site along the river for a scout camp.

Boy Scouts thruout the nation are responding to an appeal for cooperation by the War Production Board to help relieve a critical paper shortage. Members of the local organization are determined to do their bit and will appreciate the assistance of all citizens. Anyone from the rural area who wishes to contribute is asked to bring the paper to the scrap station. Such contributions will be greatly appreciated.

Members of the Thief River Falls Rotary Club voted Tuesday in favor of a plan that may bring a series of four outstanding lectures on important international problems to our community. Subjects of these lectures would be, "The New China in the New Pacific," "Russia's Position, East and West," "Australia, New Zealand and the Islands of the South Pacific" and "The Role of the North American Continent in the Post War Period." Following a general discussion and vote on this subject, G. A. Frahm, manager of Montgomery Ward, delivered an interesting autobiographical sketch.

RECEIVES MANY APPLICATIONS FOR SOLDIER BALLOTS

Senstad Reports More Than 200 Requests Are Already In

More than 200 applications for soldier ballots have already been received by county auditor A. M. Senstad, indicating a livelier interest in the final election next November than there was in the primary when only 139 soldier votes were registered. Most of the requests now on file come from men overseas, Mr. Senstad states, the application blanks distributed by the federal government being used in making application. Ballots will be sent to these applicants without cost, by air mail, as soon as they are printed or about September 1st.

Ballots will also be mailed to those who made application before the primary but Mr. Senstad suggests that relatives should check the addresses on record in these earlier applications to avoid delay of fordwarding if addresses have been changed. All applications are registered in the auditor's office and duplications will be eliminated in mailing. Immediate relatives of any service men are qualified to file applications.

ALLEN DEFENDS F.D.R. IN SPEECH AT AUDITORIUM

Fusion Candidate for Governor Devotes Most of Talk to National Field

SAYS THYE WOULD DISMEMBER R.E.A.

Halvor Langslet, Candidate for Congress, Made the Closing Address

Defining the three important issues of the coming election as; first, winning the war; second, winning the peace, and; third, winning the economic struggle that would follow the war, Byron G. Allen, Democratic-Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, devoted most of his talk at the Auditorium Saturday night to national issues. State issues could be considered later, he said, his only reference to the state election and his own campaign for office being a charge that Governor Thye, his opponent, would work against interests of farmers by obstructing the progress of rural electrification.

Enlarging upon his three issues, Mr. Allen referred to the success of our armed forces in urging the re-election of Roosevelt as Commander in Chief, and scored Mr. Dewey for stating that he would not interfere with the military command if he were elected, expressing the fear that such a policy might lead to military dictatorship. The military must be kept under the control of the civil authority, he said.

Blaming the Republican party for the failure to maintain peace following the last war, he argued that the election of the Democratic administration is necessary to assure international cooperation in working out an effective peace plan following this war. And he cited the economic breakdown during the Hoover administration as proof that the Republican party would not be able to maintain economic stability in the post war period of adjustment that lies ahead of us.

In his introductory remarks he referred to himself as "Long-shot dark-horse Barney Allen", and reviewed his record of public service in Iowa, his home state until less than five years ago. In spite of a severe head cold, which obviously handicapped him, he delivered an interesting and colorful address.

Walter Day of Bagley, candidate for reelection as Representative, was introduced at the opening of the meeting and spoke briefly in behalf of his own candidacy. The closing address was delivered by Halvor Langslet of Detroit Lakes, fusion candidate for Congress. He urged the reelection of Roosevelt and a friendly congress in order to insure a continuation of New Deal policies. V. C. Noper presided at the meeting.

MOST SCHOOLS IN RURAL AREA OPEN SEPT. 11

Six Teacher Vacancies Still to be Filled in County

MORE DISTRICTS MAY BE CONSOLIDATED

Conference of Rural Teachers Will be Called in September

Several Pennington County rural schools will open on Tuesday, September 5, according to Mrs. Martha Matheson, county superintendent, but most of them will start the new year the following week, beginning Monday, September 11. More specific information will be available next week.

There still are six vacancies in the teaching staffs of the rural schools, she says, but there are several prospects and she is hopeful that all vacancies can be filled. Consolidations have helped solve the teacher shortage problem and there is a possibility that more consolidations may be effected.

Indications point to a more general participation in the government's hot lunch program which was tried with marked success by some of the schools last year. Under the new government program, which combines the lunch and milk projects, three types of lunches are made available ranging in cost from two cents to nine cents each.

Mrs. Matheson attended a conference of county superintendents and state school officials at Detroit Lakes on Wednesday of last week. At this conference the recruitment of teacher training students was urged, it being stressed that work in educational fields will be of even greater importance following the war. This conference was also attended by Mrs. Ethel LaCourse, superintendent of Red Lake County, and Thora Skomedahl, superintendent of Marshall county.

Mrs. Matheson is arranging for an all-day conference of rural teachers to be held in Thief River Falls some time in September.

Proper Paint Colors Improve Light

Federal Housing administration currently cites some findings of a recent convention of lighting experts who have found that by means of a scientific use of color, it is practical to increase the illumination from most light systems 100 per cent without any change in lighting equipment or any increase in wattage, by proper painting. They recommended these simple steps:

Refinish the ceiling with a high-grade white or light ivory paint, preferably having an eggshell finish.

Refinish the sidewalls with a slightly darker paint such as light green, with 65 per cent reflection.

Refinish all horizontal surfaces—benches, chairs, tables, floors, in a paint of at least 40 per cent reflection factor.

Autos Move America

Approximately 80 per cent of the Americans now engaged in war production depend on private transportation to carry them to their jobs, according to the Office of Defense Transportation. It is the individual responsibility of every American who owns a truck or car to keep his transportation working for him; it is also the duty of every serviceman to help by supplying proper lubrication and such replacement parts as are available, and to educate the war worker in the conservation of his vehicle. Based on ODT statistics of 50,000,000 war workers and maximum public transportation facilities for only 12,000,000 workers daily, four out of five Americans engaged in war work depend entirely on private vehicles to get to and from their jobs.

Personality Qualities

The terms personality and character are often confused. The word "personality" represents to most people the richness and fullness of an individual's life, whereas character denotes one's dependability, conscientiousness, persistence and reactions to social contacts. A rich personality is not necessarily associated with a good or strong character, and a good character on the other hand may be associated with a meager personality. However, the term personality is coming to be used more and more for the sum total of a person's abilities and traits.

What we desire most for our children is for them to develop so that their personality traits will produce good character. There are many examples in society of people who are at war with themselves. Their emotions drive them to do one thing, while their intelligence tells them to do another.

Character education that begins when the child goes to school begins six years too late. Character education really begins in the home with the parents' training their children. If the child is to profit most by this training, both school and home must carry out the same principles and methods in developing traits. A good example is that of a boy who said to his father, "You didn't work the mathematics problems correctly last night. You will have to do them over." The boy's remark shows confusion and a lack of insight into correct behavior. If we expect a child to be independent and self-reliant, he must realize his own responsibility. Although we preach independence and honesty, in our desire to have the child excel or get ahead, we often violate the very principles which we have tried to instill.

We are very careful in these days of modern schools and highly trained teachers to see that children are given plenty of physical exercises. We are proud of the number of children whose weight is up to standard and whose lungs and hearts and livers are functioning properly. We ought to be. But what troubles thoughtful teachers and parents now and then is the lack of the development of desirable personality traits, and the absence of opportunities to exercise them.

We are well aware of the fact that any change in the physical environment of the child reacts upon the child's behavior. We are not quite so aware of the way in which ideas and thoughts also affect his behavior. Not only must parents and teachers set a good example by showing desirable personality traits in the presence of children, they must also give children responsibilities, social opportunities, and experience that will enable them to reveal and develop good personality and character.

Youngsters Receive Summer Camp Cash Attendance Prizes

Awards were made Friday to the boys and girls who had participated in all the six day camps held this summer under the supervision of Camille Dostal. Prizes of 50c were given to Jean Thomas, Carol Davidson, Patty Clinton, Kathryn Mehegan, Idel Beals, Larry Gilbertson, and Allen Gilbertson. These awards were made by the Mother's Recreation club.

Wednesday, Aug. 16, was the last day camp of the season, this being one of the six successful day camps in which 237 children took part. Four days' activities had been cancelled because of the weather.

Ice Crystal Is Hexagonal Or Reducible to Hexagon

It seems hardly possible that ice cubes, snowflakes, frost feathers and hailstones are all accumulations of ice crystals essentially the same in shape. There are, of course, obvious differences in the color, size and form of different crystal accumulations. Such variations depend on how the freezing occurs and what happens to the mass after it has been frozen. But the natural form of the single ice crystal is the hexagon and the complex combinations found in different types of frozen moisture can be resolved into units having the basic hexagonal shape.

The appearance in the transparent atmosphere of visible water forms, such as clouds, and precipitations from clouds, is a phenomenon that is mystifying until we have some notion of the processes and conditions involved, writes Charles H. Blake in New England Naturalist. For the most part water vapor at ordinary sea-level pressures does not form readily at temperatures below the boiling point of water, or 212 degrees Fahrenheit. But a slow evaporation of water constantly occurs even below freezing, and vast quantities of water vapor are in the atmosphere at all times regardless of temperature. Although the proportion diminishes as the temperature falls, even far below zero there is a little vapor still retained in the atmosphere. The excess has, of course, fallen out as water or as ice, but it is never really too cold to snow.

Tribute to Barbary Pirates

In Algeria, French North African colony where American armed forces landed, other American fighting men defeated Algerian pirates a century and a quarter ago. But this was not accomplished until Uncle Sam had paid heavy tribute to the Barbary pirates who once controlled the sea lanes of the Mediterranean. In 1795 this nation paid the pirates, whose headquarters was in Algiers, $992,000. Three years later the tribute was four warships. Tired of this "shakedown," the United States navy sailed into African waters in 1815 and won a decisive victory against them.

Rugs and Worship Make Kairouan Famous Site

Kairouan, scene of clashes in Tunisia, is famous for rugs and worship.

Arab conquerors of North Africa in 670 A. D., schooled in desert cavalry combat and knowing nothing of naval warfare, chose the desolate, waterless site of Kairouan on which to build a governing town.

Kairouan, in April, long has been a festive city where thousands of visitors have gathered to examine the year's output of native weavers at the annual rug fair. Fostered by the French, prizes have been awarded to the best weavers, while competitive exhibitions of horsemanship and a large variety of side shows have given the event much of the character of the county fairs known to all Americans. Jugglers, beggars and snake charmers with bags of cobras ease the tourist's dollar from his purse.

124 DRIVERS LOSE PERMITS IN JULY FOR DRUNKENNESS

Speeding Is Chief Cause of License Suspensions Past Month

Intoxication continues to be the main cause of drivers' license revocations, according to the July report of E. T. Lee, supervisor of the drivers' license division of the Minnesota highway department. In July 138 licenses were revoked and of these 124 were for driving while under the influence of intoxicants and eight for inebriacy. Since January first, 980 licenses have been revoked and of these 836 have been due to driving while under the influence and 43 due to inebriacy.

Speeding has been the chief cause of license suspensions. In July 321 permits were suspended, of which 96 were due to violation of the speed limits. Other principal causes of suspensions were reckless driving, 37; failure to establish financial responsibility, 36; refusing to take driving test, 50; refusing to furnish doctor's statement on eye test, 22.

Of the 321 suspensions in July, 160 were for persons under 20, 36 were for persons of 65 and over, and only 125 were persons between the ages of 20 and 65. In the case of revocations, however, the reverse was true, only 7 of the 138 being 20 or under and none over 65. Only 4 of the persons whose licenses were revoked and only 15 of those whose licenses were suspended were females.

BJORKMAN'S TOGGERY

Here's why I have put every cent I can into War Bonds...
Here's the way I figured it out.
The more money Uncle Sam can put into winning the war the sooner the war will be over—and that's what all of us want.
I would be dumb, then, if I didn't buy all the War Bonds I could to put that needed money into Uncle Sam's hands, for it means victory sooner, lives saved and peacetime ways of living again.
—But that's not all there is to it by a long shot.
That money I put into War Bonds will return me up to $4 for every $3 I put in. That means after peace is won I'll have greater financial security, more money to spend for the things I want in a peacetime world. So in buying War Bonds I feel that I am helping win the war and doing a favor for myself.
If you ask for Hamm's Preferred Stock Beer and your dealer has none, it probably is because Uncle Sam has first call, but ask, nevertheless.

Yesterday was a day that will be long remembered in the annals of world history. Big event that gave the day distinction was the victory of Paris, the first of the conquered allied capitals to be retaken from the Nazis. Important, too, was the capitulation of Romania, the second of Hitler's satellite states to lay down arms. His trumpeters still blast feebly of some mysterious weapon that will reverse the present course of the war and assure an Axis victory but probably the only weapon now left that might keep Hitler from witnessing the final destruction of his once proud military machine would be a weapon of self-destruction. The only uncertainty now is the uncertainty of time. The collapse of Germany may be expected at any time. It may take months but it may be only a matter of days. It is a good guess that Bulgaria and Hungary will follow the Romanians in accepting any terms that will enable them to escape further destruction. Hitler and his madmen will then stand alone, without sea power, without air power and with but the tattered remnants of an army. The end cannot be far away.

Boy Scouts of the city will appreciate the donations of your bundles of scrap paper. The proceeds of the sale of this paper goes into their camp fund. Uncle Sam will appreciate your thoughtfulness too in making this scrap available for essential uses. There really is a paper shortage.

It is quite evident that the Japs are getting jittery. They are talking now of the danger of an invasion of their home islands, and with millions of their best fighting men away it probably isn't a pleasant prospect. They know now that Hitler's invincible fortress Europe was not invincible and it is doubtful that they themselves have taken any serious precautions about establishing home defenses. And if their home islands are not invaded they still face a dismal prospect. At the rate they are losing ships they face the grave danger of isolation. Shipping is the Japanese life line upon which they must depend not only to maintain the outposts of their empire but which is also vital in maintaining raw materials in their home islands. The Japs have reason to become jittery.

Farmers are taking advantage of the favorable weather of the last few days in a big way and shocks are being converted into straw stacks like nobody's business. If the weather man will only be agreeable a few more weeks we will gladly say we are sorry for all the mean things we thought about him a couple of weeks ago.

There is a touch of fall in the air these summer days that reminds us of such pleasant things as having the furnace checked. Incidentally, if more chimneys are cleaned now there will be fewer chimney fires that first cold, windy day of winter.

Victory reports make pleasant reading but not so the casualty lists which are growing steadily longer. To most of us the war news is most encouraging. To a few the war is a terrible personal tragedy.

It isn't too early to start thinking about the Christmas remembrance for that fellow who is serving overseas. Uncle Sam asks you to do your mailing early and says he will do his durndest to deliver your package in good condition and in good time.

SIX-FOOTED FROG

Alexandria.—A six-footed frog, no foolin', visited the Echo office recently. It was accompanied by ten-year-old Helen Englund who found the potential champion jumper on the lawn of a farm home. Two hind legs, normal in every way, seemed adequate to take care of all normal frog activities, but between them, apparently growing directly from the end of the spine, was another full-sized leg with two complete feet. Despite the extra feet the frog does not appear to be desirous of using his extra equipment. He just sits around lazy-like, permitting Helen and her friends to feed him.

V-Mail Has Advantage; It Can Hardly Get Lost

A striking example of how V-Mail has come to be known as the safest method of transmitting mail overseas in war time was revealed by the army postal service.

Recently, with winter weather conditions preventing regular west bound airplane flights between the British Isles and the United States, it became necessary to dispatch from England 73 rolls of film carrying 115,200 individual V-Mail letters on a United States merchant ship.

A victim of enemy action on the high seas, this merchant ship was forced into a neutral European port for extensive repairs, and it was impossible to make immediate arrangements for the dispatch of the 115,200 V-Mail letters to the parents, relatives and friends back in the United States.

As soon as word was received by the army postal service that this vessel had put into port for repairs, the rolls of V-Mail on board were reprocessed at the V-Mail sending station in England and dispatched by a subsequent fast ship sailing for the United States. This was made possible by the system of numbering each V Mail roll and not destroying the original letter until the film has arrived at its overseas destination, which in this case was the United States.

Salute to Brother Rat

Because the white rat has a life span of only 1,000 days, he is literally one of man's best friends. His brief life is a miniature of man's three-score and ten. This makes it possible for scientists to observe in a relatively short time how several generations react to various conditions bearing on human health. Rat experiments have made possible great advances in human nutrition. Today, our best guide to the amounts of vitamins and minerals we need are the minimum daily requirements established by the food and drug administration and endorsed by the American Medical association. For your contribution to these vitally important figures, Brother Rat, we thank you.

Alcohol From Wheat

War conditions have forced the alcohol industry to utilize wheat as a raw material, says a report to the American Chemical society. The molasses shortage, increased requirements for ethanol, and the large surplus of wheat are responsible for the development. "The majority of the grain distilleries in the United States have had little experience with the production of ethanol from wheat," according to the report. "Prior to the conversion of the industry to an industrial alcohol basis, the three principal grains processed were corn, rye, and barley malt. Owing to a combination of circumstances it has become highly desirable that as much industrial alcohol be produced from wheat as is feasible.

Tunisian La Goulette Is Main Tunis Competitor

La Goulette, seven miles from Tunis, was long the seaport of the capital city. On opposite sides of El Bahira, the Lake of Tunis, the two ports have been engaged in a game of seesaw, in which La Goulette was up when Tunis was down. La Goulette is on a neck of land between the lake and the sea, while Tunis is on the inland side of the lake.

Tunis early became a great port city, but when the draught of bigger ships became too great for the intervening lake, the ships could go no farther than La Goulette, which thus developed as the capital's seaport. But in 1892-97 a canal was cut through the lake which enabled ships drawing up to 21 feet to cross and enter the ancient harbor, which had been dredged to accommodate them.

La Goulette survives as a seaport, mainly because her wharves can accommodate ships up to 28 feet draught, giving her a five-foot advantage over the older harbor. It has retained much of the Tunisian ore traffic, and has a petroleum wharf.

Ah, Life!

Life in the Tunis, Djanet, oasis is simple. The thousand or so natives till their small plots, harvest dates in season, roam the surrounding country. Each individual plot has its own well or water pit. Grass, palm tree bark, dried date stones ground into a sort of flour, and occasionally some corn are the chief food items. Famine is a regular expectation, but food is not put by for lean times. Food for the garrison is brought from Ourgla, more than 800 miles to the north.

RUSSIAN DANDELIONS PRODUCE GOOD RUBBER

East Grand Forks.—Only a few days ago Art Thureen, who experimented in raising Russian dandelions last summer on his farm just out of town, had the pleasure of seeing the result of his experiment. A sample of rubber manufactured from the roots he sent to Goodyear Rubber company arrived. The rubber has the elasticity of real rubber and from appearance seems to be better than synthetic rubber.

Chester Larson Flies With Famous Bomber Group Over Europe

Sgt. Chester S. Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Larson, is an assistant crew chief with a B-24 Liberator heavy bombardment group which has flown over 300 combat missions according to a dispatch from the 15th A.A.F. in Italy. The group has bombed many of the most highly defended targets that the European fortress has to offer — Regensburg, Munich, Klagenfurt, Steyr, Wiener Neustadt, Sofia, Toulon, Nice, Budapest to name a few—from its base at a southern Italian airfield.

It has been twice cited by the President of the United States, once for the low-level attack on the Ploesti oil fields, August 1943, which severely crippled German industry; and again for its outstanding performance in the strategic support of the Allied Forces in the Middle Eastern theater of operations. It is the oldest group in the Mediterranean theater and one of the first to see service overseas.

Sgt. Larson before entering the army, May 1, 1942, was farming with his father in Excell Township. He has been authorized to wear the Distinguished Unit Badge and Cluster, African European-Middle East Theatre Ribbon with 4 campaign stars and the Good Conduct Medal.

Clarence Mattson Awarded Air Medal

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mattson received notice today from the Air Force headquarters in the Southwest Pacific that their son, S/Sgt. Clarence Mattson had been decorated with the air medal "in recognition of courageous service in his combat organization. He was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Southwest Pacific area from March 30 to May 17."

Raymond Peterson Is Promoted to Corporal

Raymond D. Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paula Peterson of Thief River Falls, has been promoted from Private First Class to the grade of Corporal, according to a Fifth Air Force report to the Times. Corporal Peterson, who entered the armed forces in May 1942, is now serving with a Light Bomb Unit in the Southwest Pacific.

BJORKMAN'S TOGGERY

Keeping Score

. . . . With BUCK OLSON

All Even

Oen's, winners of the city bowling championship last season, will attempt to add the golf league title to their trophy collection Friday evening when they meet up with the Lincoln Life team, and if the rumors of the erratic behavior of Lloyd Bennes' tee shots is based on fact, the Oen's have an even-stephen chance of winning. The Lincoln Life captain had difficulty in staying on the course in the match against the Soo Line last Friday, and six of his shots wandered out-of-bounds.

The Oen's quartet will have a handicap advantage, carrying 27 strokes while the Lincoln Life will receive the benefit of but 18 strokes. And in George Mostue, who carries a 7-stroke handicap, and Roy Oen, who has a 6-stroke handicap, the Oen's have a pair of golfers that are capable of shooting in the thirties, and if that occurs tomorrow evening Oen's had better dust off the trophy shelf for they'll win the golf league emblem. That is, of course, if Bennes continues to play his tee shots into Gaynor Eide's summer fallowing and into Jorde's oat stubble.

The Win's the Thing

That Mrs. Harold Rasmussen, more familiarly known as "Sammy" when she resided here several years ago, has developed into one of Grand Forks' top-flight feminine golfers is proven by the fact that she won the Grand Forks Lincoln Park women's title on Sunday by scoring a 5 and 4 win in the finals.

The Lincoln Park golf pro has stated that if Sammy had been given some lessons when she first began to play golf, so that she would have had an orthodox swing, she would be a first-rate golfer. The pro has endeavored to "orthodox" Mrs. Rasmussen's game, but on Sunday she reverted to her unorthodox style, with the result that she won a 5 to 4 victory.

It's a Small World

Lt. Douglas Booren and radioman Lynn Booren, sons of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Booren, agree that it's a big war but a small world, having met recently in the Southwest Pacific. Lt. Douglas, or "Dode", has been stationed at an army base in Guadalcanal, and when Lynn's merchant ship, the U. S. S. Richard Yates, called there a short while ago he was able to visit with Dode.

Cincinnati the "Tops"

When the locals ball game, scheduled to have been played here against Minto on Sunday, was called off because threshing operations prevented Minto from collecting enough players for a lineup, several of us, including Wally DuChamp, Gordy Reierson, Red Bossman, and Rube Rosendahl, were able to attend the sectional junior legion baseball tournament at Grand Forks.

On Sunday we witnessed the elimination of the Minneapolis Richfield team, when the Millers, after building up a 7 to 2 lead in the early innings, collapsed defensively and gave the Omaha Murphy's a 12 to 10 win. Bobby Fassbinder, Richfield's chunky little hurler, had the game won when his infield began to bobble the ball. Second baseman Slap Hullsten, playing with a split finger, had the misfortune to commit three vital errors, and his replacement, Larry Comer, booted the first chance he had, too. At that, though, some of the grand stand managers believe that if Richfield's coach, Fred Warburton, had put in his fast ball pitcher, Rog Landgren, in the 7th inning after Richfield had broken a 7-all tie to go into a 10 to 7 lead, the Millers might have won.

But even if victorious over Omaha, it's doubtful if Richfield could have accomplished much against the Bentley's of Cincinnati. The Ohio team, scoring their third straight win of the tournament when they defeated Omaha, 8 to 2, in the finals, had very good size, and appeared to be a fine defensive team. And they carried plenty of power at the plate, for in the Omaha game they clouted the southpaw slants of Gene Ferryman for 11 hits; and a further indication of their power is given by the box score, which reveals that the Omaha outfield made 9 putouts.

Herman Wehmeir, a righthander, pitched the final game, allowing but four hits and collecting 11 strikeouts. Wehmeir has a fine fast ball and a good curve; but he'll perhaps have some trouble in the national tournament at Minneapolis this week, for he has a tendency to be wild. He issued 8 bases on balls Monday evening, and he would have given up a couple more walks if the Omaha batsmen hadn't been too anxious to swing.

It was agreed that Richfield's shortstop, Roger Brown, a member of the west team in the recent All-American boy's game at New York, was the most polished player in the tournament.

Thief River Falls Men Escape from State Penal Camp

Werner and Albert Zavoral, brothers who had been convicted on burglary charges here two years ago and sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory for up to 5 years, escaped from a state penal camp at Moose Lake on August 13 in company with one other inmate. The trio were traced to St. Paul where they entered a home and outfitted themselves with civilian clothes. Prison authorities say the two young men had been transferred to the penal camp because of good behavior and that they were about to be paroled. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zavoral now living in Portland, Oregon.

Saw Action in Many Pacific Operations

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kielty, Robert, A. M. M. 1/c, stationed with the navy on an aircraft carrier, states that he had been given permission to tell the names of the places where his ship had taken part in war operations and they are Tarawa, Eniwetok, Kwajalein, Palau, Hollandia, Aitape, New Guinea, Saipan, Tinian, Guam, Rota, and many other islands in the South Pacific. Robert has been overseas since January.

War Booms Building

With the construction industry straining to turn out the required army and navy installations and war production facilities, new construction activity reached 13.8 billion dollars in 1942, the department of commerce announced. Construction expenditures during the year were the highest on record, exceeding the 1941 total by 2.5 billion dollars. All emphasis in 1942 was placed upon construction necessary to the war effort. Due to an almost insatiable demand for cantonments, air bases, ship ways, and other types of war construction, military and naval construction alone totaled 8 billion dollars in 1942, as compared with 2.1 billions a year earlier. In addition, new industrial facilities valued at 4 billion dollars were constructed in 1942, almost double the 1941 figure. The vast amount of new plant capacity built during the year is suggested by the fact that the total of industrial construction in 1942 alone exceeded the total for the whole decade of the 1930s.

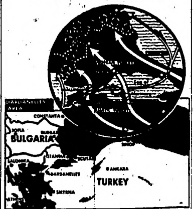
Turkey Breaks With Germany



After more than four years as a neutral, Turkey has broken relations with Germany. The Allies are expected to ask for and be granted bases from which to blast the Germans from the Aegean isles and to attack Nazi satellite countries. The Turkish army might then move against Bulgaria, whose border is reported strongly fortified.

Photographic Film to Continue Scarce, Says War Production Board

The War Production Board today announced that it will continue to authorize production of military amateur and professional photographic film to the full capacity of the industry, but explained that amateur photographers are not to infer from this that they will be able to obtain more film in the near future.

Film production in 1943, totalled 546,000,000 square feet, an increase of 30 per cent over the 1941 total and production is continuing at a high rate.

About 85 per cent of the film currently being produced by the eight companies in the industry is being used for war or war-connected purposes. Only about 15 per cent of total film production is being made available for professional and amateur photographers.

Since military requirements are expected to continue at a high level, a larger percentage of total production cannot be made available to civilians in the near future, W. A. McMillan, Fargo WPB district office manager, said.

LITTLE FAWN GETS SURGICAL ATTENTION

Fergus Falls.—A recent guest at the home of Game Warden Holland was a friendly little fawn who seemed to appreciate that there is kindness in the human heart, even though that kindness is lifted once a year when men are permitted to tote guns and shoot deer. His visit at the Holland home came about in this way: A Grant county lad running a mowing machine accidently cut off one of the animals legs. Almost heartbroken over the mishap he immediately sought Warden Holland who hurried the fawn to the animal hospital. Opiates were given, the stump of the leg dressed in good surgical fashion and properly bandaged. Now he's getting around on three legs in much better way than one would expect.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How Different Will be Post-war Homes?

Matt Doorty, our local carpenter, has been showing us architect's drawings of the kind of post-war houses that we're going to live in. Some of them look like squared-off dominoes; some are streamlined like they were going to fly. And they're all filled with fancy things like air-conditioning and what-not.

"Sure change our home life!" Matt says importantly.

"Shucks," says Dan Mason, "it isn't the shape of a house, or the gadgets in it, that make up your home life."

"What is it then?" says Matt.

"It's the little things," says Dan. "Like a well-worn chair before the fire—and a good book—and a friendly glass of beer after a hard day's work. Little things, that are a part of living."

From where I sit, Dan's absolutely right. And I think the men who dream of home from overseas agree—that it's the small, familiar pleasures, that add up to home.

1943 INCOME TAX REFUNDS NOW ARE BEING PROCESSED

Collector Arthur Reynolds Requests Public to be Patient

Declaring that every effort is being made to expedite refunds on 1943 income tax returns, Arthur D. Reynolds, collector of internal revenue, said refund checks are being mailed to taxpayers of the Minnesota district at the rate of 10,000 per week.

"To every taxpayer of this district who is entitled to a refund on his 1943 return, I would like to say," Collector Reynolds stated, "your refund is being processed as rapidly as possible. I cannot tell you exactly when your refund will come through, because it might be today and it might not be for a few months. But I can promise you that you will be paid interest at the rate of six per cent per year for every month your refund is delayed after March 15.

"Throughout the country we have about 18,000,000 refunds to make. In each case the return must be compared with employers' withholding tax receipts and other documents. In many cases, returns contain errors that must be corrected.

"This involves a tremendous amount of work that must be done with a comparatively small staff, due to wartime manpower shortages. Obviously, the entire 18,000,000 refunds cannot be completed at the same time, and some taxpayers must wait another few months.

"However, a million checks are being distributed every three weeks and as you can see that, in your case, you may get your refund fairly soon."

Collector Reynolds suggested that taxpayers refrain from writing letters to inquire about their refunds, because in fairness to all taxpayers, the checks are being written in the order in which they are mechanically processed, and it is impossible to determine the status of any individual case without disrupting and slowing up the whole procedure.

However, if a taxpayer has changed his address since he filed his return, he should advise the collector of both his old and new addresses.

Accidents are mistakes — too costly and too unnecessary to be excused.

Argentine Oil Output Grows; Aids Industries

Argentina's growing oil production now provides a bulwark of economic strength, helping to sustain its industries and transportation system in the face of wartime difficulties of importing fuel from overseas sources.

The nation is now filling almost half of its present petroleum requirements from its own wells. The value of this oil to Argentine industry has increased because of the shrinkage in imports of coal.

Like other countries of South America, Argentina has been dependent on outside sources for coal and some of its oil. Unlike Brazil however, Argentina has an oil production that has been increasing steadily for more than 20 years.

Argentina, second in area and population and first in per capita wealth among the 10 South American republics, stands ninth among the oil-producing nations of the world. The countries exceeding Argentina in the order of volume of production are the United States, Venezuela, the Soviet Union, Iran, the Netherlands East Indies (prior to Japanese invasion, Rumania, Mexico and Colombia.

Colorful Shine Stand

Decorative is the word for Joe Milone's shoeshine stand—and decorative it will remain, for the part-time bootblack announced that "even if President Roosevelt wanted a shine, well—just once is O. K., I guess."

"The world's most beautiful stand," is now on display at the Museum of Modern Art in New York. It is a gaily bedecked four-piece affair, consisting of a red, white and blue bar chair with a batik seat, a polish box, an extra stand for the customer's idle foot and a plush covered stool for the bootblack "when there are no customers." Milone made it from baubles collected over many years. Alfred H. Barr Jr., director of the museum, described the set as "festive as a Christmas tree, jubilant as a circus wagon . . . Like a lavish wedding cake, a baroque shrine . . . a superbly useless object without price." Strangely enough, the thing Milone hates most in this world is shining shoes. He's a laundry presser.

Home Garden Can Add to Rationed Food Supply

The family that has been growing its own garden can continue to provide a good share of its own food without regard to the rationing of canned goods and other products. The family that has not grown a garden but has the spare time, the land, and the desire to grow some of its own food can also contribute to its own food supply in 1943.

Winter is a good time to plan the garden to be ready for the first days of spring planting, to get seeds and tools, and to get plans for plowing ready well ahead of time.

A plan on paper saves time when the grower is ready to plant. The plan may be a detailed map of the garden drawn to scale, or it may be merely a list of the crops that are to be grown, the number of feet of row of each one, and the probable planting date for each.

Small-growing crops such as carrots, beets, lettuce and radishes should be grouped on one side of the garden away from the large-growing crops such as cabbage, corn and tomatoes. Perennial crops such as asparagus, rhubarb and berries should be at one side of the garden also, where they will not be disturbed by plowing.

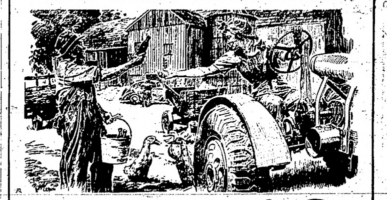
Have a Coca-Cola = Let's work refreshed



. . . or a helping hand on the farm

Helping to feed America means long hours in the fields . . . endless tasks to perform. All the more welcome, then, is the friendly pause for an ice-cold Coca-Cola. Have a "Coke", says a farm companion, and it means Let's work refreshed. In country home or city dwelling, frosty bottles of "Coke" belong in the icebox. Across America, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—a symbol of kindly hospitality.

G. I. LAW PROVIDES FOR EDUCATION OF U. S. SERVICE MEN

New Federal Legislation Includes Many Liberal Provisions

"Earn while learning" would be a suitable caption for Title 2 of the so-called G. I. bill, recently enacted into law by the 78th congress.

Title 2 of the law provides for education or training of eligible persons who entered military service on or after Sept. 16, 1940, and who will become members of the militay forces before the war's termination. And while they are attending school or serving apprenticeship they will receive monthly allotments, the basic amounts being $50 per month if single and $75 per month if there are dependents — wife, children, mother or father.

Individuals taking apprentice training on the job and for persons part time training in institutions will receive some wages and it is anticipated the government allowance to those persons will bring the total monthly amount up to the $50 or $75 figure, says C. T. Hoverson, manager of the Veterans administration at Fargo.

Those financially able may attend school either on a part-time or full-time basis without receiving the subsistence allowance.

Persons eligible for the educational program must have been discharged from service under conditions that were not dishonorable, said Mr. Hoverson.

The individual must have served 90 days exclusive of any period of time he was assigned in the army specialized training program or the navy college training program, and any time served as a midshipman or a cadet at one of the service academies.

If the individual served less than 90 days, to be eligible he must have been discharged for disability which was actually a result of his military service.

Application for the educational training must be made within two years after the discharge or at the termination of the war, whichever is later, and no training will be granted which will extend more than seven years after the war's termination.

Under provisions of the law, it is presumed that persons who were not more than 25 years of age at the time they entered service on or after September 16, 1940, hav had their education or training impeded, delayed, interrupted or interfered with, said Mr. Hoverson. Persons more than 25 years of age must prove, he said, that their education was disrupted.

Persons qualifying for the program will be placed in training for one year. If their work is satisfactory, they may be granted additional training to the extent of their actual period of military service, but no course of training may be granted for a period of more than four years.

Persons over 25 years of age when they entered service and who are not able to prove that their education was impeded in some manner, may be entitled to a year of education or training as a refresher or retraining course.

The law provides that the individual can select the school, the course of study and he may change that course with the approval of the Veterans Administration.

The Veterans administration will pay the school the costs of tuition, laboratory, library, health and infirmary and other similar fees ordinarily charged other students. In addition, the cost of books, supplies and equipment required at the school will be paid by the Veterans administration. Total costs may not exceed $500 a year, exclusive of the subsistence pay to the veteran.

Persons who desire vocational advisement may receive such at the Veterans administration facility at Fargo. However, the administration will pay no transportation or other costs incident to reporting to the facility, said Mr. Hoverson.

Application blanks may be obtained from the Veterans administration at Fargo or from service officers of veterans organizations —American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, Red Cross Chapters and from schools.

U. S. Becoming 'Have Not'; Department Is Suggested

Because the United States is rapidly becoming a "have not" in its critical mineral reserves, a federal department of mineral industries to co-ordinate the activities of production, utilization, and conservation of our mineral supply was urged recently by Dean Edward Steidle of the school of mineral industries at the Pennsylvania State college.

Haiti Helps America

Increased production of sisal in Haiti for the United States market is helping replace former supply sources in the Far East and at the same time provide a welcome source of foreign exchange to help offset loss of European markets for coffee, sugar and cotton. The department of commerce reports Haitian exports of sisal more than doubled in the last few years, rising from about 12,500,000 pounds in the 1936 crop year to 25,535,000 pounds last season. The strategic importance of sisal for war uses has increased with naval and merchant marine demand for ropes and twines, made in large part from sisal.

Counterfeiters Made Good

In ancient times the very practical Chinese, confronted with the problem of what to do with people convicted for making counterfeit money, decided it was a shame to waste their talents, so they put them to work in the mint making legitimate money. Slaves were owned not only by wealthy individuals privately, but the government itself held many to perform various services. The bureaucracy of the government, insofar as minor functionaries was concerned, was composed largely of slaves, rather than of the type of "payrollers" with which modern governments are sometimes charged by opposition parties.

SICK SHEEP

A great many sheep are dying from a disease contracted from grazing on wet or marshy pastures.

Death may occur after an illness of only a few days and without any symptoms that can be definitely attributed to any particular disease.

Sheep suffering from the chronic form of this disease are easily fatigued when driven. As the disease progresses the gait becomes stiff, loss of condition becomes more marked, swellings develop under the jaw and they become pot-bellied. The mouth, eyes and along the backbone will be pale and anemic.

This disease requires a specific treatment that is exceptionally effective. It is easy to give and is inexpensive. However, this treatment must be given before the advanced stages of the disease. For further particulars see us.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

Carol, and Miss Emma Dostal.

Red Cross News Notes — — — —

The Red Cross Advisory Board has its regular meeting next Wednesday evening, August 30, at 8 o'clock in Herman A. Kjos' office.

There are only seven days left to fill our quota of surgical dressings and seven thousand dressings yet to be made. That means a thousand a day and we will never make it with our present volunteer help. 875 dressings was our best day, so we need at least five more workers each day to help make the quota. If two extra volunteers will come out each day next week and each one will bring a friend, we think we can make it. We are depending on you. If a ten cent lunch isn't served the day you volunteer to help, make a party with a group of friends and have coffee somewhere else.

Do You Know?—Over 8,500,000 pints of blood have been collected by the American Red Cross from volunteer doners for the processing into plasma for the army and navy.

Approximately 235 tons of medical, laboratory and hospital supplies from the American Red Cross have been flown into China during the last six months.

American Red Cross services to service men and their families expanded more than 298 per cent in the first year of the war.

Over 10,000 British women war workers are serving as volunteers in American Red Cross service clubs in the British Isles.

Each American prisoner of war in Europe may receive 60 pounds of books per year at the rate of five pounds per month.

Highway Employees Set Safety Record

Reversing the general trend in motor vehicle accidents, the number of accidents involving motorized equipment operated by Minnesota Highway Department employees was cut in half in the first six months of 1944, according to a Highway bulletin. There were only 37 accidents, compared to 82 in the same months of 1943.

Thirteen of the 16 highway maintenance districts in the State finished the half-year with perfect records in the Department's annual safety contest. While employees were absolved of primary responsibility for all of the 37 accidents, in one accident in each of three districts an employee was charged with contributory negligence.

LAND O LAKES

"I took the Cure!"

"It was last Thursday afternoon that I started being a good girl—I mean about using the party line telephone.

"Four of us were playing cards . . . and talking. It was Mrs. Malone who said, "Helen, you've got an awful gabber on your party line. I tried to call you five times yesterday and the line was always busy. I'd raise the dickens if I were you."

"I gulped. The folks on our party line live just back of us and they had been away for more than a week. The "awful gabber" was me.

"Right then I decided to use my share of the party line a lot differently. Now I limit my calls to five minutes and never make a steady string of them. I hope my party line neighbor has noticed the difference. I'm really trying."

Ability and Responsibility

When a particularly tough and important job comes along, it usually lands in the lap of someone who is already doing a lot of other jobs well.

People like this—who are used to getting results—aren't too plentiful. They need to have both ability and a sense of responsibility. One alone won't do—for ability can sometimes be misdirected, and a sense of responsibility without ability can lead to troublesome meddling.

It's men with this combination of talents who have been carrying a heavy load on the home front these past few years. On the farm and in industry they've been meeting—and solving—the difficult wartime problems of production.

After the war is won, somebody must shoulder the equally big job of getting this nation back into peacetime production, of laying the groundwork for the better and more prosperous America we all want. This is a challenge, and an opportunity, for the producers of America—for the men and women who have a sense of responsibility and have shown their ability to get things done. *General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Frowning to SEE!

The faces of many attractive and intelligent women are marred by faulty eyesight. As they read, or play cards, or look at anyone, they unconsciously furrow their foreheads in an effort to see better.

Work and read easily; save yourself from unnecessary frowns and fatigue. Have your eyesight examined periodically—corrected when necessary.

Home Dehydrator

An economical dehydrator has been designed for home use by Orzin Hale of Seattle, publisher of a magazine. Biggest problem of constructing the cabinet—warping—because of the large amounts of moisture and heat necessary to dry the fruit and vegetables, was solved by the application of two coats of synthetic resin sealer. Blueprints of the dehydrator are available from the designer.

MANPOWER TO FILL WAR NEEDS BEFORE CIVILIAN OUTPUT

Civilian Production in State Must Wait, Urgency Committee Rules

With 16,825 unfilled essential jobs in Minnesota, expanded civilian production will not be authorized in the near future.

War production jobs for 14,129 men and 2,696 women, as of August 1, must be filled before new items for civilian use will be authorized by the Minnesota Production Urgency Committee according to its chairman, Carl W. Jones, deputy regional WPB director.

This committee, made up of war agency heads, has taken formal action against authorizing civilian production until:

1. War manpower needs are met.
2. Holders of war contracts have ample material.
3. There are no war contracts that could be handled by plants asking for authority to expand civilian production.

The extent to which civilian production in this state may be instituted, the committee has ruled, hinges on the urgency of unfilled war contracts. Until such contracts are provided with reasonably adequate manpower, civilian production will "just have to wait."

Data as to unfilled war jobs comes from the War Manpower Commission, of which Dreng Bjornaras is state director.

Protein Meal Will be Made Available Through County A.A.A.

Protein meal for September delivery will be available through County AAA Committees, according to Chairman, Carl R. Anderson, Pennington County AAA.

The War Food Administration has ordered all processors of soybeans and flaxseed to set aside 20 per cent of their September production of oilseed meal for distribution through County AAA Committees. Mr. Anderson said that any feeder or dealer who needs either soybean meal or linseed meal should contact the County AAA office at once and advise them of his needs.

The State AAA Chairman informed Mr. Anderson that some of the meal would be diverted to areas where crop damage from hail storms and flood has resulted in a critical feed shortage.

Evergreens and Conifers

Evergreens, as the name is commonly used, refer to plants which retain their green leaves throughout the year. All the leaves are not shed at one time but they gradually drop as they become overshadowed or crowded. In some instances the same leaves persist for 15 years. In contrast to evergreens, deciduous plants are those which shed their leaves each year. There is a difference, however, between evergreens and conifers or cone-bearing plants. Some conifers are deciduous such as the larches and cypress. There are also many broad-leaved evergreens which are not conifers, as rhododendrons, holly and the palms.

Tunisian Port of Bizerte At Mediterranean Narrows

Geography and modern harbor development have made the Tunisian port of Bizerte one of the most significant positions along the entire Mediterranean front. It overlooks the central Mediterranean "narrows" between Europe and North Africa: it is only about 120 miles from Italian Sardinia on the northwest, and 150 miles from Italian Sicily on the northeast. Moreover, land and water formation about it provides conditions that are particularly favorable for its use as a naval base. Bizerte has, in effect, three harbors. The outer harbor is artificially protected by jetties thrust into the Mediterranean sea. From it a narrow canal leads inland to the Bay of Sebra, which in turn opens into Bizerte lake, a deep, 50-square mile expanse of water that offers anchorage for the largest fleets of battleships, cruisers, submarines, flying boats, and the rest. Although the canal represents a bottleneck, the lake has the wartime advantage of being, at places, some ten miles from the entrance to the port.

A DEFENSE SAVING STAMP FOR EACH SOLDIER VISIT

Chaska. — Whenever a service man on furlough steps into the Carver County war price and rationing board office at Chaska, he is unknowingly doing something for his Uncle Sam. All workers in the office have pledged to buy a defense savings stamp for every call from a service man. Because of the requests for gasoline and food rations during furloughs and leaves, such callers are quite numerous.

"We are mighty proud of our staff of six clerks in the Carver county office who originated this patriotic idea," says Emil O. Teske, board chairman. "If similar offices throughout the country were to adopt the plan this simple little gesture would become a great help to bond sales."

VIKING SOLDIER IS AWARDED HIGH HONOR FOR VALOR

Pfc. Leonard Peterson Wins Distinguished Service Cross in Normandy

Pfc. Leonard C. Peterson of Viking, bazooka gunner with a parachute infantry regiment, recently was awarded the distinguished service cross in recognition of his exploits in Normandy on D-Day, European headquarters announced Saturday.

When the unit to which he was attached had completed its mission, it had destroyed eight enemy tanks, some cannon and had taken 364 prisoners. The group with which Pfc. Peterson was serving took up a position at the bridge across the Merderet river outside the village of St. Mere, and Peterson held the bridge despite counter-attacks.

Artillery fire rained down and Peterson prepared for one attack. Soon it came. Tanks began coming across the marsh toward the bridge.

When they got to within 100 yards they took up the road. Peterson let them come on. When the leading tank was about 30 yards away he opened fire. The tank burst into flames.

Peterson despite wounds continued pouring fire at the tanks until he had knocked out three and the others had withdrawn.

LIONS CLUB HEARS TALKS ON POSTWAR PROJECTS IN CITY

New Filtration Plant No. 1 Local Need, Says Paul Lundgren

Guest speakers at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon in the Palm Garden cafe were Paul A. Lundgren, chairman of the recently organized local post-war planning board, and Albert Kertzman, Winona dredging contractor.

Stating that the construction of new and enlarged filtration plant facilities is the No. 1 project for Thief River Falls after the war, Mr. Lundgren stressed the necessity, in that connection, of dredging out of the river pool of the silt that has accumulated there over a long period of years.

In addition to enlarging greatly the storage capacity of the pool above the dam, Mr. Lundgren stated, the material to be removed would make possible the utilization of low land areas along the river, while a large amount could be used on the old millyard property. Plans, he emphasized, are still in a tentative state.

Mr. Kertzman told of projects similar to the local one that his company has carried out in Albert Lea and other Northwest cities, and also described briefly the operation of a suction dredge, which he said frequently moves dirt thru discharged pipes for distances greater than a half a mile.

The speakers were introduced by Bill LaFave.

Payments will be made to those who have had 90 days or more of active service or who were discharged sooner because of a service connected disability.

GIVES PUPILS CHANCE TO HELP PICK SPUDS

Entire Faculty Will Attend Meeting Next Monday Evening

With a complete faculty, with one exception, ready to report for duty, and with all buildings and equipment in first-class condition, the Thief River Falls public schools will open for the fall term next Tuesday morning, September 5, Supt. Philip L. Fjelsted announced today. The only missing teacher will be Miss Myrtle Forster, sixth grade instructor in the Northrop school, who will be delayed a week, having sustained a minor injury.

While junior and senior high school students will report for classes Tuesday morning at the regular hour of 9 o'clock, they will, starting Wednesday and continuing for a period of approximately three weeks, attend classes starting at 8 o'clock in the morning and continuing straight thru to one o'clock when they will be dismissed, giving them an opportunity to help pick potatoes or do other work on farms in this locality. Class sessions will be 45 minutes instead of the usual 55.

Action to change the schedule in this manner was taken at the request of a committee including County Agent Ernest Palmer, Russell E. Olson, manager of the local employment office; Ray Pope, manager of the Crookston U. S. employment office; and Carl Ash, West Polk county agent.

The committee, which stated that the opening of the East Grand Forks schools has been deferred until October 2, reported that the potato acreage in both Pennington and Marshall counties is substantially larger this year than a year ago.

Mr. Fjelsted expressed the hope that, with the adoption of this temporary schedule, residents of the rural areas would cooperate by permitting their children to start school on the opening day of the term.

At the same time he issued an urgent appeal to all high school boys and girls to return to school this fall "to prepare for a future in which education will have an even more important role than it has had in the past." High school students, he added, will injure themselves and their country unless they get all of the education they possibly can.

All children entering the seventh grade, junior high school next week will assemble in the Lincoln school auditorium Saturday morning of this week at 9 o'clock to receive preliminary instructions from W. G. Claffy and Miss Lyda Hatten, respectively senior and junior high school principals.

Following a meeting of high school teachers with W. G. Claffy, principal, Monday afternoon, a general meeting of all faculty members will be held in the evening, after which members of the board of education and their wives will be hosts at an informal reception in the home economics suite.

Mr. Fjelsted reminded parents of beginning pupils that in order to enter kindergarten children must be five years old on or before January 1, 1945, and must be six years old on or before that date in order to enter the first grade. Pupils in the Knox school district will have their choice of either a morning or afternoon kindergarten session, while at Northrop school sessions will be held in the morning only, and at Washington school in the afternoon only.

High School Teacher Training Departments Note 50th Anniversary

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the Minnesota high school teacher training departments. Miss Mayme J. Schow, supervisor, the teacher training instructors and their guests, Dr. Julius Bornas, Commissioner of Education Dean Schweickhard, Supt. Ralph Reeder, County Supt. Harold G. Diepenbrock, and a graduate to represent each decade in the half century of the departments, will celebrate this golden anniversary Friday, Sept. 1, at a 1:15 luncheon in the Women's City Club, St. Paul.

No one can say, just when the idea of using high schools for the training of rural school teachers in Minnesota began. The first mention of the work, which appears to be the beginning of our teacher training departments, was made by George B. Aiton, inspector of state high schools, in his annual report for the school year ending July 1, 1895. Since the session of 1894-1895, the state legislature has made appropriations to such high schools as offer work in teacher training.

Teacher training departments reached their height in professional growth and achievement under the guidance of the late H. E. Flynn, who supervised them from May, 1918 to June 1928. The principles of organization and conduct under which these departments have served the cause of education in rural schools of Minnesota were developed at this time and have stood the test through the years.

One of the biggest crowds in fair history is expected the three last days of the fair. A new world's record by Royal American Shows on the midway is predicted.

Fire Loss

We burned about a million dollars a day in 1943 in fires that destroyed war supplies, factories, essential raw materials, homes of war workers and other losses that directly or indirectly handicapped the war effort. Think of that dreadful loss at this time of supreme effort. The cause—chiefly sheer carelessness or neglect of safety conditions.

A PATRIOTIC MOTHER JOINS BLOOD DONORS

Walker.—Praise to Mrs. Anna Bolon, a busy farm mother, living 10½ miles west of Pine River, who trudged the long weary distance, every foot of it, into the village at dawn to join a bus load of village blood donors going to St. Cloud. Mrs. Bolon has three boys in service, two of her own boys overseas, and the third an adopted soldier, a lad she met on a bus in the west. After this lad confided to her that he had no home to return to, having been raised in an institution, she decided to adopt him. Now, each week she writes three letters to her three sons.

Explains Cooperative Program in High School

Local business firms will be interested in the cooperative education program to be operated this winter by the public schools of Thief River Falls. This is a new program and one of considerable interest to local business firms. Wilbur Keeling, coordinator, this week answered the following questions relating to the project.

What does the local employer gain by this program?

1. He can secure part-time assistance during the school year.

2. He may retain workers upon completion of the course; he will secure workers with more knowledge of the business than he can secure otherwise.

3. He will be in a position to secure workers with a background of training in the occupation; many of these workers will have a better knowledge of the occupation than will his regular workers who have not been trained.

4. He will help in keeping young people in the community.

In what fields can the program operate?

1. In any field of work where the employer will cooperate in the training and where there are students interested in the work.

2. To begin with, most of the students will work in offices, and in wholesale or retail firms, although others may be added.

The cooperative program operates as follows:

1. Senior high school students, either boys or girls above 16 years of age may arrange their program to take a practical business or trade course and work in local business firms during part of the school day. They will generally work a minimum of 20 hours a week on the average.

2. The cooperating employer under this program helps in training the worker and gives at least the training given any new worker.

3. The school supplements this training by working with the employer on training problems and by helping to make the student more efficient.

4. Students must be paid for their work; and are subject to the same regulations that apply to regular full time workers. They do not expect special favors because they are students.

5. Students remaining through the school year in one place of business, although adjustments and changes will be made in the event of unsatisfactory placement. These adjustments can generally be worked out in conference with the coordinator.

6. The coordinator, a member of the school faculty, works with the employer, the student, and the school in helping provide instructional material and in helping solve problems as they arise.

Further information and answers to questions regarding the program may be secured from the school superintendent, the principal, or from Wilbur Keeling, the coordinator.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Let's All Pretend

Dressed in an old trailing chiffon evening gown, over-size black elbow-length gloves, and her feet clogging along in an old pair of white high-heels, five-year-old Janice appears in the doorway with her friend, equally gaily attired, and announces that they, as rich ladies, are planning a tea in the yard, and would mother like to come.

Billy's imagination leads him into pretending he is any one of the animals at the zoo, most often, the lion. He seems to think when he acts like one, he also looks like one, and that everybody should be afraid of him. In much of his play, he is not himself—he's somebody else—the milkman, the fireman, a pilot, a robber, a doctor, or an animal.

Some mothers that Janice and her friend might have invited would have said, "You silly little girls! You can at least stay out and play by yourself if you must act so foolishly." Many others would have replied: "So you're having tea! Thank you for the invitation, but I'm busy right now. You run along and have it yourselves, and maybe I can come next time." A small minority would have replied: "You're having tea! Why, I'd be delighted to come! What time are you serving?"

Billy would have gotten somewhat the same types of response had he approched all parents as a lion. Some would have belittled his make-believe, others would have smiled but otherwise remained uninterested. A precious few would have acted as afraid of him as a real lion.

Imagination expressed in make-believe play or in fanciful stories is a valuable asset possessed in varying degrees by all children. The child's actual experiences are very limited, but through imaginative play, they can realize feelings and states that will never be known to them through actual experience. Personality qualities that are present in the person or animal that they are imitating are called out in themselves. Janice in her gown felt something of the dignity and station of a real lady, a feeling she would never have in ordinary play clothes. When Billy goes to the zoo, he is just so much more able to "understand" the lion's nature. Without imagination it would be impossible to practice even the golden rule—one couldn't realize how the other person felt.

Not less important is the fact that the world's creative work is done by persons whose active imaginations can carry them into new and unexplored realms. They are able to take the common elements—gloves, gowns and slippers—, rearrange them, and make something entirely new and beautiful.

Encourage any expression of imagination in your children by entering into their play with them. Use your imagination too! Be afraid of the lion. And you will get some of the thrill that the children experience. Keeping the child's imagination active will not only enable him to occasionally transcend cold reality, but maybe someday to make significant contributions to society.

PREPARED

Among the people filing into an air-raid shelter was an old man. In one hand he carried a long-handled shovel to deal with incendiaries, and under the other arm he had an old-fashioned harp, presumably for entertainment.

"Lumme!" said one shelterer to another, "there's a fellow who's ready to go either way."

Not Interested?

Smith—You pride yourself on being able to judge a woman's character by her clothes. What would be your verdict on that lady in the evening dress over there?

No Smoking!

Foreman—Bill, is that cigarette on the floor yours?

Bill—No. Not at all. You saw it first!

STATE POPULATION DECLINES 268,252 SINCE APRIL, 1940

Inductions into Army, Navy, Exodus of War Workers Responsible

Population of Minnesota decreased 268,252 from April 1940, to November, 1943, the census bureau reported Monday in a survey of population shifts throughout the U.S.

Estimated civilian population of the state April 1, 1940 was 2,791,933, but by last Nov. 1 it had shrunk to 2,523,681, following a trend that was general throughout the Midwest and South.

Civilian migration cost the state 191,964 residents in the three years covered by the survey, and net loss to the armed services (the difference between the number of men and women inducted and the number discharged from service) was 188,026.

In the same period births in the state exceeded deaths by 111,738, partially offsetting losses through migration and induction.

The national survey showed all Pacific coast states and most of the Central Atlantic coast states from Virginia to Massachusetts gained population during the three years, as did the industrial states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. California led the advance with a population increase of 1,018,955.

GOLD RING IN PEACH FOUND AT MOORHEAD

Moorhead. — "There's gold in them thar' peaches from California," Mrs. J. D. Petersen has discovered. Eating a big luscious peach Mrs. Peterson found a plain gold wedding ring deeply embedded in the skin of it. The supposition is that the ring slipped from a packer's finger and had been driven into the fruit during the shipping. Any Californian who can prove his initials are P. G. P., the ones engraved in the ring, may have the band by contacting the finder.

DOGGIE POTATO

Windom.—Oddest of all freak vegetables is the potato grown in Milo Nelson's garden. The spud has legs, tail and a head and has a definite dog-like appearance. The grower suggests the vine was frightened by a neighbor's dog in its infancy.

PROFITS OF SMALL LOAN COMPANIES IN STATE REDUCED

Limitation on Activities Is Result of State Law Passed in 1939

—Decreased profits as result of operation of Minnesota's small loan law have forced 27 per cent of such lending agencies out of business.

F. A. Amundson, state commissioner of banks, has revealed that the number of licensees under the small loan law has decreased from 88 in 1939, when state supervision began, to 64 at the end of 1943.

Net earnings of the 64 institutions for 1943 averaged 4.49 per cent.

Forty-five of the companies are operating in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, and only 19 in smaller cities throughout the state.

Enacted to curb loan sharks who for years had been preying upon the poor in larger industrial centers, the small loan law has sharply reduced the costs of necessary borrowing on unsecured notes.

Without collateral, and often desperately in need of money, such borrowers in years gone by were forced to repay from three to ten times the amount they had borrowed. Now the maximum charge, including interest, investigation and all other costs, is limited to 3 per cent monthly on the unpaid balance. Many companies have reduced charges 2½ and 2 per cent on loans in excess of $150. The average rate actually collected in 1943 was 2.8 per cent. Loans are limited to $300.

More than half of the 121,111 loans made in 1943 were for $100 or less, and more than half of these were for $50 or less, Amundson reported, showing that the law is operating to meet the needs of small borrowers. The average cost of borrowing $50 for six months under the small loan law is $5.25.

Sensations of Heat or Cold

The Federal Housing administration, in answer to a question: "Do colors have anything to do with sensations of heat and cold?" replies:

"An example of the sensibility of human beings to color is cited in a recent issue of a magazine. The color of an office was changed from a cheerful yellow to a light blue. When the colder season arrived, the employees complained of being cold, although the temperature was maintained at 72 degrees. The yellow paint was then restored as an experiment, and it was found that everyone was comfortable at the same 72 degree temperature."

A helpful hint for coping with fuel shortages and reduced temperatures in wartime!

Jig-Saws Save Metal

A technique of "cutting out paper dolls" and making "jig-saw puzzles" of them is helping to solve one of war industry's toughest problems —the scarcity of vital materials. Thousands of parts cut from flat sections of scarce metals go into small motors, huge turbines and other complex electric apparatus contributing to the motive and firing power of weapons of war. Many of these parts are made from flat stock sheets. Some are simple circles, some are triangular and others have unusual shapes resembling stars, banjos or top hats. A few are as complex as the microscopic pattern of a snowflake. But when laid out for cutting from stock sheets all must be nested so closely together that only a narrow strip of metal will remain as scrap.

Use Glandular Meats

Glandular meats should play an important part in the meat diet because of their value as sources of minerals and vitamins. The butchering season is a good time to use these nutritious meats freely and thereby save on beef and pork that can be packed for the armed forces. Liver is especially valuable as a food for children because it contains large quantities of iron, some copper, and a rich supply of vitamins A and B. Kidneys rank next to liver in iron content and are a good source of vitamins A, B, and G.

TRAFFIC DEATHS UP 48 PER CENT 1ST HALF OF YEAR

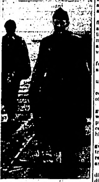
Minnesota Still Has Better Record than Most of States

Traffic fatalities in Minnesota were 48 per cent higher in the first half of 1944 than in the same months in 1943, while the average increase for all states was only 10 per cent, according to reports by the National Safety Council.

The increase, while serious, is not as alarming as it might appear, because Minnesota had an exceptionally good record in the first half of 1943, fatalities being nearly 60 per cent below the number in the same months of 1942.

In spite of the increase in 1944, Minnesota still has a better record than the average state. The fatality rate per 100,000 population in the first half of 1944 was 11.4 compared to a 16.1 national average. The rate per 100,000 vehicle miles of travel was 7.4 compared to a national average of 11.2.

French Commander



Gen. Jacques Le Clerc is in command of the French troops, who have gone into action against the Germans in France for the first time since the 1940 armistice. The troops, many veterans of North Africa, landed on the Normandy beaches.

Wound Treatment

A problem which baffled physicians for years was that of wounds slow in healing. Spectacular progress has been made in treating these slow-healing wounds with carbamide, a compound synthesized by chemists from the nitrogen of the air.

Carbamide does not instantly kill germs, yet germs begin to disappear when it is used. It is not a cleanser in the ordinary sense, yet slow-healing wounds treated with carbamide seem to clean themselves. Apparently the chemical works by stimulating the growth of healthy tissue. It has been used with success in treating infected burns and a large variety of skin infections, and has been found to soften scar tissue. Moreover, it is readily available and quite inexpensive, so that people suffering from infections may fill a whole bathtub with carbamide solution and literally bathe in it, of course, according to the directions of a physician.

ALLOWANCES WILL BE PAID TO UNEMPLOYED WORLD WAR II VETS

Allowances will be paid for 24 weeks or more up to 52 weeks. The qualifying period of service begins Sept. 16, 1940, and continues to the termination of the present war.

Claims may be filed at any office of the United States employment service. Veterans who were former employees of railroads and are covered by the Railroad Retirement Board will be paid allowances through that agency.

Veterans will have two years after the date of their discharge or the termination of hostilities in which to qualify for allowances. Eligibility requirements are as follows:

1. The veteran must be able to work and be available for suitable work;
2. He must be registered with and make weekly reports to a public employment office;
3. To receive the maximum of $20.00 a week, he must be completely unemployed having performed no service and received no wages during such week; or
4. The wages he has received for services performed for less than a full week are less than $23.00, in which case his weekly allowance will be reduced by the amount of his wages, less $3.00.

If a veteran becomes ill after filing a claim for readjustment allowances, he will still be entitled to benefits. Physicians must certify each week for which allowances are made as to the veteran's incapacity to work.

A veteran will be disqualified for weekly readjustment allowances if:

1. He quits suitable work voluntarily without good cause, or
2. He is suspended or discharged for misconduct in the course of his employment, or
3. He fails to apply, without good cause, for suitable work to which he has been referred by a public employment office or to accept suitable work when offered him, or
4. He does not attend, without good cause, an available free training course, as required by regulations issued by the Veterans Administration, or
5. If he is participating in or directly interested in a labor dispute, which causes a stoppage of work at the plant at which he was last employed.

MUSKRAT PUTS WHITE "V" ON HIS BACK

Grand Rapids.—Instead of growing fur uniformly brown in color as muskrats usually do, one little fellow who lived near Squaw Lake while on this earth went all out for victory with two pure white stripes down his back to form a perfect "V". George Kanen, local fur dealer, has bought thousands of muskrats but claims he has never seen one like this. Fur buyers in the east to whom he sold the hide claim in the millions of muskrat hides they have handled this is the most unusual one they have ever had.

Clearing the Way for Yanks

The engineers do their part, and it is usually a dangerous and hard part. The men of this American engineer unit are shown combing the streets of Lessay, France, in the hunt for mines. Making the roads safe for the Allied advance in France is only one of the jobs of these engineers. Hundreds of bridges must be rebuilt for the advance.

STATE POPULATION DECLINES 268,252 SINCE APRIL, 1940

Inductions into Army, Navy, Exodus of War Workers Responsible

Population of Minnesota decreased 268,252 from April 1940, to November, 1943, the census bureau reported Monday in a survey of population shifts throughout the U.S.

Estimated civilian population of the state April 1, 1940 was 2,791,933, but by last Nov. 1 it had shrunk to 2,523,681, following a trend that was general throughout the Midwest and South.

Civilian migration cost the state 191,964 residents in the three years covered by the survey, and net loss to the armed services (the difference between the number of men and women inducted and the number discharged from service) was 188,026.

In the same period births in the state exceeded deaths by 111,738, partially offsetting losses through migration and induction.

The national survey showed all Pacific coast states and most of the Central Atlantic coast states from Virginia to Massachusetts gained population during the three years, as did the industrial states of Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. California led the advance with a population increase of 1,018,955.

VALLEY GARDEN SOCIETY STAGES NEWFOLDEN SHOW

Harold Thomforde, Crookston, Wins Grand Championship Trophy

The garden societies of the Red River Valley held two successful district flower shows at Middle River and Halstad. The shows were held under the auspices of the Ninth District Horticultural Society in cooperation with the local garden clubs and the Red River Development association.

Harold Thomforde of Crookston won the grand championship trophy presented by C. M. Peek of Crookston with a score of 33 points. Mrs. E. W. Anderson of Newfolden, winner of sweepstakes at the Middle River show, was reserve champion with 32 points. Mrs. Harry Cook of Newfolden won the L. H. Oftedahl trophy for the best display of prize-winning gladiolus with Mrs. E. W. Anderson of Newfolden as reserve champion, and Harold Thomforde of Crookston receiving honorable mention.

E. M. Hunt, extension horticulturist from University Farm, St. Paul, was judge of the two district shows and speaker at the regional meetings. Other speakers included T. M. McCall, superintendent of the Northwest School and experiment station, and C. M. Peek of Crookston, president of the Ninth District Association.

GOLD RING IN PEACH FOUND AT MOORHEAD

Moorhead. — "There's gold in them thar' peaches from California," Mrs. J. D. Peterson has discovered. Eating a big luscious peach Mrs. Peterson found a plain gold wedding ring deeply embedded in the skin of it. The supposition is that the ring slipped from a packer's finger and had been driven into the fruit during the shipping. Any Californian who can prove his initials are P. G. P., the ones engraved in the ring, may have the band by contacting the finder.

PROFITS OF SMALL LOAN COMPANIES IN STATE REDUCED

Limitation on Activities Is Result of State Law Passed in 1939

Decreased profits as result of operation of Minnesota's small loan law have forced 27 per cent of such lending agencies out of business.

F. A. Amundson, state commissioner of banks, has revealed that the number of licensees under the small loan law has decreased from 88 in 1939, when state supervision began, to 64 at the end of 1943.

Net earnings of the 64 institutions for 1943 averaged 4.49 per cent.

Forty-five of the companies are operating in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, and only 19 in smaller cities throughout the state.

Enacted to curb loan sharks who for years had been preying upon the poor in larger industrial centers, the small loan law has sharply reduced the costs of necessary borrowing on unsecured notes.

Without collateral, and often desperately in need of money, such borrowers in years gone by were forced to repay from three to ten times the amount they had borrowed. Now the maximum charge, including interest, investigation and all other costs, is limited to 3 per cent monthly on the unpaid balance. Many companies have reduced charges 2½ and 2 per cent on loans in excess of $150. The average rate actually collected in 1943 was 2.8 per cent. Loans are limited to $300.

More than half of the 121,111 loans made in 1943 were for $100 or less, and more than half of these were for $50 or less, Amundson reported, showing that the law is operating to meet the needs of small borrowers. The average cost of borrowing $50 for six months under the small loan law is $5.25.

Sensations of Heat or Cold

The Federal Housing administration, in answer to a question: "Do colors have anything to do with sensations of heat and cold?" replies:

"An example of the sensibility of human beings to color is cited in a recent issue of a magazine. The color of an office was changed from a cheerful yellow to a light blue. When the colder season arrived, the employees complained of being cold, although the temperature was maintained at 72 degrees. The yellow paint was then restored as an experiment, and it was found that everyone was comfortable at the same 72 degree temperature."

A helpful hint for coping with fuel shortages and reduced temperatures in wartime!

Jig-Saws Save Metal

A technique of "cutting out paper dolls" and making "jig-saw puzzles" of them is helping to solve one of war industry's toughest problems —the scarcity of vital materials. Thousands of parts cut from flat sections of scarce metals go into small motors, huge turbines and other complex electric apparatus contributing to the motive and firing power of weapons of war. Many of these parts are made from flat stock sheets. Some are simple circles, some are triangular and others have unusual shapes resembling stars, banjos or top hats. A few are as complex as the microscopic pattern of a snowflake. But when laid out for cutting from stock sheets all must be nested so closely together that only a narrow strip of metal will remain as scrap.

Use Glandular Meats

Glandular meats should play an important part in the meat diet because of their value as sources of minerals and vitamins. The butchering season is a good time to use these nutritious meats freely and thereby save on beef and pork that can be packed for the armed forces. Liver is especially valuable as a food for children because it contains large quantities of iron, some copper, and a rich supply of vitamins A and B. Kidneys rank next to liver in iron content and are a good source of vitamins A, B, and G.

TRAFFIC DEATHS UP 48 PER CENT 1ST HALF OF YEAR

Minnesota Still Has Better Record than Most of States

Traffic fatalities in Minnesota were 48 per cent higher in the first half of 1944 than in the same months in 1943, while the average increase for all states was only 10 per cent, according to reports the National Safety Council.

The increase, while serious, is not as alarming as it might appear, because Minnesota had an exceptionally good record in the first half of 1943, fatalities being nearly 60 per cent below the number in the same months of 1942.

In spite of the increase in 1944, Minnesota still has a better record than the average state. The fatality rate per 100,000 population in the first half of 1944 was 11.4 compared to a 16.1 national average. The rate per 100,000 vehicle miles of travel was 7.4 compared to a national average of 11.3.

Wound Treatment

A problem which baffled physicians for years was that of wounds slow in healing. Spectacular progress has been made in treating these slow-healing wounds with carbamide, a compound synthesized by chemists from the nitrogen of the air.

Carbamide does not instantly kill germs, yet germs begin to disappear when it is used. It is not a cleanser in the ordinary sense, yet slow-healing wounds treated with carbamide seem to clean themselves. Apparently the chemical works by stimulating the growth of healthy tissue. It has been used with success in treating infected burns and a large variety of skin infections, and has been found to soften scar tissue. Moreover, it is readily available and quite inexpensive, so that people suffering from infections may fill a whole bathtub with carbamide solution and literally bathe in it, of course, according to the directions of a physician.

Allowances will be paid for 24 weeks or more up to 52 weeks. The qualifying period of service begins Sept. 16, 1940, and continues to the termination of the present war.

Claims may be filed at any office of the United States employment service. Veterans who were former employees of railroads and are covered by the Railroad Retirement Board will be paid allowances through that agency.

Veterans will have two years after the date of their discharge or the termination of hostilities in which to qualify for allowances. Eligibility requirements are as follows:

1. The veteran must be able to work and be available for suitable work;
2. He must be registered with and make weekly reports to a public employment office;
3. To receive the maximum of $20.00 a week, he must be completely unemployed having performed no service and received no wages during such week; or
4. The wages he has received for services performed for less than a full week are less than $23.00, in which case his weekly allowance will be reduced by the amount of his wages, less $3.00.

If a veteran becomes ill after filing a claim for readjustment allowances, he will still be entitled to benefits. Physicians must certify each week for which allowances are made as to the veteran's incapacity to work.

A veteran will be disqualified for weekly readjustment allowances if:

1. He quits suitable work voluntarily without good cause, or
2. He is suspended or discharged for misconduct in the course of his employment, or
3. He fails to apply, without good cause, for suitable work to which he has been referred by a public employment office or to accept suitable work when offered him, or
4. He does not attend, without good cause, an available free training course, as required by regulations issued by the Veterans Administration, or
5. If he is participating in or directly interested in a labor dispute, which causes a stoppage of work at the plant at which he was last employed.

This is a service of thanksgiving, called at the close of the tent meetings.

MUSKRAT PUTS WHITE "V" ON HIS BACK

Grand Rapids.—Instead of growing fur uniformly brown in color as muskrats usually do, one little fellow who lived near Squaw Lake while on this earth went all out for victory with two pure white stripes down his back to form a perfect "V". George Kanen, local fur dealer, has bought thousands of muskrats but claims he has never seen one like this. Fur buyers in the east to whom he sold the hide claim in the millions of muskrat hides they have handled this is the most unusual one they have ever had.

THERE CAN BE NO COMPROMISE

Hitler's radio trumpeters have suddenly started blasting a new tune. No longer is a German victory assured. Defeat is practically admitted. But—and here is the nub of the new appeal—Germany will fight on to the last man rather than submit to an unconditional surrender. In effect they are now asking for terms, urging that continued fighting will mean only an unnecessary loss of lives to both sides. On the face of it this is a noble gesture. Unfortunately, while it might save the lives of many of our men, it might also mean that those who have already died will have died in vain. With victory so near at hand, why should we now be satisfied with less than a complete victory? It might be proper to talk terms to the German people, explaining to them what unconditional surrender will mean, but there can be no justification for making explanations to Hitler. To compromise with the things he stands for would be to lose the things we have sacrificed to retain.

POOR, FRUGAL CANADIANS

As a result of charges made recently in the Canadian house of commons that American army engineers were destroying serviceable materials as they closed 150 camps along the Alcan highway, an American army officer has made an investigation of the practices. A report on this investigation of the army, by the army, has now been released by army officials in the War Department.

This report of an army officer, now released by army officials, assures us that the army has done a splendid job in salvaging everything worth saving.

Of course, the investigator admits, the dumps contained "large quantities of nonrepairable clothing and stoves, ranges, and oil drums in varying states of repair. Hence it is evident that reports of large dumps in the vicinity of Ft. St. John and Dawson Creek had a factual basis, and the material there may appear to have considerable value in the eyes of the local inhabitants, who have a most frugal economy." Another paragraph says, "It is unfortunately true that in some cases serviceable tires were not removed from abandoned construction equipment. On discovery of this fact immediate orders were issued for removal of such tires and their shipment back to the U. S."

But now that the army has reported on this investigation of the army, by the army, we feel better about the whole thing. Naturally the frugal inhabitants of Canada were shocked by what they thought were scandalously wasteful methods. These frugal Canadians do not understand us rich Americans. A million dollars is a lot of money to them. Shucks, we owe nearly three-hundred thousand millions.

INVITING RIGID REGULATION

A few labor racketeers in Minneapolis are inviting more drastic labor laws in Minnesota. By their high-handed methods in shaking down out-of-the-city truckers they are creating a sentiment thruout the rural areas of the state that the legislature will not ignore. Typical of this growing resentment in the rural communities is the following comment of the Long Prairie Leader:

> The West Central Cooperative Truckers' Association of Benson, a cooperative concern that does hauling for 55 cooperative creameries in west-central Minnesota, sent one of its trucks with a load to Minneapolis on August 10. The association has a contract with a drivers' union in Willmar. It is AF of L Union No. 851. All the drivers for the cooperative are union members.
> While this truck was driving along University Avenue in Minneapolis, the driver was stopped by three men who informed him they represented Drivers' Union No. 544 and that he would have to take out a membership in their union before he would be allowed to proceed. The driver protested, telling the men that he was a union driver, that he belonged to Drivers' Union No. 851 in Willmar and that his dues were paid.
>
> Notwithstanding, he was forced to drive his truck into a parking lot and warned that he would take it out at his peril unless his dues to the Minneapolis Union were paid. After a delay of 1½ days, during which the cooperative in Benson protested in vain, the driver, watching his chance, sneaked the truck out of the lot and escaped from the city.
>
> These outrageous practices are possible because of the weak and inefficient labor laws we have in Minnesota. The stories of such holdups could be repeated endlessly. They emphasize the need for the next legislature to make unions responsible for what they do and to prevent these unfair practices.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

Quentin Jones, Red Cross instructor at Tindolph swimming beach announces three more beginners taking instruction. They are, Jennifer Lucky, Charles Barzen and Michael Barzen. Instruction will cease September first and in next week's column Mr. Jones will give a summary of the season's work.

At this writing on Tuesday there were 2,500 dressings left to be made of our July and August quota. This means three days to finish them in and if we do not have more than the usual groups working we will not be able to finish on Thursday which is the last day. There will be no work on Monday which is Labor Day but work will resume again on Tuesday afternoon in order to complete the quota. However, this work could be finished the last three days if we averaged a little over 800 a day. On Monday there were 1,820 dressings made in the afternoon and 726 dressings made in the evening, which was an average day for a Monday. Because Monday is our largest day, we cannot average the same the rest of the week due to smaller groups working, so we are still asking for more volunteers.

Blood Plasma

At Tunisia, Guadalcanal, Anzio and Cherbourg, the miracle of blood plasma has saved the lives of thousands of our fighting men. This single fact is one of the greatest tributes of the war to the unselfish spirit of the American people. Over 8,500,000 pints of blood have been given from the lifestreams of volunteer blood donors through the American Red Cross for conversion into plasma.

Participation in this program cannot be extended, unfortunately, to every community in the land because of technical factors.

Here in Thief River Falls many patriotic citizens have asked the Red Cross why it is not possible for a mobile blood donor unit to make a visit. The answer involves two things: First, the 12 government-contracted laboratories process blood into plasma in sufficient quantity to meet current requests of the army and navy, and no addition of laboratory capacity is considered feasible. Second, blood must reach the laboratories within 24 hours after it is donated. Therefore, the blood donor program must be limited to the 35 Red Cross blood donor centers in large cities, plus the outlying communities which these centers can serve by means of mobile units.

Yet, Thief River Falls patriots should not feel that they do not have a part in this essential volunteer service to our fighting men. Because the total blood plasma collection program is conducted by the American Red Cross at the request of the army and navy, every person who is a suporter of the Red Cross helps make possible the blood donor program.

So here is the answer to those who want to send their blood to war: Give blood whenever you are in a community where the Red Cross blood donor service is operating. Minneapolis is our closest unit. Whenever you are there, call Geneva 5361.

Volunteer your support and services to the Pennington County Red Cross chapter for the continuation of the Red Cross global services to th armed forces program, of which the collection of blood plasma is a part.

LOCAL AERIAL GUNNER AWARDED SILVER WINGS

Another large class of Aerial Gunners to man the guns which guard Army Air Forces' bombers was graduated this week from the AAF training command school at Harlingten army air field, Texas, and among the qualified aerial sharpshooters was Pfc. Robert J. Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Olson of Newfolden. At brief graduation exercises he received a pair of gunner's wings as well as a promotion in grade.

Falls Are Responsible for 27,400 Accidental Deaths in U. S. in '43

Falls which accounted for 27,400 of the nation's 97,500 accidental deaths in 1943, constituted the largest single cause for the year, the national safety council revealed.

The council's 1944 edition of its yearbook, "Accident Facts," reported an accidental death every five and one-half minutes and an injury every three seconds during 1943. Injuries totaled 10,100,000.

Motor vehicle accidents, which claimed 23,400 lives, took the second largest death toll. Other major causes were burns, drowning, railroad mishaps, firearms, poison gas and other poisons.

Accidents—three out of four of them regarded as preventable—cost the nation $4,900,000,000 and 580,000,000 man-days of work in 1943, the council reported.

On-the-job accidents killed 18,000 workers, injured 1,850,000 and resulted in a loss of time sufficient to have built 21,000 heavy bombers or 39 battleships.

Home accidents cost 32,500 civilian lives, the third highest total on record and 7 per cent above that of 1942. Farm work accidents caused 4,500 deaths and farm home accidents 7,500.

DISCHARGED K-9 DOG MISTAKES STORM

International Falls.—Tuder, recently discharged member of the K-9 corps, now enjoying a peaceful life at the home of his master, A. R. Leggett had his peace and quiet interrupted during a recent storm. Seems as though Toder mistook bolts of lightning for an attack on Jap positions in the Solomons. The Labrador fought to get out of the house during the storm and acted generally as though he were in battle again. Until the storm he had been perfectly normal since his return, demonstrating his usual friendliness and affection. One trace of his army life was apparent and that was his refusal to eat at any other hour than 4 P. M., the army hour for "chow".

INFANT HITCH-HIKER HAS PRECARIOUS RIDE

Eden Valley.—Gloria Jean Steman, 19-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Steman, didn't have to use her thumb when she hitched a ride to town recently. She just climbed onto the side of her daddy's car without speaking of it. After the three-miles drive from the Steman home to town one night Mr. Steman encountered some difficulty in opening the door of his automobile. Looking on the outside he found the tiny miss clinging tight to it as she had done over the bumpy road to town. The child was unhurt and obviously unaware of the danger of her chosen position on the car.

An Early Greek Prayer Applicable Now as Then

An early Greek prayer which has been translated by Gilbert Murray is as applicable today as it was centuries ago. It is as follows:

"May I be no man's enemy, and may I be the friend of that which is eternal and abides. May I never quarrel with those nearest me; and if I do, may I be reconciled quickly. May I never devise evil against any man; if any devise evil against me, may I escape uninjured and without the need of hurting him. May I love, seek, and attain only that which is good. May I wish for all men's happiness and envy none. May I never rejoice in the ill-fortune of one who has wronged me. When I have done or said what is wrong may I never wait for the rebuke of others, but always rebuke myself until I make amends. May I win no victory that harms either me or my opponent. May I never fail a friend in danger. May I respect myself. May I always keep tame that which rages within me. May I accustom myself to be gentle and never be angry because of circumstances."

Army Getting Many New Officers From Its Ranks

According to a war department announcement, about one-third of the officers of the army of the United States are graduates of Officer Candidate schools, which means that they won their commissions after service in the ranks. Almost one-half are from the national guard and the organized reserves, and the remainder are former officers of the regular army and men appointed from civilian life because of special skills.

The commissions granted directly from civil life were chiefly in the medical department, the judge advocate general's department, the corps of engineers, the ordnance department, the signal corps and the army air forces. Many of these officers were top-bracket men in their civilian professions commissioned for duty in highly specialized positions.

The recently announced policy of filling future officer requirements almost entirely through Officer Candidate schools, the department said, was made possible by the outstanding success of this democratic system. Reports from training camps and maneuvers, and from the ultimate test of the battlefield, have emphasized the qualities of leadership displayed by officers who came up from the ranks through these schools.

MANPOWER GROUP SEEKING TO STAFF VITAL WAR PLANTS

Minnesota Asked to Supply 1890 Men and Women, Says Bjornaraa

The War Manpower Commission this week centered its activities on an "all out" effort to recruit manpower needed for the production of items of ordnance and transport, nationally classified as urgent to maintain the present speed of Allied combat forces.

Particularly needed at this time is ammunition for heavy field artillery and army trucks.

"Right now, Minnesota is being asked to supply 1,890 men and women for critical jobs in other states", Dreng Bjornaraa, state WMC director, announced. "This manpower is our share of what is needed to fully staff production plants having contracts for material on the urgency list".

Until urgency requirements are met, Bjornaraa said, WMC will center its activities on:

1 Efforts to man "musts" plants in this state that are behind their schedules for war production, and 2. Efforts to meet its inter-regional manpower quotas.

Reunion island is a land in which earthquakes, volcanic turmoil, geraniums, cloves, and vanilla are produced with equal facility. Last island of France's empire to remain under Vichy control, Reunion is about 430 miles east of Madagascar in the Indian ocean. Although far from the beaten path Reunion functions as a little slice of France. A mountainous, egg-shaped mass 39 miles long and 28 miles wide, the island varies its climate according to altitude. Peaks rising from the central region tower 10,000 feet. From the hot coastal area to the cool highlands, plant life reflects the changes in temperature. Upward from the shore with its belt of towns, the sugar cane and rum country stretches to the forest zone. Beyond is the mile high plain where European vegetables are grown. Reeds and coarse grasses ring the moss-capped peaks. Snow is rare. Rainfall is torrential between November and April. Rivers overflow their banks, only to dwindle to rivulets in the dry season.

Fix Tools

The wheel hoe should be tightened and repaired. Nuts and screws on all equipment should be fastened tight, as loose parts wear or break quickly. Hoes, cultivator teeth, weeders and other edged tools should be sharpened, as sharp tools save work. Replacement handles will make many shovels, hoes, and rakes good as new. To get a well-fitting handle, take the tool to the hardware man for refitting, or copy the number stamped in the wood of the broken handle, to get an exact duplicate.

Home Chicken Raising Will Meet Meat Need

Many people will have to raise their own backyard flocks of chickens if they wish to be sure of an ample supply of poultry and eggs under wartime conditions, it is generally believed.

The shortage of other meats is resulting in an increased demand for poultry products which can be met only if more chickens are raised.

While an increase from the farms and from commercial poultry raisers is in sight, many families can resort again to the backyard flock to supply their own and some of their neighbors' needs.

It requires only a small amount of labor for a backyard flock of chickens, and, if they are properly housed and managed, they can be made a constant source of food for the family.

Twelve to 20 pullets when producing and well cared for should provide an average size family with sufficient eggs.

Farmer's Share of Milk Dollar High, Study Shows

A new study of operating results of leading milk distributors in 23 states and the District of Columbia shows that farmers and employees of milk companies received 78.27 per cent of the milk dollar. The figures announced by the Milk Industry foundation covered operations for 1941.

Average figures for the 141 firms reporting showed a profit of 2.12 per cent after income taxes. Wholesale and retail sales of milk were almost equally divided with retail at 51 per cent.

Farmers received for their raw milk 56.21 per cent of the milk distributor's dollar while 22.06 per cent went to employees for wages and salaries. The latter figure did not include administrative officers' salaries which were .76 of 1 per cent. The balance of 18.27 per cent in the milk dollar went for supplies, taxes, containers, maintenance, repairs and other necessary operating expenses.

Message to Strandas

Lieut. Alfred P. Strondas, special services officer at Camp Roberts, Calif., recently received a letter postmarked April 9, 1942. Mailed by a former fellow-soldier from Somewhere in Ireland last spring, the letter went first to Ft. Benning, Ga., but Lieutenant Strondas didn't live there any more. The second try sent it to Council Bluffs, Iowa, but the lieutenant was at Sioux City instead. Back once more to the writer shuttled the letter-without-a-country. Finally the dismayed correspondent ran into a mutual friend who knew the correct address, and the long-traveled missive was at last delivered, after crossing submarine-infested Atlantic waters five times.

Banana Constituents

The principal solid constituents of the banana are easily digestible fruit sugars of high energy value, i.e. 445 calories per pound, or 2 to 4½ times that of most other common fruits. In addition to small percentages of fiber, fats and proteins and 11 nutritionally important minerals, ripe bananas contain vitamins A and C and small amounts of the B vitamins, and have proved outstanding values for infant feeding, and for feeding the sick and the aged.

Bandicoot Fighting

Heavy rainfall brings fighting to a virtual standstill for long periods, particularly in such tropical regions as Burma and New Guinea. The deterring effect of marshes and mud of the Russian and Italian fronts have been recently shown in news photographs.

In Memoriam

In memory of Guy McEnelly who passed away two years ago Sept. 4, 1942:

Never a day, but his name is spoken,
Never an hour, but he's in our thoughts.
A link in our family chain is broken;
He is gone from our home,
But not from our hearts.
Never shall his memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger,
Round the grave where he is laid.

Sadly missed by his wife and children, Mrs. Selma McEnelly, Betty and Raymond. 35p

LINCOLN LIFE MEN WIN VICTORY LOOP TITLE FROM OEN'S

Bennes Golfers Again Take Championship after Year's Lapse

The Lincoln Life team, by the narrow margin of one stroke, 152 to 153, defeated the Oen's Friday evening in the finals of the Victory Golf league championship play-off series. In winning, the Lincoln Life regained the league title they won in 1942 and relinquished to the Harts Bakery team in 1943.

The Oen's, carrying a 9-stroke handicap advantage, held a lead of three strokes, 120 to 123, off the eighth tee in Friday's match. Lloyd Bennes and Rev. G. S. Thompson, for the Lincoln Life, scored a three and a five, respectively; while the Oen's George Mostue and Milton Larson each had a five, to slice the Oen's lead to a stroke. Ray Jude and Hans Chommie then clinched the match for Lincoln Life, when Ray, just off the green with his tee shot, chipped in for an eagle deuce, and Chommie scored a par four. The Oen's Haakon Olson and Roy Oen carded a five and a four on the eighth.

Rev. Thompson and Bennes added a stroke to their lead on the 9th hole, with a four and three, while Mostue and Larson were marking up a three and a five. Oen and Olson, each of whom scored par three's on the 9th, pared the Lincoln Life margin to one stroke, with Jude and Chommie having fours.

The scoring, gross and net, for the match: Lincoln Life — Hans Chommie, 39 and 37, Ray Jude, 44 and 37, Rev. Thompson, 46 and 41, and Lloyd Bennes, 41 and 37; Oen's—George Mostue, 45 and 39, Milton Larson, 46 and 38, Haakon Olson, 46 and 40, and Roy Oen, 45 and 36.

Olsen, manager. Persons now employed in war work should not apply.

EIGHTY DAY DUCK SEASON IS SLATED STARTING SEP. 20

Regulations Liberalized by U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service

Hunters may shoot more waterfowl, and over a longer period this fall and winter under liberalized hunting regulations announced recently from Washington, D. C.

The open season will be 80 days, ten days longer than last year, continuing from September 20 to December 8.

The general daily bag limit for ducks remains at ten, but an additional bag of five mallards, widgeons, and pintails, singly or in the aggregate is allowed. Thus, if a hunter kills five or more of those species in a day, his bag limit on all ducks is 15.

The fish and wildlife service, which drew up the regulations, refused to permit the taking of waterfowl by means of bait or with the help of live decoys, as urged by some hunters.

Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, fish and wildlife director, said the more liberal regulations were due to the steady increase in the continental migratory game bird population. He said the increase in mallards, widgeons and pintails has been "potable" and since they are the species which do the most damage to crops, hunters will be allowed to shoot more of them.

This is "purely a temporary expedient" to help farmers, he said, and will not be continued beyond this season unless crop protection makes it necessary.

Two minutes a day keeps the windshield clean and makes a big difference in your driving and comfort.

DR. HEDEMARK IS WINNER OF CITY GOLFERS' TITLE

Wins Decision Sunday over H. O. Chommie, Defending Champion

Dr. Hedemark, gaining a 5-up lead on the first nine holes of play, won the city golf championship Sunday afternoon by scoring a 5 and 4 decision over defending champion Hans Chommie, ending the finals match on the 14th green. The championship flight consolation finals, also played on Sunday, was won by Lloyd Bennes who scored a 3 and 1 win over Kern Olson.

Dr. Hedemark, after halving the 1st hole with a par 5, gained a 1-up lead by taking the 2nd hole with a 5 when Chommie missed a three-foot putt after making a splendid recovery from a trap. The long 3rd hole was halved with par 5's, but Dr. Hedemark moved 2-up with a par 3, while Chommie, behind a tree with his tee shot, carded a 4.

A birdie 4 on the long 5th hole, gave Dr. Hedemark a 3-up advantage. Chommie pared that lead by scoring a par 3 on the 6th. On the 7th hole, Chommie had a poor second shot and lost the hole to Dr. Hedemark's par 4. And on the 8th hole, Chommie's approach, from 80 yards out, bounded over the green, and Dr. Hedemark won the hole with a par 4. On the green with his tee shot on the 9th, Dr. Hedemark was down in two putt for a par 3 and won the hole when Chommie took a 4.

Both golfers carded pars on the 10th hole. On the 11th, Dr. Hedemark, making one of the finest shots of the match, hit the green with a long second shot and was down in 4 for a win, holding a 6-up lead. The 12th hole was halved, each scoring a 6. Chommie won the 13th with a par 3. Two booming shots and chip to within eight feet of the pin, and sinking the putt for a birdie 4, gave Dr. Hedemark the match and the city championship on the 14th green.

Other club tournament matches decided during the week: Dr. A. E. Jacobson won the first flight honors by defeating Haakon Olson; Guy Hinton won the second flight by defeating Rudy Sagmoen; the third flight consolation was won by Clarence Knudson, defeating Milton Larson; and the fifth flight consolation was won by Bart Wangenstein.

Local Ball Club to Play at Grand Forks Monday

Manager Gordy Reierson announced that the local nine will journey to Grand Forks on Monday, for a game with the highly-rated Grand Forks Independents, with the contest being played in the Chief's park. An attempt is being made to schedule a game for the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday, with the Grand Forks Armours' the tentative opponents.

A lot of ink has been spilled in writing safety rules, and a lot of blood has been spilled from breaking them.

Local Sportsmen's Club Will Meet Next Tuesday

Lunch will be served following the program.

Viking Boy Raises 63 Tomatoes on One Plant

Reading in the Times last week that a Mankato gardener raised tomato plants with as many as 53 tomatoes on one plant, Mrs. Joe Dadey of Viking writes that her six-year-old son has beat that record with a plant bearing 63 large tomatoes, all of which are ripening. She adds that he also has a plum tomato with 560 small tomatoes on it.

Holt Soldier Cited for Gallantry in Normandy

Pvt. Lloyd P. Larson, son of Mrs. Inga Backlund of Holt, is attached to a tank battalion in Normandy, whose members were cited for outstanding gallantry on D-Day. The battalion headed the assault on a Normandy beach, and fought for 16 hours in the face of overwhelming enemy fire. Pvt. Larson has been in the service two and one-half years and has been overseas eight months.

Sgt. Arnold Stene, formerly of Smiley township, who was slightly wounded in France July 9, and who subsequently was awarded the order of the purple heart, has now returned to duty, according to a message received Sunday by his brother, Melvin Stene.

David Jaranson Given Staff Sergeant Rating

Keeping Score

New City Golf Champion

Shooting championship calibre golf in Sunday's high wind, getting a one-over-par 37 on the first round, Dr. Homer Hedemark scored a decisive 5 and 4 win over veteran Hans Chommie in the championship flight finals. And in winning, Homer reversed the outcome of last year's finals, when Chommie scored a spectacular 1-up win on the 20th hole.

In Sunday's match, Doc was on the line with his approach shots and his putts were "on the pin"; while Chommie was plagued by an erratic putter and wasn't as sharp as usual with his approach shots. In fact, Doc stated that he'd never seen Hans play as erratically as he did during the first round of play. But even if Hans had been "on" on Sunday it's doubtful if he could have "taken" Doc, for Homer gave very few openings and had control of all of his clubs.

Incidentally, Dr. Ed. Bratrud called the turn on Sunday's matches, when, around the first tee before the boys drove off, he stated that Homer and Lloyd were good bets to win their matches.

Golf Club Debt-Free

By the way, it is revealed that the golf club is out of debt, and much of the credit for that accomplishment must go to the club treasurer, John Curtis. Curtis, one of the organizers of the club, has witnessed the growth of the course from a four-hole sandgreen lay-out to a nine-hole grass-green course, with an estimated worth of thirty thousand dollars. If and when tournament trophies become available, it would perhaps be a splendid gesture if the tournament committee obtained a city championship cup or emblem and called it the John Curtis Trophy or the Curtis Cup.

Paging Ike Walton

Cpl. Ernie Helquist, home on furlough, made one of the finest catches of walleyed pike recorded this year while fishing the pool below the dam on Monday. Ernie, using a spinner and minnow, caught six walleyes that weighed, with one of the pike tipping the scales at 3½ pounds. That string and sister Midge took a picture of it, should fill Sgt. Lenny Helquist, Ernie's brother and the Helquist's family small-perch-and-sunfish expert, with envy.

And another noteworthy catch was marked up during the week when Chuck Dablow, fishing the pool above the dam, hooked and landed a 11½ pound northern pike. Chuck was using a red-and-white bassoreno when the northern struck. That pike, I believe, is the largest fish taken out of the river this year; but Skoogie Nelson says that there are a couple of larger northerns hanging out below the dam.

Grounds for Protest?

Don't know if the golf league rules have provisions for filing protests, but it has become known that Lincoln Life's Lloyd Bennes, on Wednesday, received a golf lesson from Grand Forks' Gene Lovejoy, and the result was that instead of posting a 49 and having several out-of-bounds shots, Lloyd came through with a 41 in Friday's playoff match against Oen's. Those 8 strokes that the pro took off Lloyd's game made quite a difference, for Oen's, instead of losing by a stroke, would have won by a comfortable margin.

Prowler Football

Coach Glenn Hanna has been disappointed at the turn-out for the pre-school Prowler football practices, with only nine or ten boys reporting. If the Prowlers, and the prospects were that they would come up with a bang-up team, expect to win more than a game or two, they had better show more enthusiasm than they have revealed so far.

The fact, Gordy Reierson's "alumni" team are more football-minded than are the Prowlers, and it's possible that Gordy's aggregation will hand the Prowlers their first defeat when they meet in a couple of weeks. The "alumni", with Blackie Stephens, in the aggregate, twelve pounds, Jimmy Welton, Woody Almquist, Red Bossman, and others, will be pretty much of an all-star outfit.

Herb Claffy and Ninak Carlson, both stricken with blood poisoning, were released from the hospital this week, but it's questionable if they will be able to play for several weeks. Herb had a badly infected knee, while Ninak's infection was in the jaw.

Milks Fast

When a cow is properly stimulated to "let down" her milk she can be relieved of it with a minimum of teat pressure or manipulation, either from hand or machine milking. Washing or massaging the teats and udder one minute before the milking is begun causes the cow to give her milk in 45 to 60 seconds and be well milked out in 2½ to 3½ minutes. Warm water containing a disinfectant should be used, and an individual cloth used for each cow in order to avoid spreading disease from one cow to another.

RED CROSS OFFERS HINTS ON GIFTS TO SEND MEN ABROAD

Reminds Public Christmas Mail Overseas Should Start Sept. 15

What to pack in Christmas boxes for shipment to service men and women in foreign countries is suggested in a list drawn up by Red Cross workers who have been overseas with troops and who have learned what is most useful and welcome.

Books head the list of "best buys" in Christmas gifts, preferably pocket editions. Mysteries and adventure stories are most popular. A windproof cigarette lighter would be a good choice, Red Cross workers advise, since this item often is lost or becomes worn out.

Mailing dates for Christmas packages for overseas delivery are September 15 to October 15. Size must be no more than 15 inches in length, or 36 inches in length and girth combined. When ready to mail, the package should weigh no more than five pounds.

Durable shower slippers—canvas is suggested—are highly useful. Writing portfolio and fountain pen would be welcome, and both should be of a simple type. A pocket size folder enclosing one or more snapshots of the family is suggested.

If something on a grander scale is desired, a waterproof, shockproof watch is practical if the GI doesn't own one. Red Cross workers say an item that will go over big is a dog tag chain of silver or other non-tarnishable metal. They also suggest an unbreakable mirror of a size large enough to be useful. A pocket comb could be tucked into any box.

Pocket-size games, sheet music, playing cards, a harmonica or ocarina would contribute to the soldier's off-duty entertainment.

Concordia College Will Open Fall Term Sept. 20

Concordia College, Moorhead, opens its fifty-fourth academic year with registration of new freshmen on Monday, September 18, according to announcement by Dr. J. N. Brown, president. Classes will begin on Wednesday, September 20, and advance registration indicates a college attendance equal to that of the last school year. A number of inquiries from discharged service men, asking about a program of studies, has been received, and it is expected that a beginning of veterans under the G. I. Bill will be made this semester. The program in cooperation with St. Luke's Hospital of Fargo in the training of government cadet nurses will be continued.

Strong Bonds

In all the talk about new postwar materials is buried the fact that many of them will result from vastly improved adhesives which bond wood to wood, cloth to wood, metal to metal, wood or plastics. So strong are many of these adhesives, that under stress the material joined gives way before the glue-line does.

Recipe for a Perfect Marriage

Dee and Jane Cuppers celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary last Saturday. Having so many friends, it seemed like half the town stopped in that evening to pay their respects.

Little Ida Moffat brought a home-made poem to read, called Love Enduring. Bert Childers fiddled "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Will Dudley made a speech and proposed a toast.

And as I watched that toast—Dee with his glass of beer, Jane with her buttermilk—I thought to myself: There's a recipe for happy marriage. Two folks with different tastes—no doubt an honest fault or two—who through the years have learned to live in tolerance and understanding.

From where I sit, Dee and Jane are a mighty good example to young married people of today—an example of how moderation, tolerance and understanding can build lasting happiness and solid homes.

To be fooled by an optical illusion doesn't matter. But the deceptions caused by faulty vision do matter. Defective vision may be distorting the type you read, causing eyestrain and fatigue. It may be hampering you in your work—making you slower, less efficient. It may be making your driving dangerous.

Good vision means better, happier living. Make sure your sight is right. Have it examined—now.

Have a "Coke" = Tudo Vai Bem
(EVERYTHING'S SWELL)

... or making friends in Rio

From the U. S. A. to Brazil is a long way, but you'll find many familiar things in both places. A friendly spirit for one. Coca-Cola for another. In Rio de Janeiro, to say Have a "Coke" is to say We're glad to see you, just as when you offer Coca-Cola to a guest in your own home. In many lands around the globe, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola has become a friendly greeting between neighbors.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Air Valves

Valves of a combat airplane engine would grow so hot they would melt if the tremendous heat generated by the motor were not carried away. This danger is often controlled by making valves hollow and filling them with sodium which melts and transfers the heat from the valve head.

Roast Almonds

For roasting almonds, the deep fry method is no longer preferred in view of the current fat shortage. Good results are obtained by placing blanched almonds in a shallow pan with one teaspoonful of oil to each cup of nuts and browning in a moderate oven until a delicate color.

SICK SHEEP

A great many sheep are dying from a disease contracted from grazing on wet or marshy pastures.

Death may occur after an illness of only a few days and without any symptoms that can be definitely attributed to any particular disease.

Sheep suffering from the chronic form of this disease are easily fatigued when driven. As the disease progresses the gait becomes stiff, loss of condition becomes more marked, swellings develop under the jaw and they become pot-bellied. The mouth, eyes and along the backbone will be pale and anemic.

This disease requires a specific treatment that is exceptionally effective. It is easy to give and is inexpensive. However, this treatment must be given before the advanced stages of the disease. For further particulars see us.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Consumers Must Be Interested In Home Canning of Fruits

On the supply side of the picture there is no escape from the conclusion that processed fruits for civilian distribution will be the smallest in years, as evidenced by the following facts:

Pear crop in California will be no more than enough to permit processors to meet their government obligations.

Cuts recently announced in pineapple deliveries indicate that we will have not to exceed 50% of the supplies which were available to us last year.

While it is possible that California can make a 14,000,000 case pack of peaches, 8,500,000 cases of these in syrup grades will have to go to the government. This will leave little, if anything, for civilian distribution.

Shortage of pears and pineapple will limit deliveries of fruit cocktail to about 25% of last year's supply.

Berries in the northwest went 100% to cold packers and to government channels.

Plums from the northwest will not pack out to exceed 50% of last year.

Canned apricots are the single exception to a dismal picture on processed fruit supplies for civilians.

MORE MOTORISTS IN 1944 LACKING DRIVERS LICENSES

Highway Patrol Reports on Activities During Month of July

Twice as many motorists are driving without a valid drivers' license this year as last year, it is indicated by the July report of Elfen Rowe, chief patrol officer of the Minnesota highway department. In July this year the patrolmen made 37 arrests and issued 421 warning tickets for failure to have a driver's license in possession, after stopping 8,292 vehicles to check drivers' licenses. In July, 1943, only 16 arrests were made and 206 warning tickets issued for lack of licenses, although patrolmen stopped 11,205 vehicles and checked licenses. Failure of some drivers to renew their licenses on or before their birthdays, as required by the new law is believed responsible.

The report showed increases in arrests for exceeding the speed limits, improper parking and improper equipment, and decreases in arrests for drunken driving and all other causes. Total arrests were 1,089 this July and 1,173 last year. Fines imposed totaled $13,555 this July and $16,237 in July, 1943.

The patrol issued 1,708 illegal equipment tags during July, of which 1,368 were for faulty lighting equipment, 202 for faulty brakes and 122 miscellaneous. These tags require certification within a stated time to show that repairs have been made and deficiencies corrected.

Patrolmen tested lights on 1,334 vehicles in July, tested brakes on 2,243 vehicles, made minor repairs and gave other aid to 1,798 motorists, and gave traffic directions to 846,045 drivers. Warning tickets were given to 912 traffic law violators and oral warnings to 1,910 others for less serious offenses. No record is made of oral warnings, but warning tickets are entered on the drivers' license records and repeated offenses may lead to arrest or revocation or suspension of drivers' licenses.

Junior Chamber to Plan for Thanksgiving Program Second Night

Following discussions early this week of various ways of observing V-Day marking a victorious conclusion to the European phase of the global conflict, as proposed locally by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Richard G. Mabey, who last week was appointed chairman, announced today that agreement had been reached among representatives of the Junior Chamber, Civic and Commerce association and American Legion post that the observance should be turned over to the local Ministerial association to develop plans for special services in the church the evening of V-Day.

In addition, the Junior Chamber will sponsor a city-wide program of thanksgiving to be held the following night in either the municipal Auditorium or high school auditorium. Details of the program will be formulated later on.

It was the consensus that no city-wide closing of business places should be requested in connection with the observance, since no day-time program is contemplated, and since the closing might unnecessarily inconvenience residents of the rural areas, particularly if the eagerly-anticipated V-Day should arrive during the busy season of the year.

Local leaders pointed out that when Germany surrenders the war in the Pacific will remain to win, and military leader, declare that only a small part of the armed forces will be demobilized until all phases of the conflict have been brought to a successful conclusion.

That other communities are making a similar serious approach to V-Day is indicated in the announcement in Minneapolis Tuesday that Governor Edward Thye is to be asked to order the closing on that day of all places selling liquor and beer.

SCHOOLS HERE REGISTER 1487 FOR FIRST DAY

Enrollment Virtually Same as on Opening Day in September 1943

TEACHER TRAINING DEPARTMENT OPENS

Three Teachers Are Missing as Fall Term Starts on Tuesday

A total of 1487 children were enrolled in the Thief River Falls public schools on the opening day Tuesday, Supt. Philip L. Fjelsted announced today. The figure represents little change from the aggregate of 1484 enrolled on the first day of the term in 1943, but is substantially higher than the 1443 reporting in 1942 on the opening day.

With an enrollment in Lincoln junior-senior high school Tuesday, it was indicated that 31 more students would shortly be added to the roster. The largest gains were registered in the seventh, ninth and tenth grades, and the biggest losses in the eighth and twelfth grades. There were 96 seniors enrolled Tuesday, compared to 11[illegible] a year ago, but there is a prospect that ten more will enroll shortly.

Following are comparative figures on enrollment in the various schools:

	1943	1944
Lincoln high	759	[illegible]
Knox	245	[illegible]
Northrop	256	[illegible]
Washington	224	214
	1484	1487

Mr. Fjelsted stated that the high school will operate on a short schedule, dismissing classes at 1 P. M. during the opening weeks, to permit students to devote the remainder of the day to farm work. He added, however, that the plan will accomplish nothing if the students do not attend the morning sessions with regularity, since its purpose is to build up the attendance.

Until late last week only six students had been registered in the teacher training department, while the state requirements call for a minimum of seven. However, three additional students were enrolled Saturday, and as a result the department opened on schedule Tuesday morning, under the direction of Miss Ingeborg Espeseth. Other interested students may still enroll, Mr. Fjelsted stated, and there is no tuition charge.

With three exceptions, all faculty members reported for duty Monday. The missing teachers, detained until next week by illness, are Miss Myrtle Forster, Northrop sixth grade; Miss Ragna Stenerson, English X; and Miss Margaret Hankey, English XI.

USED PERSONAL PROPERTY UNDER PRICE CONTROLS

Lengthy List of Items Held to be Subject to OPA Ceilings

Used radios, phonographs, clocks, watches, sporting goods, and firearms are among the articles added to the list of used personal property, the ceiling prices of which are determined according to condition of the articles. Sales by dealers and auctioneers are covered by price ceilings, although individual sales remain exempt from price control.

OPA said that new rulings simplifies the price methods for most used durable consumer goods, as the ceiling price is now 75% of the original retail price if the article is in good useable condition, and 33⅓% of the original price if it is not in first class condition.

The new ruling brings almost all used personal property under price control at other than individual sales, according to the condition of the article, the price order now encompassing used furniture, rugs, toys, athletic equipment, baby carriages, small household electric appliances, etc.

A limited number of used household items made of critical materials bear specific dollars and cents ceiling prices, and are under control at all levels of sale, including individuals sales. Foremost among these are used mechanical refrigerators, typewriters, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, gas stoves, and bedsprings.

Any person planning to buy or sell any item of used personal property should contact the price panel of his local war price and rationing board to determine the ceiling price, says the OPA.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Not Too Much or Too Little

Just how much love and affection to give our children is a question that deserves some consideration. Too little or too much may have equally disastrous consequences.

Every individual at every age needs a good share of it — the newborn who would not seem to need it, the adolescent who sometimes resents it, and the aged who might be thought to have outgrown a need for it. From the very humble to the very great, from the most timid to the boldest, all get their sense of belonging, and their feeling of security in a world of insecurity, from somebody's sincere interest it, and love and affection for them.

Overprotected children, those given too much attention, can be recognized by their dominating, tyrannical behavior, and in some instances by their docility, their lack of interest in anything beside fulfilling their mother's wishes. These indulged children find it very difficult to adjust in the outside world. They usually have few playmates—they are too aggressive or too timid. Later, they cannot make satisfactorily the shift from life in their childhood home to that in a home of their own. They lack strength of will, self-control, healthy independence of spirit, and the capacity to give and take easily. For your child's sake, do not smother him with attention and affection.

At the other extreme, we have babies who have no one to cuddle them often and to give them the warmth of human love. Chances for survival are many times fewer with these babies. Orphanages and institutions caring for young children recognize this and are trying to furnish the needed affection.

Older children who have not experienced affection throughout childhood seem to lose the capacity to respond emotionally. They seem not to understand the language of love. Many sincere efforts have apparently been wasted on such children, many of whom are our delinquents, in trying to restore the lost art of loving and being loved. These children also find adjustment in adulthood difficult. They frequently become the shiftless, the ruthless, and the dangerous members of our society. No one cared for them, and they care for no one.

The way we show affection to our children changes with their age, but from infancy through maturity, each child needs to feel that he is sincerely loved, that he has home and hearts open to him whether he is right or wrong, good or bad. He needs affection enough to draw out his affection. Not so much that he will become lord over all, nor so little that he will lose his capacity to love: just so much that he will feel fully wanted and secure, and will be able to make happy and successful adjustments each step of the way.

History Proves Gallantry Of the Russian Soldier

The Russian soldier is traditionally one of the world's best, and the fighting qualities he is showing today are what one should expect from him in view of his past record

One of the greatest achievements of the Russian soldier occurred in 1242 when a Russian army under King Alexander Nevsky decisively defeated a German offensive against Russia. The Soviet government, on July 29, 1942, recognized this achievement by creating the Alexander Nevsky decoration made of silver for the highest display of bravery.

Berlin had been stormed by the Russians in the 18th century. On October 9, 1760, a Russian army entered Berlin after King Frederick the Great was defeated at Kunersdorf. The keys to the city were turned over to the Russian commander and they have been kept up to the present time in the Kazan cathedral at Leningrad.

The Russians under General Suvorov were the first to defeat Napoleon's army, as early as 1799, at Trebia and Novi in Italy. Suvorov led more battles than probably any other man in history and reputedly was never defeated.

Make the World Shiver

"A man who hasn't actually seen an air raid can't begin to conceive its horrors. Some of the air raids we saw around Liverpool were enough to make the rest of the world shiver!" That's the description of aerial warfare known by Private Walter F. N. Yorston—a Keesler Field, Miss., airplane mechanic student who already has seen overseas duty in this war. Private Yorston of 139 Pearl street, Cambridge, Mass., served with the Canadian army's famous Black Watch Highlanders in England and Scotland for more than a year before his release to join the U. Good Breakfast Helpful

Eat a good breakfast to start a good day is a wise rule at any time, but especially in a wartime winter. Every active growing child needs to break his fast with foods for energy and body building. Workers on active duty on the farms, in the factory, or around the home also need foods that will stand by until noon.

Office workers may not need as many calories as those who use their muscles, but they, too, can benefit from a good breakfast including a variety of lighter foods. Even elderly people in the home often profit from a hot cereal meal first thing in the morning, since many prefer not to take a heavy meal before bedtime.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OPENS IN TRINITY CHURCH SEPT. 10

Staff of Fifty Teachers and Officers Provided for Children

With the opening of the public school term, Sunday school at Trinity Lutheran church opens its fall term next Sunday at 9:40 A. M. Rev. G. S. Thompson, pastor of the church, announces that a staff of 50 teachers and officers will be on hand to care for expanded schedule of the church school.

Inauguration of the new schedule calls for a separate session for children of pre-school ages. This group, supervised by Mrs. Stanton Dahlen and teachers drawn from the membership of the Mother's club of the church, will meet during the morning worship of the congregation at 10:30 A. M.

Pupils of the former kindergarten department of the Sunday school (ages four and five) will form the main part of this new plan. However, with ample space available under the new plan, children of three years of age are invited to this session and will be cared for during the adult worship in the sanctuary of the church.

This staggering of the age-groups of Sunday school will open additional space to the intermediate and high school departments of the Sunday school. A special effort is being made to secure registration of high school students in the four-year course of Bible study leading to graduation and subsequent teaching service.

Registration for the pastor's catechetical classes will take place on Saturday morning of this week. This is a two-year course leading to confirmation and full church membership. Eligibility to these classes is determined by the pupils public school grade. Membership in the first year class is open to those who have entered the eighth grade, while membership in the second-year class is limited to ninth grade pupils.

"Every American child is entitled to the training of his religious heritage thru the educational program of the nation's churches" Mr. Thompson said. "The churches of our city are sparing no effort to provide the best available training, for they believe that the future of America lies in the preservation of its Christian emphasis. It is the duty of every parent to his child and to his country, to make regular and faithful religious instruction available to his own and his neighbor's children. Every Thief River Falls church will welcome the children who come for this purpose."

Governor Edward J. Thye, chairman of the KEEP MINNESOTA GREEN Campaign, who is no slouch of a man himself, and A. J. Kittleson, left, Minnesota 4-H Club leader, admire the size and general get-up of Paul Bunyan, as shown in the heroic statue of the legendary boss of all lumber-jacks that stands in a corridor of the state capitol. Alongside is a Bunyan-size replica of the KMG emblem in red, green and white. Governor Thye is chief spokesman for the people in the united effort to KEEP MINNESOTA GREEN by prevention of forest fires. Mr. Kittleson, a member of the KMG committee and its executive board, represents the 45,000 4-H girls and boys who are playing a big part in the work of saving Minnesota forests.

The Fourth Estate

The British "estates of the realm" being three in number—the lords spiritual, or the churchmen; the lords temporal, or the nobility, and the commons—the title of Fourth Estate was applied to the press as indicative of the political influence of newspapers. It is believed to have originated in a speech of Edmund Burke, when he was speaking in the house of commons. It does not appear in his published works, but Carlyle in "Hero Worship" wrote: "Burke said there were three estates in parliament, but in the reporters' gallery yonder there sat a fourth estate, more important far than they all."

Because of the Coconaut Grove disaster in Boston late in 1942, there has been a tremendous interest in legislation for the safety of places of public assembly, and numerous cities have adopted municipal ordinances covering night clubs, theaters, halls, churches and similar types of places where people congregate.

Auxiliary Notes

By Mrs. J. W. Stewart, Publicity Chairman

The regular meeting of the Legion auxiliary will be held this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock. Because of the assistance the auxiliary gave at the Legion lunch stand during the fair, no August meeting was held. Members are urged to help their unit president as well as themselves by attending the meetings regularly. A number of very important business matters will be taken up at the meeting tonight.

As a result of an idea of the Legion and the auxiliary leaders of Minnesota to raise money by means of an auction sale, $4,000 has been brought into the treasury, the money to be used for building after the war. The leaders assisted each other in putting over an auction sale, at which everything from poultry to furniture was sold. A collection of donated articles including canned goods, seed grains, crates of eggs, clothing, fancy work, hooked rugs, baled hay, hogs, household goods, alarm clocks, shotgun shells, and furniture sold for $1,000. Added to this were cash donations.

Membership in the American Legion auxiliary has reached an all time high and will pass the 600,000 mark when the auxiliary meets in convention in Chicago in September, according to Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Racine, Wisc., president of the American Legion auxiliary.

Pennsylvania ranks first with Illinois second, and Ohio and New York have been racing for third place. Members of the Thief River Falls unit will be interested in knowing that Minnesota ranks seventh.

The auxiliary will hold its 24th national convention in Chicago on Sept. 18, 19 and 20, coinciding with the 26th national convention of the American Legion, also in that city. The auxiliary sessions will be held in the Stevens Hotel. A large attendance is expected from among the more than 600,000 members. Officials are urging, however, that only duly elected representatives make the trip to Chicago in view of travel restrictions.

Mrs. Lawrence Smith, president of the Legion auxiliary, returned recently from a trip to national headquarters in Indianapolis on auxiliary business. In commenting on the recently enacted "G. I. Bill of Rights," she said, "With the signing on June 22 of the American Legion G. I. Bill of Rights for World War II veterans, we succeeded in winning a major victory in the American Legion's legislative program in behalf of those who are winning this war.

"It is very gratifying," she continued, "to know that immediately following the signing of the bill, the Legion's national rehabilitation director, T. O. Kraabel, met with Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, and other government officials to confer on early implementation of the bill. Because they want to spare this generation the experiences of knocking about, which was their lot after the last war, the men and women of the Legion have bent every effort to obtain this legislation.

"They want men and women who are fighting this war to be assured of prompt settlement of any disability claim, adequate hospitalization, and treatment for sick and injured, employment opportunities, a chance to complete education courses, vocational training, loans for establishment of small businesses, or purchase of farms and homes, and unemployment compensation for a given period. Child welfare, veterans preference in Federal employment, and the furnishing of seeing-eye dogs to blind veterans are other measures which have had the active support of the Legion."

Milk Output

Total U. S. farm milk production reached 53,430,000,000 quarts in 1942. The 23,150,000 cows on farms each produced an average of 2,304 quarts of milk. In addition to the 22,902,000,000 quarts consumed as fluid milk and cream, U. S. milk was used for making 1,779,485,000 pounds of creamery butter, 817,310,000 pounds of cheddar cheese, and large amounts of other cheeses, ice cream and other dairy products. Farm cash milk income totaled $2,352,253,000.

Farm Population Drops

Minnesota's farm population declined by more than 21,000 during the year immediately preceding America's entry into the war, according to estimates made co-operatively by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Division of Rural Sociology of the Minnesota agricultural experiment station. Dr. Lowry Nelson, professor of rural sociology at University farm, says that the shrink in farm population from 902,100 in early 1941 to 880,900 in early 1942 was probably accelerated during the remainder of 1942. The last figure represents the lowest farm population since the industrial boom of the First World war reduced the number of farm people to slightly under 800,000.

Thad Phibbs' Formula for Fun

Thad Phibbs has a theory of enjoyment all his own. The more tired he is from working at the War Plant, the more fun he has pitching horseshoes with the boys these summer evenings.

"That's because I feel that I deserve it," Thad says simply.

And I wonder if he isn't right. I wonder if we don't enjoy things in proportion as we know we've earned them. Is a little relaxation ever more welcome than after a hard day's work? Do we appreciate our little pleasures quite as much as when we know in our hearts we've done a good job well?

From where I sit, that's one of the things this wartime strain has taught us. We're all of us working hard at our jobs, doing our level best to pull our weight. And we're learning the little rewards, the simple pleasures—a home-cooked meal, a glass of beer with friends—are more welcome now than ever ... because we've earned them!

THE TIME TO GIVE THANKS

There will be no official celebration in Thief River Falls when Hitler's armies lay down their arms. That was the decision of a group of representatives of civic organizations at a meeting called to consider the question of V-Day observance. Winning of the battle of Europe will be observed with appropriate Thanksgiving services. The celebrating will wait until we have settled that more personal difference with our neighbors adjoining us on the west.

That sounds like a sensible arrangement. After all, as far as we are concerned the fight in Europe is just a preliminary to the main bout. Our biggest task still lies ahead of us and victory is not yet so certain that we can justify any relaxation in our efforts on the home front. For our successes in the war to date we have reason to be thankful. There will be ample time for celebration when the last shot has been fired and our men are no longer exposed to the horrors of battle.

A scant 21 years ago the government took over control of radio broadcasting and stations were licensed within the wave band then considered usable, up to 1,500 kilocycles. Now, at a series of conferences, the Federal Communications Commission is attempting to distribute rights to wave lengths up to 30 million kilocycles and is having difficulty satisfying the needs of all the applicants. Twenty years ago the problem of allocating space on the air was comparatively simple. The authorities now have 17 different types of known service to provide for, and more in prospect when the war ends. "Wireless" is growing up. The youngster has become a giant in surprisingly few years.

Celebrating the surrender of Germany may involve a difficult problem in timing. There will be the usual "premature" reports from sources that are overoptimistic and of course there is the possibility that the surrender will be a series of events rather than a single agreement. And there is no assurance that this is going to be an occasion to be observed in the immediate future. It may come tomorrow but it may also be months away. Those who are making plans to demonstrate their joy hysterically may save themselves several false starts by waiting for an official declaration of the end of hostilities by General Ike.

It's about time for something to happen in the Pacific again. During the past several weeks many targets have been blasted and any one of these targets may be the scene of the next landing operations. Certain it is that while our planes have been pounding the enemy from the sky our navy has been getting set to move in men and supplies for the coming attack. It is not improbable that the next bases we establish will be on the Philippines where we will have the advantage of assistance from a friendly native population. The march back to Corregidor may be over a rough road but that will be one march that will be made with enthusiasm.

There is no reason to believe that Hitler has opened the doors to an invasion from the west rather than be conquered by the Russians. Wherever it has been possible to maintain organization German soldiers have resisted with determination. The German army probably has deteriorated considerably, especially in morale, but the rapidity with which our armies have advanced is definitely a credit to our armed forces. In football terms, we are beating the opposition in every department, through the line, around end and in the air. The blitzers are being out-blitzed.

After five years of black-out, the lights will go on in England again this month. What an occasion for rejoicing that will be. One by one the nations of Europe are being liberated and to the people of these nations lights will always be a very real symbol of liberty.

Topics of the Times

By N. A. H.

Washington promises four boxes of shotgun shells for each hunter this fall, but most hunters would settle for one box in hand.

Maybe WPB stands for "We Practice Brawling."

A nice thing, says Billy Noonan, about the majority of voters being women this year is that if the wrong man is elected you can blame it on your wife.

If you want to keep a secret, don't advertise in the Times. In recent weeks 6,250 copies per issue have been printed.

Wonder what will be the crisis in 1948 that will make it necessary to draft FDR for a fifth term.

With American railroads exerting every effort to do their tremendous war job, that anti-trust suit started by Attorney General Biddle seems to be ill-timed to say the least.

Nothing is harder on the disposition than to have a profitable crop lying out in rain-soaked fields.

Here's hoping that that V-day celebration proposed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce won't have to be deferred too long.

Wonder why they have a primary election in North Dakota. Most all candidates eliminated in the recent primaries have filed as independents in the November election.

Not long ago the Nazi war machine had staggering power, but now it is merely staggering.

Remember way back when Chevrolet was merely the name of an automobile race driver?

1934—TEN YEARS AGO

Miss Minnie Stonehouse, for the past six years superintendent of the Physicians hospital here, resigned her duties. — Martin Bothun was preparing for the opening of the Log Cabin tavern in the north portion of his recently completed building on Main av.—W. W. Prichard, sr., succumbed September 4 in his 78th year. He had made his home here since 1901.—A total of 321 carloads of hay have been shipped from this city to the drouth regions.—Mrs. W. J. LaBree and daughter left for a visit in Chicago.

1924—TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Thief River Valley Poultry association will start operations September 15. — Local Legionnaires were arranging to charter a special sleeping car to take them to the national Legion convention in St. Paul.—A total enrollment of 1,314 was registered in the local schools at the end of the first week of the fall term.—Lawrence Lotnes of Silverton won championship honors at the state fair with his Ayrshire dairy calf. —Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Melgaard returned from a visit in Minneapolis.

Break Dikes

Famous in Netherlands history are several occasions when dikes were broken to thwart enemy attacks. The soldiers of Louis XIV of France were kept out of Amsterdam by flooded fields in 1672. A century earlier relief for the city of Leyden, after weeks of siege by Spaniards, came by boats sailing over new sea made by cutting dikes.

War Mobilizes Writers

About 2,000 American writers have produced more than 8,000 literary works for the war, varying from slogans to full-length books, in the year since Pearl Harbor, it was announced by the Writers' War board. The writers, many of them top-name people, contributed government work free of charge, their activities being correlated and directed by the Writers' War board, which is a non-profit and nongovernmental agency. Rex Stout, mystery story writer, is chairman. Numerous branches of the government, from the armed services to the civilian war groups such as OPA and the War Production board, have been served, along with quasi-governmental agencies like the Red Cross, USO and various foreign-relief groups. Functioning through OWI, the Writers' War board handles requests from governmental agencies, passes on suggestions made by the writers and helps place the written material.

Iraq Aids Allies

Iraq's declaration of war against the Axis adds to the United Nations' resources the world's eighth largest oil-producing area. In the year of the boy king's birth in 1935 the pipe line from Kirkuk southwestward to the Mediterranean port of Haifa, Palestine, was completed. It stimulated production in Iraq's fields from Mosul to Kirkuk. The kingdom became eighth largest oil-producing nation, with an annual crude flow of more than 30 million barrels. Production has been greatly reduced since September, 1939, because of disruption of normal distribution routes, but the pipe line to Haifa still is a life line for the British fleet in the Mediterranean. Agriculturally, Iraq's future depends on irrigation projects. The fertile Garden of Eden spreads between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers northwest from Bagdad. Canals from a new Euphrates dam now irrigate the land of Adam and Eve, while railroad trains go swishing through. Barley and wheat are normally exported to Britain. From the palm gardens around Basra, port city on the Tigris near the Persian gulf, the world normally buys five-sixths of all its dates.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our wife and mother who passed away September 4th, 1943.

We cannot forget you, dear mother,
Tho long may seem the year
And often in the lonely hours
We wipe away a tear.
We try to still our heartaches,
And yet, we too can smile;
For God will let us come to you,
After a little while.
Oh, may we meet, dear mother,
Where friends no more shall weep
For those who died in Jesus,
Their death is only sleep.

Sadly missed by John E. Solmonson and family. 36p

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Emelia Kuehne who passed away 1 year ago Sept. 1st.

But not from our hearts.
Never shall her memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
'Round the grave where she is laid.

Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kuehne, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Knauf, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kuehne, Mr. and Mrs. Hjelmer Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kuehne. 36p

Lucky Topaz

The ancients considered the topaz as a "lucky" stone, particularly if worn by one born in November, who could claim it as a birthstone. It was believed to have an imposing list of "magical properties" including ability to cure dimness of vision, to dispel gloom, to promote friendship, to strengthen the intellect, to bestow courage, to dispel enchantment (if mounted in gold and worn around the neck) and, finally, to those born in November, to bring true love.

LINCOLN FOOTBALL TEAM TRAINS FOR COMING SCHEDULE

Only 25 Prowlers Report for Opening Practice Session

With the first game scheduled to be played against the alumni All-Stars on Sept. 15th, Coach Glenn Hanna has selected a tentative starting eleven for the Prowlers. Alan Thompson and Phil Beadle are at the ends; co-captain Chuck Richards and Gerry Flattum at the tackles; Bill Nelson and Cliff Aase at the guards; Bob Baker at center; Rog Tunberg at quarterback; Les Vigness and Ninak Carlson at the halves; and Wes Hovie at fullback. The week's light scrimmage sessions will serve to "set" the lineup for the alumni game with the possibility that several reserves will be "running signals" with the varsity and ready for action against Gordy Rejerson's aggregation.

While only about twenty-five Prowlers reported for the opening practice drill on Tuesday afternoon, that number had been increased to thirty-five on Wednesday afternoon. Herb Claffy, co-captain, was limbering up his injured left knee and it is expected that he will be available for the game against Red Lake Falls on Sept. 22nd. The boys reporting for practice were: co-captain Chuck Richards, Bob Baker, Ninak Carlson, Wes Hovie, Alan Thompson, Roger Tunberg, Bill Nelson, Les Vigness, Phil Beadle, Gerry Flattum, Cliff Aase, Jim Doyle, Brad Hanna, Ralph Long, Johnny Powell, Bud Brossoit, Thornton Anderson, Francis Kobliska, Bob Malby, Kenny Borsheim, Loyal Proseth, Jack Scanlan, Jim Arneson, Durwood Lund, Bob Larson, Glen Berg, Francis Ness, Jim Kiland, Bob Nelson, Ralph Foster, Arnold Narverud, Jim Kleinvachter, Andy Anderson, and Mervin Prestebak.

Sept. 15th, Alumni All-Stars, here.
Sept. 22nd, Red Lake Falls, here.
Sept. 29th, East Grand Forks, here.
Oct. 6th, Crookston Cathedral, here.

Dr. H. H. Hedemark Is Named Chairman Here for Ducks Unlimited

Dr. H. H. Hedemark, president of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club, has been appointed Pennington county chairman for Ducks Unlimited, national organization which raises funds for wild duck propagation thru the sale of stamps at fifty cents each, not to be confused with the $1 federal duck stamps. Dr. Hedemark announced that, starting next week, the stamps will be on sale at all stores in the county selling sporting goods. The national organization announced recently that it had raised funds to date that resulted in the propagation in Canadian waters of 125,000,000 ducks at a cost of three cents each.

Australia Cuts Debt

During the first three years of war, Australia reduced its public debt by $100,000,000, the only belligerent power able to show such an accomplishment. In 1938 the Australian national debt was $5,364,000,000, compared with $5,258,000,000 on June 30, 1942. The per capita debt dropped from $787 to $737.

Woody Almquist Season Batting Average .555

Woody Almquist, climaxing his finest season of baseball, poled out three singles in three trips to the plate against Grand Forks' Joe Bach Monday to lift his season's batting average to a phenomenal .555, having connected for 20 hits in 36 times at bat. Those 20 hits drove in 18 runs, and included five double, a triple, and three homeruns. Gordy Rejerson, with 7 hits in 20 times at bat, had an average of .350 to win runner-up honors; while Blackie Stephens, with 12 safeties in 36 times at the plate, had a .333 average.

Big Fires

While during 1943 there were no fires of the magnitude of the Fall River rubber fires of 1941, or the Normandie or Cocoanut Grove fires of 1942, there were 103 fires during the year involving a loss in excess of a quarter million dollars each, compared with 90 such fires in 1942 and a normal average of between 40 and 50 such fires. The increase in fire loss in 1943 was largely an increase in industrial losses.

Fat Drippings

Fat drippings can be used to good advantage in flavoring vegetables. Add a small amount to plain boiled or steamed vegetables, top off baked potatoes with them or whip a small portion into mashed potatoes. Use them for panning cabbage, squash, spinach, celery and other vegetables. Or mix with a portion of hot vinegar and use as a dressing for wilted lettuce or escarole.

Pasteur's Work

Pasteur was responsible for the method of protecting and safeguarding milk known as pasteurization. Among his other great scientific achievements was the cure for rabies. His genius created benefits for humanity that have made his name a daily watchword.

Worth Salt

Do you know where we get the word "salary"? It comes from the Latin salarium. Salarium meant salt money, the part of a Roman soldier's wages he was paid in salt.

the preferred and common stock of the Wisconsin Central railway which had been pledged for the respective issues. Unsecured creditors and stockholders of the old company were not allowed any participation in the new company.

The securities to be issued by the new company will consist of $8,051,700 first mortgage 30 year 4½% bonds, $20,129,000 general mortgage 50 year 4½% bonds, and 719,104 shares of no par common stock.

Under the plan of reorganization a voting trust agreement was entered into pursuant to which there will, under certain conditions, be five voting trustees until December 31, 1950. The voting trustees selected were: H. C. Grout, H. S. Mitchell, and G. W. Webster of Minneapolis representing the Canadian Pacific railway; H. S. Kingman, Minneapolis representing the savings banks committee; and H. B. Vanderblue, Chicago representing the insurance group committee.

Earnings of the Soo Line have increased considerably since the trusteeship began. Gross revenues in 1937 amounted to $15,001,430 as compared to $26,444,158 in 1943. Income before fixed charges increased from $917,521 in 1937 to $5,246,518 in 1943. Currently gross revenues show an increase of 27% for the first seven months of 1944 as compared to a like period in 1943, while the income before fixed charges shows an increase of 78% as compared to last year.

Increases in the movements of grain and iron ore account for a large part of the betterment in the earnings of the company. During the year 1943 the Soo Line moved 90,000,000 bushels of grain as compared to 15,000,000 bushels during the drouth of 1936. Iron ore likewise showed an improvement, increasing from 62,491 tons during the depression year of 1932 to 1,936,330 during the year 1943.

The Soo Line has in its employ approximately 10,000 persons in connection with the operation of its property and the operation by it of the Wisconsin Central railway, with an annual payroll of $23,500,000.

The operations, including the Wisconsin Central, cover 4,400 miles of line extending from Chicago through seven states to Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan; Ashland and Superior, Wisconsin; Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Noyes, Minnesota; Portal, North Dakota; Grenville and Pollock, South Dakota; and Whitetail, Montana.

The Wisconsin Central will continue to be operated by the Soo Line under an agreement with the receiver of the Wisconsin Central.

Knots—Units of Speed

A ship's speed is expressed in knots, a unit of speed and not distance. A knot is loosely equivalent to one nautical mile per hour. A nautical mile is 6,080 feet. At 30 knots (a high speed!) a ship is traveling roughly 34.5 land miles per hour.

INDEPENDENTS OF GRAND FORKS LOSE TO TRF LABOR DAY

Locals Register Eight-run Scoring Spree in the First Inning

The locals, scoring 8 runs in the 1st inning, defeated the Grand Forks Independents, 11 to 7, in a game played on the Grand Forks diamond Monday afternoon. The win, the locals seventh in a row, concluded the schedule and left the Thief River nine with a record of seven wins and one defeat.

Morry Anderson, a former Northern league player, opened on the mound for Grand Forks on Sunday, and was greeted by singles by Stephens, Rosendahl, and Sandland, loading the bases. A walk was issue to Almquist, forcing in a run; and Baker's ground ball to shortstop, scored Rosendahl. A wide throw to third base by Bud Hilligass allowed Sandland to tally the third run. Jim Welton singled to right field, sending Baker to third base. And, after Welton had stolen second, Red Bossman's infield out, scored Baker. Wally DuChamp's looping hit into right field scored Welton. Orry Aase was safe when Joe Bach fumbled his ground ball, and a walk to Blackie Stephens filled the bases. Rosendahl drew a pass, scoring DuChamp across the plate; and Sandland's walk, sent Aase over the rubber with the seventh run. Ray Gransen replaced Anderson on the mound for the Independents, and he nipped Almquist with a pitched ball, with Stephens scoring. Bob Baker flied to centerfield to end the rally.

Joe Bach assumed the Grand Forks hurling duties in the 2nd inning. Welton picked up a walk, and moved to third on DuChamp's double. Aase's ground ball scored Welton with a run.

Singles by Rosendahl, Almquist and Baker accounted for another tally in the 3rd inning, with Rosendahl scoring on Baker's single to right field. Two errors, and singles by Don Berger and George Zerull, gave Grand Forks their first score in the 3rd inning.

After the locals had punched across their final score in the 5th inning, on Sandland's line drive to left center and Almquist's ground single; Grand Forks pushed over three tallies.

Four hits and an error in the last half of the 9th inning, gave the Grand Forks nine three runs, bringing the final score to 11 to 7 for the locals.

Not So Strange

"Well," remarked the Grand Forks scorer as we gave him the local lineup on Sunday, "I've seen many things, but this is the first time I've seen a lineup where the pitcher bats in the clean-up position." He was referring, of course, to the fact that Woody Almquist local hurler, bats in the fourth place in the batting order. After Woody had connected for three ground singles, driving in three runs, in three times at bat (he received a walk and was hit by a pitched ball in his other two appearances at the plate) and learning that those three hits had lifted his season's average to .555, the Grand Forks scorer didn't think it so strange that the husky righthander was batting in clean-up.

That game capped a fine year for Woody, and as he said: "This is the most successful year that I've ever had, and I doubt if I'll ever hit as well as I have done this season." Well, Woody can drop a couple hundred points in his batting average, and still claim that he's having a successful year, as far as hitting is concerned.

Grand Forks Was Good

By the way, that was a pretty fair ball club that the locals beat on Monday, when they trounced the Grand Forks Implements. And it was only the second loss that the Grand Forks team had absorbed this season. The team was a mixture of youngsters and veterans, with Don Berger, Merrill Welsh, and Chuck Hanna, members of this year's Grand Forks junior team, representing the youngsters, and former Northern league players Joe Bach and Morry Anderson being the veterans on the team.

And this, the end of the year, should be the time to acknowledge the fine all-round play of the locals' catcher, Red Bossman. Since the red-head joined the team—he missed the opening game—the locals haven't lost a game, winning seven straight, and his alert work behind the plate has been a factor in every one of those victories. Just as an example of his heads-up play, and he made plays like that all year, we'll cite his performance in the 5th inning of Sunday's game. Morry Anderson opened with a single, and left-handed Don Berger was up with instructions to lay down a sacrifice bunt. He dumped the ball in front of the plate, but Red, on top of the play, made a rapid recovery and whipped the ball to Bob Baker, covering second, to force Anderson.

Prowler Practice

With the commencement of school on Tuesday, Prowler football practice sessions have gained momentum; but it appears that Coach Glenn Hanna will again have a man-power problem. The Prowlers "first string" will be well-equipped with veterans and should be a fast-moving outfit, but with only twenty or twenty-five boys out for football, Coach Hanna will be jacking in reserves. Ninak Carlson, after a bout with an infected jaw, reported for practice on Tuesday afternoon. And Herb Claffy advises that his knee will have recovered to such an extent that he will be able to report for practice on Monday. But it's doubtful if the Prowlers' hard-running backfield star will have gained enough strength to warrant using him in the varsity backfield for the first game or two. After all, Herb did have a severe case of blood-poisoning and he's fortunate to be able to play at all this year.

Miscellany

Roy Trueblood, manager of the Grand Forks Juniors, watching the ball game Sunday, stated that the Grand Forks prospects for next year were very bright. Especially if they could pick up a pitcher.—He revealed, though, that the locals' Virg Evenstad was the best hurler that the Grand Forks Juniors faced this year. With Cincinnati winning the national title at Minneapolis, Trueblood said that was the second time that a team that had won the western sectional tournament when held at Grand Forks, had gone on to win the national crown. The other winner of a sectional at Grand Forks, and who went on to win the national, was San Diego in 1938.—Received a note from "Spider" Yost, former local ballplayer, and now located in East Grand Forks, stating that he, "Spider", had been signed as an athletic instructor for Grand Forks in 1945. "Spider" has a fruit and vegetable garden in East Grand specializing in horse radish.—That fellow you've noticed skulking down the side-streets since Monday is Harold "my team is the St. Louis Browns" Eide. Push-button manager Joe McCarthy pushed the right button on Monday and the Yankees moved into first place.

PULPWOOD SUPPLY NOT YET ADEQUATE U. S. AGENCY SAYS

Mill Receipts Must be Maintained or Increased in Coming Months

Despite encouraging improvements in pulpwood production this year, the wartime shortage has not yet been licked, the U. S. department of commerce warned this week.

Unless mill receipts of pulpwood can be maintained and in some areas increased, further curtailments in civilian uses of paper and paperboard may be necessary to meet military requirements the department stated.

"Only through even greater seasonal gains in pulpwood production and delivery to mills, as well as an increase in manpower at pulp mills, can the greatly increased military requirements for pulp products be met and civilian supply maintained at present levels," the report said.

"There is still no reason to become jubilant or over-optimistic. Inventories are still 19 per cent below those of June, 1941, and 14 per cent below June, 1942."

Aggregate pulp requirements for 1944, the department said, called for an over-all delivery of 16,500,000 cords of pulpwood to the mills before the end of the year.

Among the acute paper shortages cited by the Commerce Department as now impairing the war effort are:

Paperboard containers: The unprecedented military demands continue to grow. It is estimated one-half billion V-boxes will be shipped overseas in 1941.

Waterproof paper: Entire production needed for packaging military goods. Current production is now 2,000,000 square yards a month, whereas requirements are for 4,500,000 square yards.

Wrapping paper and bags: Shortage of civilian use steadily becoming more acute as military requirements grow.

Big Business

In normal years, the food industry is four billion dollars larger in business done than the iron and steel industry, six billion dollars greater than the automotive industry, and seven billion dollars more than each of the following industries: apparel, lumber, furniture, textiles, paper, petroleum and coal products.

YEAR OF LICENSE RENEWALS ENDS ON AUGUST 31ST

Million Minnesota Drivers Now Have Permits to Operate Cars

A total of 807,341 drivers' licenses were issued during the year ended August 31, the first year of operation under the 1943 law, according to a bulletin from the state highway department. Adding an estimated 200,000 servicemen permitted to use their old licenses until 60 days after discharge from service, Minnesota now has approximately one million legally qualified motor vehicle operators.

All drivers' licenses issued before September 1, 1943, are now void, except those held by servicemen. Under the 1943 law, all drivers except those in the armed forces were required to renew their licenses on or before their birthdays in the year between September 1, 1943, and August 31, 1944.

The new system will cut the highway department's file of licensed drivers in half. More than 2,000,000 drivers' licenses had been issued between 1933, when the first drivers' license law was passed, and September 1, 1943. Until renewals were required there was no means of knowing how many of these persons had died, left the state, or for other reasons ceased to operate motor vehicles in Minnesota.

Using birthdays as expiration dates spread renewals over a 12-month period and prevented congestion. Licenses issued under the new law will be good until the licensee's birthday in the fourth year after issue, except in cases of change of name or address, when renewal is required within 30 days after such change.

From now on the license file will grow slowly. Applicants will include stragglers who neglected to renew their licenses on their birthdays, persons moving into the state (and youngsters reaching driving age. Minimum age is 15, except that persons between 15 and 18 may be licensed only with the parents consent.

Dealer Markups for Used Truck Sales Increased by OPA Agency in Fargo

To encourage the repair and maintenance of vital transportation facilities OPA announces that dealer markups for warranty sales have been increased on used trucks of model years 1937 and later.

At the same time it was announced that the dealer warranty provisions were changed so that dealers are liable for only half the expense which may arise in case subsequent repairs are necessary during the warranty period. This fifty-fifty warranty plan has been general practice in the industry for some time. Prior to this action, markups were not always sufficient to meet expenses incurred in repairing trucks to meet the warranty requirements. More trucks have been sold "as is" than guaranteed, resulting in a threat to the transportation system which relies on the continuous operation of trucks.

OPA anticipates that the increased allowances for warranty markups will keep trucks on the road in good repair and mechanically capable of carrying unusually heavy loads.

Branch Line Railroad

Usually the bulk of branch line railroad abandonments in any year consists of short branches that, for one reason or another, have outlived their usefulness. As might have been expected, this class of lines was again prominent among the abandonments that occurred in 1943. However, the effect of highway competition, even under the stress of war conditions, and of the changing conditions of traffic, as well as the requirements of many of the communities served by these lines, is reflected in the number of longer lines and of entire railroads that were abandoned during the year.

WAR PRISONERS' EXCHANGE NOT TO END WITH THE WAR

War Service Fund Head Cites Need for Continuance of Activities

Full exchange of prisoners of war will not have been completed for at least a full year after the war in Europe and perhaps not that soon, J. Cameron Thomson, chairman of the Minnesota War Service Fund, was informed today by John R. Mott, chairman of the War Prisoners Aid committee.

Dr. Mott based his statement, he said, on frequent consultations between Dr. Tracy Strong, of War Prisoners Aid who is now in Sweden, with leaders in Europe on both sides of the conflict. Mr. Thomson forwarded the information to the local chairman of the coming Minnesota War Service Fund campaign here, as War Prisoners Aid is one of the 22 agencies for which funds will be raised in the October drive.

"It is our conviction that the services of War Prisoners Aid will have to be carried on at the present scale for 12 months and that a diminishing but increasingly important service will be required through the better part of the second year," Dr. Mott told Mr. Thomson.

"It is important to remember that the exchange of prisoners is to a certain extent reciprocal. The speed of the exchange will depend upon diplomatic negotiations, upon physical conditions of transportation, upon the social and economic conditions within the countries to which prisoners return, and upon the health of the prisoners.

"It should be emphasized that the morale problem of the prisoner increases after the fighting stops. The prisoners cannot see why they cannot be immediately returned to their home countries. Organized educational, recreational and religious activities will be even more important than at present."

IT'S "ZERO HOUR" ON THE HOME FRONT, TOO!
THIS IS IT. We are massing for the big push. The greatest battles in the history of the world call for the greatest war loan in the history of the world.
Every American on the home front is being called upon to invest every dollar he is not using for the bare necessities of life for the drive that will push Hitler and Tojo into oblivion. It means sacrifices, big sacrifices by all of us. Out of them will come great rewards. For these War Bonds you buy will, we hope, bring a better world for all of us. Each of us will have greater financial security than ever before. These are the reasons why each of us ought to buy more Bonds.

To the Local Citizenry . . .

On July 18, we pitched the gospel tent of Evangelist A. B. Ost, south of the postoffice; the following Sunday, July 23, we "opened fire!" On Labor Day, following seven Sundays, six weeks of services, we closed these meetings. Named tent now is being placed in storage until next summer when we hope to open a similar series, Lord permitting.

We had outstanding meetings. Co-operation between sponsoring churches and others was very encouraging. "Giving toward maintenance and other designated worthy causes was generous. Best of all, some found Christ Jesus as personal Saviour and many believers were helped. Despite "ration year", 1944, several out-of-town people were in attendance.

Our committe herewith thanks the local citizenry. Particularly would we like to thank Mayor W. J. Douville for his splendid interest and cooperation, Police Chief Leonard Hanson and other officers who offered fine protection, keeping careful vigil, especially during night hours. Our thanks also to the Larson company who granted the use of two lots, just south of the postoffice. We thank the Thief River Falls Times for generous allotment of space in publicizing these meetings. We cannot adequately express our sincere appreciation of the courtesy and respect shown by this community toward the meetings and the property we had on the premises during several weeks.

Aside from a few tests during time of wind and drenching rain, which, when repair job was finished, only affected the appearance of the tent, no real damage resulted. Above all, we are thankful to the Lord who spared us from hazard, tragedy or other injury to life.

We trust that the impact of these large meetings will be felt a long time in our community. The season's record crowd of Monday night indicated many things to us.

We need not only to counteract evils of drunkenness and other sin but to preach and live Christ in such effective manner that others, when they behold what Jesus Christ means to us, will know that HE and HE ONLY makes and keeps people straight.

IT TAKES A LOT OF CARS TO MOVE 1944's GRAIN CROP!

RIGHT NOW, the great Northwest is harvesting another bumper grain crop.

It's going to take a lot of freight cars to move this grain to the terminals. And there's a serious shortage of cars today—a shortage created by the tremendous demands made upon the railroad plant by the war effort.

It may be that cars will not always be available at all points on the SOO LINE as quickly as desired to move this harvest. In addition to the car shortage, any delay in unloading tends to increase the burden already put upon our resources.

To assist us in giving better service to all, we ask shippers to observe these suggestions:

1. Load cars to full load limit or cubic capacity.
2. Load cars on the same day received.
3. Unload immediately and notify us that car is unloaded.

With your continued cooperation, we'll be able to serve all more efficiently.

Whether it's a jaunt in the country or a gathering in a garden, guests are sure to cluster 'round the spot where ice-cold Coca-Cola is served. Have a "Coke" means the party is beginning on a note of good fellowship. And how good Coca-Cola tastes with the simplest food! With a supply of Coca-Cola in the home refrigerator, your friends and neighbors are always sure of the pause that refreshes. It's a symbol of welcome at home and overseas.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Fruit Nectars

People who cannot tolerate citrus fruits and other more or less sharp tasting fruits, are handicapped in the enjoyment of a large variety of delightful fruit juices. Whole fruit nectars are a good alternative because they are made from deciduous fruits — apricots, pears, plums or peaches. They are mild but distinctly fruity in flavor.

SICK SHEEP

A great many sheep are dying from a disease contracted from grazing on wet or marshy pastures.

Death may occur after an illness of only a few days and without any symptoms that can be definitely attributed to any particular disease.

Sheep suffering from the chronic form of this disease are easily fatigued when driven. As the disease progresses the gait becomes stiff, loss of condition becomes more marked, swellings develop under the jaw and they become pot-bellied. The mouth, eyes and along the backbone will be pale and anemic.

This disease requires a specific treatment that is exceptionally effective. It is easy to give and is inexpensive. However, this treatment must be given before the advanced stages of the disease. For further particulars see us.

TRAVEL ONLY WHEN NECESSARY

When Buffaloes Stopped the Iron Horse

...TRAVELERS WERE PATIENT

Remembering the hardships of the stagecoach and covered wagon days, travelers once looked upon the new woodburner trains as solid luxury ... despite choking smoke, bumpy roadbeds; no electric lights, no berths or dining cars ... despite delays of hours on end when great herds of migrating buffaloes marooned them in the middle of an endless prairie.

Today, if the train, plane or bus is late, if reservations are hard to get or we can't squeeze into the dining car, we can still take comfort in the fact that America is moving at a pace that has astounded the world.

When this war is won, the transportation facilities of our country will have hung up an incredible record for efficient movement of fighting men and freight—and civilians, too. Meanwhile, public opinion is agreed that we should not travel unless absolutely necessary and, if we must go, take inconveniences cheerfully and patiently—like good soldiers.

Citrus Marmalade

There are almost endless ways citrus marmalades can be used in preparing desserts. CAUTION AGAINST UNDUE ALARM OVER POLIO INCREASE

State Medical Association Reports on Current Situation

The current increase in polio cases in Minnesota should not be regarded as cause for undue alarm nor for ill-considered control measures, in the opinion of officials of the Minnesota State Medical association.

The best evidence available indicates that the disease is often spread by healthy carriers and that, while quarantine is necessary for the sick, delay in opening schools may make no difference in the spread of the disease.

The best protection both for the sick child or adult and for his associates, is prompt isolation of anyone, in bed, of anyone showing suspicious symptoms and prompt recognition of the disease when it occurs.

Early symptoms of polio resemble those of many other common illnesses and anyone with a digestive upset or headache and fever or stiff neck or what appears to be only a cold, should go to bed immediately and a physician should be consulted. Actually, many cases of polio recover, without any left-over paralysis, the doctors say, if they have proper treatment. For most of those with paralysis, prompt recognition and care offer good hope of eventual recovery.

With the coming of cooler weather, the number of cases may be expected to drop, the doctors say. In the meantime, no illness, however trifling it may appear, should be neglected.

The Red Cross

In [illegible] Clara Barton became interested in the work of the Red Cross while on a trip abroad. Returning to the United States Miss Barton, a well-to-do spinster, determined to devote the remainder of her life to the formation of the Red Cross in the United States. Recognition was slow in coming, though, America was tired of war. The political leaders feared this international organization as an entangling alliance. In 1881, however, she succeeded in interesting Secretary Blaine in the movement and it was incorporated in Washington that year. Now all that was needed was the presidential signature to the Geneva treaty. At that point Garfield was assassinated. The next year President Arthur signed.

Captured 700 Nazi Prisoners

Sergt. Rodney Cleatman, 26, of Athol, Mass., (left) singlehandedly captured 400 Nazi prisoners, outdoing the famed Sergeant York. Like York, he was armed only with a rifle. Capt. J. S. Willingham, Tuscaloosa, Ala., (right) captured 300 Germans by circling overhead in plane and herding them to the Allied armored columns who took charge. Due to this exploit, he has been called the "flying cowboy" of the American Air forces. The German prisoners stated that they were tired of fighting and in addition were afraid of being fired upon.

SCHOOL BOAR RAISES BUDG FOR NEXT YE

Salary Increases La Responsible for Fou Mill Tax Rise

NO INCREASE MADE IN BOND, INTEREST LEVY

Total Enrollment Reported at 1,503 at End of the First Week

Reflecting higher costs in all phases of school operation, an increase of four mills was voted on Monday evening by the local board of education in the maintenance tax levy for the Thief River Falls school district, No. 18. The new rate is 46 mills, compared to 42 mills levied in 1943, in addition to which the usual three-mill levy was made for bond retirement and interest.

Supt. Philip L. Fjelsted pointed out that the increase is due largely to substantially higher salaries in effect for teachers and janitors, in addition to which a new school bus purchased this year cost forty per cent more than before the war.

As evidence of the trend in teachers' salaries, Mr. Fjelsted stated that in 1940 salaries were budgeted at $60,356, and that this figure had risen to $85,335 in the current budget. He added that a still higher local levy would be necessary were it not for the fact that state aids at present are being paid in full instead of being prorated as was formerly the case.

No increase, he added, is contemplated in the bond retirement and interest levy. This fund now comprises $11,185, against which there is an indebtedness of $201,000 to be retired in future years.

The board at its session fixed the salary of Miss Ingeborg Espeseth, teacher training instructor, at $1,800 for the coming year, compared to $1,680 last year, nearly all of the salary being paid from state funds.

Total enrollment in the local schools at the end of the first week of the fall session was reported at 1,508, compared to 1,484 for the corresponding period in 1943 and 1,469 in 1942.

Public Examiner Files Report on City Records

A report on the audit of the y's financial records for the ars 1942 and 1943, requested st December by the outgoing ty council and completed late in e summer, was received late last ek by City Clerk P. G. Pederson from Richard A. Golling, tate public examiner.

Of special interest in the report is the revelation that the net profit of the municipal power plant in 1943 was $77,941.02, compared to $73,991.84 in 1942. Sales of electric energy aggregated $105,900.08 in 1943 and $106,706.40 in 1942.

The report reveals that the city's bonded debt as of December 31, 1943, was $237,000. Since the period covered by the audit, however, the debt has been reduced in 1944 to $214,000, to offset which the city treasury now holds $120,000 in government securities, in addition to $54,000 cash on hand as of September 1.

The examiner made several suggestions as to minor changes in the city's bookkeeping system and method of handling some of the funds. It also pointed out that expenses of city officials incurred in attending conventions should not be paid until itemized claims have been presented.

The report called attention to the fact that the Texas company, of which Alderman Jack McKechnie is local agent, and the Northern Chevrolet company, in which Alderman Frank Rinkel is a partner, had engaged in business transactions with the city contrary to a state law which prohibits officials from being interested in contracts with the city.

2,248 Tires Rationed to Date in Pennington

A total of 2,248 tires, or an average of .87 tire per motor vehicle, were rationed in Pennington county from January 1, 1942, to August 23, 1944, according to a tabulation by the Fargo OPA office. An aggregate of 2,581 motor vehicles were registered in the county, the survey shows.

In Marshall county, with 3,698 registered vehicles, 2,817 tires were rationed, or an average of .76 per vehicle, while in Red Lake county with 1,454 vehicles, 2,077 tires were rationed, an average of 1.42 per vehicle, the highest average in the Minnesota part of the district.

Commenting on the value of the survey, Harold W. Bangert, district OPA director, told board chairmen they could tell at a glance what kind of a tire rationing job is being accomplished by each local board, compared with others, in the district.

"We realize that these statistical comparisons do not in all cases tell the entire story," Mr. Bangert said. "Some of the counties having large cities, for example, stand as "best", having granted fewest tires per vehicle. Agricultural pursuits in other counties depend almost entirely on automobile transportation. In more urban counties, such as some of those heading the list, automobiles may be used infrequently, and for non-business purposes."

"There is a decided value to the chart," Mr. Bangert pointed out, "as comparisons can be drawn between similar counties, and you will be able to determine the relative effectiveness of your board's effort to conserve tires."

Sees No Chance of Bill Being Taken up Before November Election

Senator Ball states that the project is a part of the flood control bill which passed the house and was reported out by the senate commerce committee and is now on the calendar. He adds that there is no chance that the bill will be taken up before the November election, but that he expects it will be brought up soon after.

"As you probably know", he writes, "there is a bitter fight over the Missouri river project in the bill between the irrigationists and the waterway people, and I believe that efforts are being made to iron that out before bringing the bill up in the senate".

MOST OF FIELD OF OATS AT AIRPORT THRESHED SUNDAY

Big Crew of Men and Machines Thresh out Total of 3,597 Bushels

Approximately fifty volunteer workers turned out Sunday for the oft-postponed threshing bee in the 200-acre oats field on the municipal airport site, and by the time the last bundle had been pitched in the evening a total of 3,597 bushels of oats had been hauled away by truckers.

With three threshing rigs operating part of the day, and two the rest of the time, the crew cleaned up approximately two-thirds of the field. The quality of the grain was adversely affected by long exposure to wet weather while standing in shock.

In behalf of the local chapter of the National Aeronautics association sponsor of the bee, President W. H. Kinghorn stated, "Speaking for the threshing committee, I wish to thank all those who turned out so splendidly and helped with the work. I can assure you that your cooperation was appreciated by the committee".

Weather permitting, the remainder of the field will be threshed before the end of the week, approximately 800 bushels of additional grain having been threshed Wednesday.

COUNCIL HOLDS LONG SESSION TUESDAY NIGHT

Arranges for Drafting of New Ordinance Covering Fire Department

LEVY TO BE MADE FOR FIREMEN'S RELIEF

Group of Residents Object to Moving House onto Crocker av. N.

Devoting much time to the hearing of delegations, the city council Tuesday evening held its September session, which did not adjourn until midnight.

Lawrence Bjorkman was the spokesman for a group of members of the local fire department who asked that the department be given authority to appoint three additional volunteer firemen at a yearly salary of $125 each. It developed that a change in the city ordinance governing the matter is required, and City Attorney Theodore Quale was instructed to draft a revised ordinance for submission at an early meeting.

Pointing out that a levy of one-tenth of a mill is mandatory under a new state law for the firemen's relief association, the delegation requested a levy of two-tenths of a mill so that the fund can be kept in balance. It was indicated that action on the matter would be taken when the budget for the coming year is adopted in October.

The council acted to make upward revisions in the salaries of several city employes which it decided were out of line.

Frank J. Watch, proprietor of Frank's Eat Shop at 308 Main av. N., applied for a transfer of his beer license to Mrs. Annie Olson of the Town of North. The matter was referred to the license committee with power to act.

Joe Holmes, owner of a tract of land on the west bank of Thief River north of the city, appeared regarding his long-pending claim for flood damages alleged to have resulted from raising the height of the city dam. The council voted to make an inspection of the property.

A petition from a group of residents in the 300 block on Crocker av. N. was read objecting to the proposed moving of a house from 106 Kinney av. S. to the site of a house on Crocker av. destroyed by fire last winter. The matter was referred to the council building committee for investigation.

Building permits were granted to Kern M. Olson covering remodeling work on the Firestone garage, and to Mrs. Emma Ward for an addition to be constructed to the building occupied by the Taxerass Implement company at a cost of $1,300.

Acting on suggestions contained in the report of the state public examiner, the council discussed methods of more efficient handling of receipts and disbursements in connection with the operation of the sports arena. The examiner's report recommended that all receipts be turned in regularly to the city treasury, and that bills be paid by City Clerk P. G. Pederson.

Lt. Lydia H. Dahlen Now Finishing 2 Years Nurse Service in So. Pacific

New Hebrides, South Pacific — Lt. Lydia H. Dahlen, the daughter of Mrs. H. S. Dahlen, Thief River Falls, will soon have completed two years of overseas service. Lt. Dahlen, a ward nurse in an evacuation hospital stationed at this base, rates high praise for her work in caring for patients from the battle zones of Guadalcanal, Munda, Bougainville, and New Georgia.

The hospital was one of the first army units to land in the New Hebrides and in a remarkably short time was set up and ready for patients. The unit's outstanding record of giving patients the best possible care has been due in a large measure to the tireless efforts of the nurses.

Lt. Dahlen entered the army in September of 1942 and left for overseas October 20th of the same year. Prior to entrance into the service, she was a member of the nursing staff at the Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. A brother, Lt. Colonel C. A. Dahlen is in the infantry in the South Pacific.

SHOT IN THE DARK BRINGS DOWN BEAR

Baudette. — Awakened from a sound sleep in the middle of the night by the barking of his police dog, Emil Servine crawled from his warm bed to investigate. He found the dog stationed at the bottom of a tree, howling with all his might. Between howls, a hissing sound seemed to emanate from above. An effort to peer into the tree top by means of a flashlight failed, the battery apparently being worn out. So with a double barrel gun Emil made a perfect shot in the dark. From the tree tumbled a roly-poly bear.

Peter Eberhardt, 91, Pioneer of Community, Passes Away Sunday

Peter Eberhardt of Grygla, long time resident of this locality, who was one of the first boat builders here and played an important part in the development of this section in the pioneer days, passed away Sunday at a local hospital at the age of 91. Rev. D. K. Olson will conduct rites Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Seventh Day Adventist church, and interment will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Eberhardt, born Aug. 20, 1853 in Norway, came with his parents to the United States at the age of 17. He homesteaded in Renville county in 1880 and was married to Emma Ostrem in Goodhue county. They then moved to Port Arthur, Canada, where they lived for two years, after this moving to Crookston and Red Lake Falls, where Mr. Eberhardt was employed in the lumber mills. He moved to this city in 1890 and the following year built the Viking boat, the first boat to make a trip on the Red Lake river and Red Lake. At his own expense he cleaned up the river so it could be navigated.

Later he was employed for the Winton Bros. building boats and barges in Minnesota and Canada. He also proved up a stone and timber claim in Beltrami county. In the frontier days Mr. Eberhardt was always interested in the development of this section of the state and acted as a guide for government men, who came to this locality in the interests of the state.

Surviving are three sons, Emil of Grygla, George of Kelliher, and Severin of Great Falls, Mont; 6 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, two sons, and one daughter.

The deceased was born June 7, 1892, in Sanders township.

Some Specific Suggestions

If the wind has loosened steel roofing, have it nailed tight immediately with galvanized roofing nails. And if it needs painting—do it now.

Paint your garbage can inside and out to protect it against food acids and weather.

Paint your galvanized wire window screens before putting them away for winter. Varnish copper or bronze screens.

If metal railings, iron fences or gates are rusty, remove loose rust with wire brush and paint with red lead, followed by house paint.

Take care of steel casements. With a little attention, they will serve you faithfully for life. Wherever moisture or seepage threatens deterioration, clean with a wire brush, paint with red lead, followed with a good house paint. Caulk the joints between frame and house.

Fire Retardant

According to tests made by the Underwriters' Laboratories, lumber properly treated with chromated zinc chloride is so fire retardant that it is classified on a combustibility scale closer to asbestos than to ordinary wood.

STATE LEGION TO HOLD DRIVE FOR MEMORIAL BLDG.

Seeking to Raise $1,000,000 for Project in State Capital

The American Legion of Minnesota has launched a drive for one million dollars with which it plans to erect a memorial building for state offices of the Legion, as well as a permanent residence for mementos and trophies from World War I and II. An important part of the program will be the rehabilitating and caring for returning veterans of World War II and their dependents.

These plans were announced today in a joint statement by Oscar Lewis, new department commander for the Legion posts, and Mrs. Linda V. Stoops, department president for the auxiliary units.

The foundation's program was presented in special meeting during the Legion annual state convention held in Mankato in mid-August. Since that time, the "million dollar idea" has been presented to the executive committee of the Legion and to the executive board of auxiliaries at meetings held last week in the Twin Cities.

The drive for one million dollars will organize each local post and auxiliary unit into teams under co-chairmen, who will obtain subscriptions from Legion and auxiliary members.

Cows Like Lead Paint

Dairy animals are very sensitive to lead poisoning, and they happen to be fond of the taste of lead paint. Old paint cans or pails should be properly disposed of to make sure dairy cattle will not come in contact with them. Avoid the use of lead paint on the inside of the dairy barn and never permit animals to contact with the painted surface of a barn or fence until it is thoroughly dry.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

This letter to the Public Forum is to give the people responsible for starting school at 8 o'clock an idea of how the rural parents feel.

First, we feel it is too hard on the children. Second, we believe it is not helping the labor shortage or saving time, gas, or tires. Third, people who have to pay bus transportation and still find it necessary to take the children to school, find it unjust.

To make this clear there is the case of one girl. This is not an exceptional case. There are others on the bus earlier than she. She gets on the bus at 6:05 in the morning. She has a mile and a half to the bus from her home. In order to be sure of getting there on time, she must leave home at least 5:40. Before she starts she must eat her breakfast, (if she eats one) and get herself ready for school. She takes from ten to twenty minutes, therefore she must get up at 5:20. Think it over.

How long is it since you were up regularly at 5:20? If she oversleeps even a few minutes she will have to have help in order to get to the bus on time. Her breakfast is gulped down in a hurry while someone probably combs her hair, another gets her school lunch, coat, and books. She grabs them up as she makes a dash out the door into the inky dark.

At that time of the morning, she hasn't a chance to see more than a bare outline of the road. If it has been raining (and when it hasn't been?), she will have to dodge ruts filled with water and mud. If she takes too much time, she may miss the bus by as little as thirty yards. The driver cannot see beyond the road edge and he hasn't the time to wait at every crossing. If she gets on the bus, she must ride until 7:05 when the bus gets to her school. She has an hour wait before school starts. The bus goes after another load of school children. From 8 until 1 she is occupied with school.

Now if she were to go potato picking she would have to eat her lunch and ride fifty miles to the field. She gets there about 2:30. Now this girl has been up over nine hours, eaten two cold lunches, and is now ready to pick potatoes until dark. On the long ride home she is both tired and sleepy and say nothing about hungry. She will not get home before nine and it may be ten,—way past the family supper time. She eats more food that has been kept warm an hour or more. She hasn't bothered to take any school work home with her as she knows she will be too tired to even glance at it. She goes to bed after seventeen or eighteen hour day.

Do you think this girl or any other boy or girl is in any mental state to do her school work justice? Do you think our boys and girls are physically strong enough to do this? No wonder parents refuse to let their boys and girls go picking potatoes. Many are so tired when they return from school that they must rest in order to be up the next morning. Is this helping the labor shortage in any way?

Wouldn't it be better to have school at the regular time and when the weather permits potato picking, threshing, and etc. dismiss the older students for the entire day? It seems reasonable to think that students can accomplish as much in one week of regular school with minds and bodies rested, with some home work, as they can in shortened periods with no home work, and minds more than half asleep even if their eyes are open.

Last winter there was much dissatisfaction because the school did not go back to the old time during the months of December, January, and February. The coldest time of the day, in the proverbial darkness before dawn, we had to set our children out for school and then wait a couple of hours for daylight so we could see to do our work.

Now the people who are responsible for this early school business know how the rural communities feel. We hope something will be done to improve it. I am sure if any kind of vote could be taken, a huge majority would want to start at nine now and an hour later in the mid-winter. Perhaps those who feel as I do, could help bring about a change if they would write or talk to the people who have the authority to make the change.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Lloyd Johnson

Editor Times:

The Internationalists propose an organization of all the winning Nations in this war, which shall have a Council, or Court rather, with "Power to enforce its decrees". So it is plain to anyone that if the U. S. A. should agree to such an organization, we should either lose our sovereignty, or break our agreement and likely start another war thereby, if this foreign World Court should make some interpretation of the agreement to which we could not agree.

Suppose there should arise some controversy between some of the Nations, could we not then act more wisely if free to interpret the International agreement ourselves, than we could if bound by the interpretations of some foreign Court? Certainly we could. And we have now shown several times, and especially in the two last World Wars, that we could do so anytime, if we do not sell out our Sovereignty for some fool Super Government. Such a policy will be sure to start another war, and that in rather short time. Witness the Holy Alliance, The Triple Alliance, and the League of Nations.

The Democratic National Platform come straight out for this kind of Super Government, but the Republican one pussy foots the proposition, so Dewey still has the chance to interpret it plainly that we will never agree to any organization whose charter or by-laws take the final interpretation and decision away from the U. S. A. If he has the guts to do so, and I hope he has. Anyway according to press reports, when asked what the Republican plank on this subject meant, he simply said he would put his own interpretation thereof when the campaign would start, so he will maybe come clear on this point.

Anyway, it is about the only way he can win, for after watching trends and campaigns the last 60 years I have the opinion and faith in the American people that they will not deliberately sell out the good old U. S. A. for any sort of World, or Super Government. That is why the Internationalists are trying to put a new meaning in the word "Sovereignty" so as to fool the people, but either we are a Sovereign Nation, or we are not. There is no "degree" in sovereignty.

So far as economic laws for our country, both parties have a rather punk record, especially so far as the farmers are concerned, so trying to run the campaign on the criticism of the opposition's economic record, would be like one who keeps blaming the one he criticizes for doing the same as he does himself, and that will do no good for to win votes. Let them rather say a few things in specific language, of what is proposed. Generalities have meant nothing so long now, that the electorate pays little or no attention to them. But, in spite of all this, let us not act like Esau of old, who sold his birth right for a mess of beans. Let us stick to our sovereignty, for the nation that forgets God shall be destroyed.

Request Assistance to Meet Demand in Caring for Returning Wounded

With the climax of the war imminent, the ranks of the returning wounded grow daily greater and the lack of trained technicians to care for the wounded becomes ever more apparent. To meet both the present and anticipated need, the surgeon general, Major General Kirk, has asked the Women's Army Corps to supply 20,000 medical technicians to aid in the huge rehabilitation program already in operation. This was announced by WAC Recruiter Sgt. A. P. Collins of Fargo.

Sgt. Collins said that especially needed were women with training or experience as pharmacists, optometrists, child welfare workers, settlement or social case workers, recreational directors, dental technicians, dental hygienists, X-ray technicians, instructors of deaf, blind and mute, occupational therapists, medical technicians, laboratory technicians, medical stenographers, psychiatrists, orthopedists, constructors and repairers of hearing aids.

He urged all interested women who can meet the initial requirements for enlistment in the WAC to write at once to the U. S. recruiting office, 307 Broadway, Fargo, North Dakota, for further information and interviews.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

In a letter received recently by his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dicken of this city from Pvt. Alvin Dicken a prisoner of war now in Germany, he states, "Dear Mother and Dad, Here are a few more lines to let you know I am O. K. as yet." Then he goes on to say that "the Red Cross is still doing good work for us boys. I don't know what we would do without their help."

Alvin has been a prisoner of war since February 1942. With him at prison camp is Miles Efteland, also of this city. He says in his letters that both of the boys have been receiving their letters and packages from home.

The Red Cross gratefully acknowledges the memorial gift of twenty-four dollars from relatives and friends of the late Sgt. Arthur Ona. Sgt. Ona, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvik Ona of Sanders township was killed in action July 10, while serving with the U. S. infantry in Italy. Memorial rites were conducted Sunday afternoon in the Oak Ridge church west of Thief River Falls.

A war doesn't end with the last gun that's fired. For the wounded the war goes on many years after the peace is signed.

The medical and nursing emergency, therefore, will continue long aftr the cessation of hostilities. Doctors and nurses now engaged in binding wounds on battlefields will spend long months rehabilitating the injured and maimed, reconstructing shattered limbs, reteaching lost functions.

Here in Thief River Falls, as in communities throughout the nation, we shall be forced to continue the self-reliance learned during the war. And it must be a self-reliance based on knowledge.

The most effective weapon a wife or mother can have in the protection of family well-being is a knowledge of Red Cross home nursing. Through carefully planned courses of instruction, she learns the simple skills that enable her to combat disease by preventive measures, to recognize symptoms when they develop and to care for the patient in time of illness. The Pennington County Red Cross chapter is again offering an opportunity for every housewife to learn home nursing principles. We feel that it is actually more than an opportunity, it is virtually an obligation for each woman responsible for family health to take advantage of this home nursing instruction.

Watch the front page of this or the next issue of this paper for an announcement of the arrival of our September quota of gauze.

Mrs. David Fast has presented the local Red Cross with a ten dollar memorial that was given by friends and relatives for the late T. G. Berglund, father of Mrs. Fast. The Red Cross accepts with thanks this memorial gift.

Soldiers vs. Civilians in Tomorrow's World

You hear some talk about how—when the war is over—there's going to be bad feeling between soldiers and civilians; how the country will be divided into those who fought in uniform and those who stayed at home.

Well, maybe you saw that letter from a soldier overseas, in one of our big magazines. It said that men in uniform aren't thinking any such thoughts—any more than folks at home are.

The most important thing is, that we're all engaged in one titanic struggle to preserve our freedom and our rights—not just as soldiers or civilians—but as Americans!

From where I sit, that attitude is going to win the war—and win the Peace too. If we can respect the rights of others—whether it's their right to enjoy a glass of beer, or to vote the way they please—we've got a mighty sound foundation for our peacetime world.

After a week of campaigning, Thomas E. Dewey probably has not taken many Roosevelt votes away from Roosevelt, nor is it likely that his attacks on the present administration will prove convincing to large numbers of those voters who as yet have not decided which way they will go in the general election. Dewey should bear in mind that Roosevelt is a popular leader; that the public generally has little fault to find with the way the war is being conducted; and that because of Roosevelt policies our country is enjoying unprecedented prosperity. The one thing wrong with the present administration is its reckless spending. Not only the war but the entire social improvement program has been financed by borrowed money. The people who are enjoying the present prosperity are also aware that there is a day of reckoning ahead of us and they are concerned about it. The people realize that not only must there be an end to deficit spending but that there must be a reasonable plan for the gradual retirement of our national debt if we are to avoid a national catastrophe. So far Mr. Dewey has presented himself in the role of a prosecuting attorney. In this role he has little chance of being elected. He will make votes between now and election day only to the extent that he convinces the American people that he is capable of giving the country good leadership in a very difficult period of adjustment.

Allied forces are meeting less resistance along the German border than was expected and this is causing some commentators to wonder hopefully if Hitler's military machine is so badly smashed that it is incapable of making a stand. Such thinking is encouraged by the report that American armies alone have taken 320,000 German prisoners since D-Day, which would indicate that German losses in France since D-Day might total close to a million men. Equipment losses probably have been even greater correspondingly than the loss of men. Considering the enormous losses suffered on the Russian and other fronts in recent years it would indeed be remarkable if the Germans were still able to muster enough reserve strength to build new defense lines along their western borders that would be capable of holding back the allied advance for long. With the Russians ready to put the squeeze on the other side of the nutcracker and allied strength in France steadily increasing, it is easy to understand why the commentators are hopeful.

'Zero Milestone' Built in Place of L'Enfant Column

No doubt most Americans have read or heard about the Zero Milestone. Where is it? What is it? It is simply a block of granite four feet high with a bronze compass designed on top and it stands on the meridian of the District of Columbia just south of the White House grounds.

This Zero Milestone takes the place of the "itinerary column" planned by L'Enfant, first capital planner, for a place one mile east of the Capitol from which all distances of places throughout the continent were to be calculated. But for some unknown reason the L'Enfant column was never built. On the street side of the Zero Milestone it shows the designation "Zero Milestone" with the insignia of the motor transportation corps, U. S. army. The inscriptions on the other three sides show that it constitutes a point from which distances may be measured on the highways of the United States radiating from Washington.

Its erection was authorized by congress in an act approved in 1920.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Oscar Quam who passed away September 17th, 1942.

Two years have passed since that sad day,
When Leatie dear was called away.
We loved you then, we love you still.
Forget you! No, we never will.
In our memory you are so very near.
Oh, we miss you so dear Leatie,
Our beloved wife and mother.
We try to still our heart aches,
And try our best to smile;
For God will let us come to you,
After a little while.
O, may we meet, dear wife and mother,
Where friends no more shall weep.
For those who died in Jesus,
Their death is only sleep.

Dearly loved, remembered and longed for always.

Sadly missed by her husband and children, Oscar Quam, Dean and Raymond. 37p

1934—TEN YEARS AGO

The county board was engaged in refinancing ditch bonds and outstanding warrants.—Patsy, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Lane, miraculously escaped serious injury when she fell from a second-story porch to the cement sidewalk below.—Paul Lundgren was installed as high priest of the local chapter of Royal Arch Masons. — Mrs. Claude Evenson succeeded Mrs. Oscar Smith as president of the local American Legion auxiliary.—Harold Holmes succeeded Mrs. Selma Winter as postmaster at St. Hilaire.

1924—TWENTY YEARS AGO

Following a visit to Red Lake by C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, an improved highway from this city to the lake seems to be a certainty.—New office and storage quarters in the basement of the court house will be completed this week by Contractor Bert Norby.—Work of graveling the new Highway 32 from this city to Red Lake Falls is scheduled to begin shortly.—The Hanson and Barzen mill is installing a 100-horsepower Diesel unit to serve as an auxiliary source of power.

Deer Wintering Outlook

Michigan's deer herd is beginning the winter with a double handicap, the department of conservation in that state announces. Deer are reported yarding up a week or two weeks earlier than usual, because of heavy early snows. Furthermore, the big 1942 fawn crop has swelled the deer population, already high because of excellent survival last year. As a result, the department believes that the winter food supply will be heavily taxed in critical areas.

Wildcat Oil Drilling

Last year 3,408 wildcat wells were drilled. This compares with 2,945 wells in 1943. Of the total drilled however, only some 450 (through the first 11 months) turned out to be successful producers, the rest were dry holes. MAILING OF YULE OVERSEAS PARCELS IS NOW UNDER WAY

Wrap Packages Carefully, Is Advice of Army, Navy Authorities

Christmas gifts for overseas service people should be packed in metal, wood, solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard, army and navy postal services advised homefolks last week.

Strong twine around the boxes and tight packing of the contents will insure your service man and woman a better Christmas gift, the experts said. Other advice:

Protect every sharp instrument, such as knife, or razor blades, by careful wrapping.

Use "inner boxes" for all hard candies, nuts, caramels, fruit cakes and chocolate bars. They also should be of wood, metal or cardboard to give the folks overseas a real treat, they advised.

Forget soft candies entirely.

Label the package "Christmas parcel" and see that it weighs not more than five pounds and is not over 15 inches long.

Mailing dates are September 15 to October 15.

The invitation to speak at the festivities of the anniversary celebration is therefore an opportunity for the local pastor to return to his home congregation. In his absence from Trinity Lutheran church, the Rev. Dr. J. N. Brown, president of Concordia College, Moorhead, will conduct the services next Sunday. Dr. Brown is widely known as a college administrator. The service will be held at the usual hour.

News of R. R. Valley Home for the Aged

We have many times been requested by friends of our Old People's Home, to write news items from the Home, and our local paper has kindly consented to this, so this week we are starting our first news column.

Our large family of thirty members, are all well and able to be up and around, except Mrs. Tveit, and she sit up every day in her room.

Emil Johnson, who recently went to Minneapolis to receive care at the University hospital is back at the Home, and greatly improved in health.

Lastest arrivals at the Home have been Henry Grindeland and Gust Johnson. We are receiving letters daily asking us for information about the Home, not only from the northwest, but from as far east as Brooklyn, New York. We wish we had more room.

On Tuesday of last week we celebrated the birthday of Tellef Berg. He was 83 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolf, former manager and matron of the Home, from Karlstad called at the Home Monday evening. They attended the last meeting of the Union Tent Mission while here.

We are so glad to have Mrs. John Paulson with us, as cook again. She and Mr. Paulson will move over this week and make their home with us.

Our gardener, Joseph Benoit, has done a splendid piece of work this summer and we have had an abundance of fresh vegetables for our tables, and much for canning. Olaf Thompson has also furnished vegetables from his own garden.

We have greatly enjoyed the services held here every week by the pastors of the Union Tent Mission, and their guest speakers, also the special singing rendered at each service.

The Mission circle of the Ev. Free church held the service here last Friday afternoon and gave a very interesting program of speaking and special singing. At the close of the service the ladies served lunch and the proceeds were given to the Home, and we were very thankful for this help.

Others who have given us donations of bedding, dishes, magazines, and flowers are Mrs. Gaston Ward, A. B. McLaughlin, Mrs. Petrina Urseth, Mrs. Borchert, and the ladies from the Swedish Covenant church of Thief River Falls.

New Low Mark Here in Unemployment Claims

During August no new claims for unemployment compensation benefits were filed in the area served by the Thief River Falls office of the Minnesota division of employment and security, as compared with five such claims in July. Victor Christgau, state director for the division, said that thus far this year in the area, 79 new claims have been filed at the office—35 per cent. less than for the same period a year ago.

Time Applications

While applications of sulphur to control apple scab during rain are valuable and sometimes indispensable, large amounts of sulphur may be wasted unless certain precautions are exercised as to timing.

Keeping Score

.... With HUCK OLSON

Prowler Progress

As a result of the long afternoon practice sessions, Coach Glenn Hanna's Prowlers have made rapid progress the past week, and on the reports emanating from the P and G (where manager Gordy Reierson and coach Lefty Bredeson have established headquarters for their alumni All-Stars) the Prowlers will need all that progress if they are to win tomorrow night's game.

The alumni have been bolstered by players from Warren (Red Bossman), St. Hilaire (Blackie Stephens and Woody Almquist), Wadena (Jimmy Welton), and the Northwest Aggies (Irish Ferrier and Ray Oen), and until they "run out of gas," on about the third play, they'll provide plenty of competition for the speedy Prowlers. The lineup for the All-Stars will probably have Sammy Plough and Jim Welton at the ends, Tony Dorn and Harry Oen at the tackles, Dake Ayers and Woody Almquist at the guards, Gordy Reierson at center, Red Bossman at quarterback, Blackie Stephens and Ray Oen at halfbacks, and Ferrier at fullback. Roy Rupprecht, Prowler letterman last year, will be an early replacement in the backfield, and Lefty Bredeson will move into the line when they carry Reierson off the field. The All-Stars aren't bragging about the scores they'll make, but they guarantee that the Prowlers won't be making much yardage through the line.

Two Fast Men Missing

And the Prowlers won't have the scoring power that they'll possess later on in the season, as Herby Claffy and Ninsk Carlson, two of the shiftiest open-field runners on the squad, won't be in the starting lineup. Herb, although he's been trotting through the week's drills, still runs with a slight limp and it's doubtful that Coach Hanna will use his top break-away runner until next week. And Ninsk Carlson, who had been showing up well in the left halfback spot, has been forced out of practice because of a reinfection in his jaw. If that infection can be cleared up in time, Ninsk may be able to get into tomorrow night's fracas.

Count Your Ducks

The duck hunting regulations released by the department of the interior are somewhat confusing, especially the daily and possession limits, and not very many hunters understand them. The daily bag limit of waterfowl has been increased to 15 ducks, but at least five of those ducks must be either mallards, pintails, or widgeon, or a combination of those three species. Or your daily bag limit, 15 ducks, may consist entirely of mallards, pintails, or widgeon. The daily bag limit has been increased on those three species of ducks because the great increase in their numbrs has caused, and will cause considerable crop damage in some parts of the country.

The possession limit, too, has been increased, with a hunter allowed to have 30 ducks in his possession, with ten of the ducks restricted to mallards, pintails, or widgeon.

Reports indicate that the majority of the local hunters will open the season either in the vicinity of Mud Lake or along the flood waters of the Red Lake river above River Valley. Many of the mallard hunters will patrol ditches 20 and 200, and they should have good luck as the potholes north of the ditch are filled and there is sufficient feed for the ducks. Flood conditions which were bad at River Valley last year are worse this year, with the river nearly a foot or more above last year's high water mark. Scouts have told me that there are thousands of ducks around there, but that it will be tough hunting and that many ducks will be lost because of the high grass and rushes. A fellow should have a retriever. Oscar Bakke and Christ Kierk say that they'll have the same white-haired retriever they had last year, and that means, I suppose, that they'll have Jimmy Kelly picking up their ducks.

Lysaker to the Aggies

Herschel Lysaker, coach at Crookston Central last year, and whose basketball team won the district title, has taken the position of athletic coach and phy. ed. instructor at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston. Ray Flom, principal at Crookston Central, will probably have a hand in coaching the Pirates this year. Ray formerly coached at East Grand Forks, so he's competent to handle the Pirates.

Hallock Young Lady to Speak Here on Sunday

Miss Viola Tranberg, Hallock, who will enter Prairie Bible Institute at Three Hills, Alberta, next month, will speak at the Young People's society meeting next Sunday evening, 6:15 o'clock, in the Mission Covenant church, according to Mae Carlson, president. Miss Tranberg also will speak at other Sunday services in the church.

GOODRIDGE

Mrs. Stephenson Passes On

It is a sad task to have to report the death of Mrs. Gena Stephenson, which occurred Monday morning about six o'clock at a local hospital. She suffered a slight stroke some time ago and in May she went to Minneapolis, where she spent the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Vaughan. She had intended to spend the winter in Bemidji to be near her son Ray, who has looked after her interests ever since his father's death 12 years ago. She and her sons Dean and Donald came to their home here last week to prepare to be gone for the winter, and she was taken worse and suffered another stroke. On Friday she was taken to a local hospital. She was a faithful worker in her church and always helped anyone who needed a boost. Her home was open to the young people, who spent an evening there in clean wholesome fun.

She has one son, Vernon, serving in France, one son, Orrin training in Texas, and Dean leaves for induction this month. Ray, Dean, Donald, and Milford were with her from the time she was stricken. Her daughter, Addie was en route from her home in Florida and was to join her sister Myrtle in Minneapolis, but didn't reach here before their mother passed on.

School Opened

School opened here Tuesday with one teacher lacking. However, Mrs. Bud Korstad has filled that vacancy now. Mrs. Josephson carried on the first week. Professor Netland was absent three days due to an infection, and Mrs. Johnson was absent Friday due to a severe cold. Mrs. Payne took over her duties. The school house has been repainted and new steps built. Many students are absent this week on account of threshing and potato picking.

Birthday Party

Mrs. Selma McEnelly was pleasantly surprised Monday when a group of ladies came with lunch and gifts to spend her birthday with her. The time was spent socially. Those present were Mmes. J. Ramsey, S. Ramsey, O. McEnelly and Michael, J. A. McEnelly, Belland, C. Iverson, and Josephson. Several others sent gifts, but were unable to be present.

Mrs. Anna Kusmak, Ed and Erling returned to Thief River Falls Monday as the rain made threshing on their farm impossible.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Urdahl and Delores were Thief River Falls callers Monday.

Mrs. E. L. Peterson shared her wedding cake Tuesday with several ladies, who arranged her silver wedding party. Fancy work and visiting passed a pleasant afternoon and lunch was served at four. Her guests were Mesdames Carl Olson, C. Christianson, Sabo, Geving, Syverson, McLeod, Prestabak, Wiseth, Kast, Wilkens, South, Josephson, and Cannon, also Betty Wiseth.

Perry Halvorson had the misfortune to break his right arm at the wrist while cranking his car last week.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. P. C. Halvorson Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Torson of Moorhead, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Younger and children of Chillicothe, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Stuey and Nancy of River Valley.

Mrs. P. C. Halvorson and Amber, Mrs. Malcolm Stuey and Nancy, and Mrs. Harry Stuey were Thief River Falls shoppers Friday.

Rev. and Mrs. O. O. Bjorgan called on little Sydney Omlid, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Swen Omlid, at the sanatorium last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kriel and children, and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McEnelly were Sunday evening visitors at Selma McEnelly's.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Belland and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McEnelly attended a house warming at the Rev. Hoyum home in Thief River Falls Sunday.

Bears are surely getting too domesticated to be comfortable in this vicinity. At one farm home the ladies were about to do the milking as their men folks were all threshing and there was a large bear lying in the yard with the cows. The mail carriers see them frequently on their trips.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Syverson and daughters spent the week-end with relatives at Rindal.

Ten more youngsters from this locality went to North Dakota Sunday to pick potatoes.

Friends here received word from Mrs. Jerry Hogan (Frances Solberg) that she is working at Consolidated and is married to a sailor. Mrs. Hogan was a former teacher in our school.

Gust Ristau of Dearborn, Mich., spent a few days in our midst last week. He came after his daughter Carol, who had spent the summer here with relatives.

Pfc. Dan Josephson is spending a few days with his parents en route to a new camp in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Norman Jorgenson, who is employed in North Dakota spent the week-end with his family.

Mrs. Bruce Blazer is reported much improved in health. Sunday guests at her home were Mr. and Mrs. Nelius Johnson and daughters and Wilbert of Emmerado, N. Dak. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and children of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wiseth, Kenneth Dean and Jean were Sunday callers in Thief River Falls.

The Esplee school districts decided to bring their children by bus to the Goodridge school. They started this week with Axel Sund as driver.

Mrs. Carl Syverson and Mrs. A. D. Josephson will entertain aid Friday, Sept. 15 at the Goodridge Lutheran church.

SICK SHEEP

A great many sheep are dying from a disease contracted from grazing on wet or marshy pastures.

Death may occur after an illness of only a few days and without any symptoms that can be definitely attributed to any particular disease.

Sheep suffering from the chronic form of this disease are easily fatigued when driven. As the disease progresses the gait becomes stiff, loss of condition becomes more marked, swellings develop under the jaw and they become pot-bellied. The mouth, eyes and along the backbone will be pale and anemic.

This disease requires a specific treatment that is exceptionally effective. It is easy to give and is inexpensive. However, this treatment must be given before the advanced stages of the disease. For further particulars see us.

Memorial Services

Pfc. Fred John Rasmussen was born in Cedar Township on Feb. 24, 1911. He was baptized in the Lutheran church. Fred attended school in Cedar Township where he grew to manhood.

He farmed on his parents' farm until being called into the U. S. Army in April, 1942. Details of his death are lacking except that he was drowned while serving his country in New Guinea on July 21, 1944. He was laid to rest in a military cemetery located near large beautiful palm trees and sloping toward the Pacific ocean. Arrangements were made so that his brother Walter who is also in the Pacific somewhere was able to attend his funeral. At the time of his passing Fred was 33 years old. He is survived by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rasmussen of Cedar Township, five sisters: Gena (Mrs. August Meyer) of Fargo; Elsie (Mrs. Guy Knutson) of Middle River; Ellen (Mrs. Sylvester Hemp) of Bemidji; Bertha and Elvina of Middle River; four brothers, Johnny, Elmer and Henry of Middle River, and Walter with the U. S. Army in New Guinea. One sister, Mrs. Alfred Knutson preceded Fred in death.

Memorial services were held Sunday afternoon at 4 P. M. from the First Luth. church with Rev. T. C. L. Hanson of Holt officiating. All funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Hans Lian Post of Middle River assisted by Arvid Carlson. "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling," and "No Night There" was sung by the girls trio: Beverly Hanson, Aldeen Lindahl and Annabelle Peterson.

Twenty-seven lives were lost in motor vehicle traffic accidents in Minnesota in August, several of them in unusual circumstances, according to a summary of reports received by the Minnesota highway department. The number is three more than in August, 1943, and three less than in August, 1942, but is far below the August, 1941, record, when 76 met death in traffic.

Seven of the August victims were killed in motor collisions, four of them in one accident. In one collision the victim was a man standing on the running board of one of the cars.

Seven met death in cars that left the road and overturned or struck fixed objects, three of them in one car which failed to make a turn in the road. In another case wind took a car off the road into a ditch, causing death of one of two occupants pinned in the car. One man was killed when he fell from a trailer, due to wind shifting the load on which he was riding.

Five adult pedestrians met death in August. One was hit by a passing car as he was inspecting damage in a minor collision of two cars, one was killed while separating two cars with locked bumpers, one walked into the side of a moving car, one was hit as he was getting into his own car and one was hit by a car which went out of control, ran up on a sidewalk and pinned him against a building.

Three were killed in collisions with trains, two of them in one accident.

Three children under six were killed, two of them while crossing streets and one while hitching a ride on a truck. One boy on a bicycle was among the August traffic victims, the seventh bicyclist to be killed this year.

Traffic fatalities for the first eight months in 1944 total 209, compared to 146 in the same months in 1943.

I USED TO BE the kind of a guy who was always on the owing end of the deal. If I was even with the grocer I owed the gas man. If I was even with the gas man I owed the grocer. I owed on the house, the car, and the furniture.

But it's all different now. Every payday I lend 10% of my pay to Uncle Sam. The payroll plan is a simple, easy way to do my part.

Well, the other night, fingering over those nice, crisp War Bonds, I said to the Mrs.: "For once," I said, "we got somebody owing us money. Uncle Sam! He is promising to pay us back $4 for every $3 we put into those bonds."

"My," said the Mrs., "why don't we try to buy more of those bonds out of your pay? I could do some paring down. Let's see if we can't make it 15% instead of 10%." We did it, by golly, and so can you.

8,000 MORE JOB OPENINGS SEP. 1 IN STATE LISTED

Number Increases to 28,000, Says Dreng Bjornaraa, WMC Chief

The number of unmanned jobs in Minnesota jumped 8,000—from 20,000 on Aug. 1 to 28,000 on Sept. 1, according to Dreng Bjornaraa, state director for the War Manpower Commission and the U. S. employment service.

Nearly 80 per cent of all these unfilled jobs are in essential industry, Bjornaraa said. Over 78 per cent call for men.

"WMC's statewide 'manpower touchdown drive', our special effort to recruit workers to produce supplies needed by our armed forces, has been under way for two weeks, Bjornaraa said. "The fact that the demand for manpower has increased indicates the vital importance of the ordnance for which our military leaders are calling.

"Despite the drive, the unfilled job order files in USES offices are growing. Regardless of peace talk and reconversion plans, these jobs must be filled, now, if victory is to come quicker. Lack of material prolongs the war and means more Americans killed and wounded!"

The lumber industry, in need of hundreds of workers, is playing a major part in our war effort, he said. These jobs must be filled, if the state's quota for lumber production is to be met.

All persons not now in essential war work are urged to consult their nearest U. S. Employment Service about a war job.

ROCKEFELLER TO BACK WAR FUND IN MILL CITY SPEECH

To Address Dinner Meeting at State University September 22

Representatives of this county have been invited to attend the dinner meeting at the University of Minnesota September 22 at which John D. Rockefeller, Jr. will deliver his one speech of the year on behalf of the National War Fund.

Mr. Rockefeller will speak on, "The Power to See it Through" at a meeting sponsored by the Minnesota War Service Fund, the Hennepin County War Chest, the St. Paul Community and War Relief Fund and the Duluth War and Community Fund. J. Cameron Thomson, state chairman, will preside.

Mr. Rockefeller has never come this far west before to speak. He gives but one speech a year and there has always been great competition among the various states for the privilege of hearing him.

Minnesota's successful campaign last year in which citizens of the state contributed more than $2,500,000 to the National War Fund was a determining factor in bringing Mr. Rockefeller to Minnesota this year.

The meeting will take place at Coffman Memorial Union on the University of Minnesota campus. James R. Hill, who drove an ambulance overseas as a member of the American Field Service, also will speak.

Need Milk

If the amount of milk for a child is reduced below the prescribed level of one quart a day there is a likelihood of diet impoverishment in these particular constituents which are best supplied by milk. No substitution for the omitted milk is ordinarily practical because too great a variety of foodstuffs would be required to meet the incurred deficit.

"The word 'charge' always affects your father that way— I just said we'd have the Standard Oil Man charge the car battery!"

Mom and Pop and the Car...

Mom's right! Batteries, under light summer loads, can appear to be strong but really be weak. It's wise right now to see that the battery has— and can hold—the proper charge for the heavier loads soon coming up.

In the car care matter, Mom exhibits real "know-how," these days. And why not? Any motorist—man or woman— can keep a car running right, running longer, and running farther on every gallon of gasoline.

Just take it to a Standard Oil Dealer. He's trained in wartime car-saving service.

Remember, it's going to be a long time before you can replace your car. Don't neglect it.

WHERE OR WHERE ARE MY CATTLE?

Clarkfield.—That was the problem Carl Olson scratched his head about for several days recently when a herd of ten heifers and cows strayed from the fold. Finding them, after several days of searching, seemed hopeless and to say the least, it was hard work. At last a bright thought, why not hunt by means of airplane? No quicker thought of than he had engaged an amateur flyer from a neighboring town at a fee of $8 an hour. In just 55 minutes the flyer had located the wanderers.

Stocked With Metals

A pauper in petroleum, Spain is a well-stocked treasure land in the eyes of a metal-hungry world. Rich in silver, Spain was to the ancients what Mexico and Peru in the New World were to the Spanish Conquistadores. Phoenicians, Carthaginians and Romans overran Spain in turn, helped themselves to its metal wealth. Rome's victorious Scipio, home from victories on the Iberian peninsula, paraded the streets with chariots laden with his loot of silver.

QUINTUPLETS!

Fosston.—It has long been the avowed intention of agricultural science to make two ears of corn grow where one usually does. The five ears of corn on one stalk grown by W. A. Dalmage would make the eyes of the expert fairly pop. While one ear is slightly larger than the other four, they have all reached edible maturity. All five are encased in the usual green wrappings with an abundance of corn silk.

"I CUT THE KIND OF PULPWOOD THAT WILL DO THE MOST GOOD"

"With pulpwood so vital to winning the war, I try to cut the kind of pulpwood that is most needed. Right now the mills are calling for spruce and balsam. That's just what I'm giving them—with every stick straight and sound.

"Cutting pulpwood is my share in winning the war and I aim to do my part here the way I want my boy to do his part over there.

"I've found that cutting pulpwood is profitable business and I want to stay in it after the war. I want to be known at the mill as a producer of good sound usable wood."

Maureen Adele Beddow and Bruce R. Prichard Married in California

Saturday evening, Sept. 9, at 8 o'clock, Miss Maureen Adele Beddow of Carona, Calif., and Bruce R. Prichard, PhM2c, of this city spoke their marriage vows in the home of Lieut. and Mrs. Lester V. Tilson of Fullerton, Calif.

The fireplace of the living room of the Tilson home was transformed into an altar with the use of a background of palms interspersed with white larkspur and an arrangement of pastel-shaded asters. The soft lights of the seven-branched candelabra placed on either side made a pretty setting for the wedding party. Rev. W. I. Lowe, pastor of the First Methodist church, read the marriage ceremony.

A most attractive wedding gown of aqua blue taffeta trimmed with plum colored velvet was worn by the charming bride. With her gown she wore a matching veil which fell from a tiara of gardenias. A beautiful cameo locket belonging to the bride's grandmother completed the costume. She was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Tilson served as matron of honor and she wore a gown of pale blue lace with corresponding accessories. Capt. Jarvis B. Prichard of March Field, Calif., served his brother as best man, and members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony.

A recording was made of the ceremony to send to the parents of the groom, who were unable to be present.

The bride, who is a member of the staff of the Fullerton Bank of America, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Beddow of Carona and a graduate of Fullerton Junior college, where she was a member of the Theta Nu Theta sorority. Mrs. Prichard has been most active in the work of the Coronettes and was one of the organizers of the group.

Mr. Prichard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Prichard of this city, and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota. At present he is stationed at Terminal Island, Calif.

Following the wedding ceremony, an informal reception was held at the Tilson home. The bridal table was centered with a beautiful arrangement of pastel shaded and varicolored lighted floating candles, and a large tiered wedding cake was served the guests. Miss Virginia Pennington, in a gown of pale blue, assisted with the reception.

Treat Kindly

Rayon stockings must not be treated roughly, especially when they are wet. One way to reduce the amount of handling is to strip the stocking from the leg wrongside out. Wash first with the stocking inside out, then right side out. Dip the stockings up and down in sudsy water to remove marks where the backs of shoes have scuffed or where mud has been splattered. Rinse as well as wash in lukewarm water. Roll in a towel to press out as much moisture as possible. Even so, it takes a good 24 hours for rayon stockings to dry.

U. S. Graphite Mine, Mill Now in Production

Smudgy, shiny black, flake graphite is being produced from the hills of eastern Pennsylvania, near Chester Springs in Chester county, 30 miles northwest of Philadelphia. The mining and milling equipment is government-owned. Output will be restricted to war industry uses.

Graphite is found in abundance in many parts of the world, says a National Geographic society bulletin. Russia, Germany, Chosen (Korea) and Mexico produce more than four-fifths of the annual world production of 200,000 tons. Nearly half the money value of this total is credited to the one-tenth produced on the Indian ocean islands of Madagascar and Ceylon. One of the softest of minerals, graphite is chemically the same as diamond, the hardest. Both are forms of carbon. Best known as the "lead" in pencils, graphite has many industrial uses.

What Is Right?

"If anyone calls for me, remember I won't be home until tomorrow evening," a salesman father, back early from a trip, whispers intently to his eight-year-old daughter, Mary. "When will I be home? Yes, that's right, tomorrow evening."

"All homework should be your own work," Mrs. Field reminds her sixth grade class that is to write a theme on their most interesting experience during the summer vacation. "Only what YOU do will profit you." Evening comes, and it seems like a difficult assignment, so older sister helps Jimmy write his theme.

"Aw, don't be a sissy; that isn't stealing," railed a small group of boys on the new member of their group who was hesitating to make a quick snatch at a store counter.

As in most homes, Mary had been encouraged to tell the truth under any circumstance. But now she must realize that honesty in the same individual varies with the situation. Sometime it is apparently more convenient and less embarrassing to tell an untruth.

Failure of the home to uphold school standards opens the way for differing standards of honesty at school and at home. Teacher says they should not, but sister or brother are willing to help just the same.

The new member of the boy's group was being exposed for the first time to the fact that different groups have different standards. With his family on a shopping tour, he would never have even an impulse to "lift" anything off a counter. That would be stealing. But, strangely, this new group thought it was showing cowardice to be afraid to do it.

If standards of truth and falsehood were the same in every group that the child entered, and never varied in all the individuals that he knew, he would soon learn the standards and abide by them. But when groups have differing standards, and when individuals change their standards to suit their convenience, the child with his little experience and limited understanding will often be at a loss to know just what is right in situations that he is faced with. When transgressing a group's or an individual's code, the child may be ignorant of standards, he may be uncertain as to the proper action, or he may be following the example set by elders—taking the easiest way out.

Recognizing the contradictions in practice that our children are faced with will help us to understand the why of some of their behavior besides making us consider inconsistencies in our own. And it is still painfully true that example is much more effective than precept in determining children's conduct.

Purple Heart

The Military Order of the Purple Heart is awarded to men wounded in action under conditions which entitle them to wear a wound chevron or to those who have received the Meritorious Citation certificate from the Commander-in-Chief of the AEF.

The decoration, as revised, consists of a heart-shaped medal with a center of purple enamel. A relief bust of George Washington in uniform of a general of the Continental army is on the obverse. On the reverse appears the inscription "For Military Merit." The Washington coat of arms is incorporated in the ring which attaches it to the ribbon.

Scoop for Soap

A little sugar-scoop kept on the shelf with the packaged soap proves useful when making a small amount of suds for a few dishes or for a few pieces of laundry. If the soap is merely shaken out of the box a great deal more than is needed for the job may pour out, and go to waste.

Singles Out Babies

Meningitis is a disease which singles out babies and young children.

Absorbs Odors

Because cream is so sensitive and perishable it must never be kept in any place where it is exposed to objectionable odors. Cream picks up odors much as a blotter absorbs ink. Dark unventilated caves and vegetable and fruit cellars are bad because their odors impart a stale musty flavor to the cream.

Potato Plastics

Plastics are made from potato starch mill slop.

Control of nodular worms in sheep is important in wartime. Healthy sheep produce more meat and wool and also yield sound intestines urgently needed for making surgical sutures. Nodular worms may be controlled by treating ewes with phenothiazine during the winter.

Famous Dolly Madison a Native North Carolinian

Dolly Madison was born Dolly Payne in North Carolina in 1768. The family moved to Virginia and then to New York city so that the children could have better educational opportunities. Beauteous young Dolly married John Todd Jr., a lawyer. The yellow fever epidemic of 1793 took Dolly's husband and the younger of her sons.

The following year she married James Madison, the noted congressman, who was nearly a score of years her senior. She became an important social figure when her husband became secretary of state in 1801. Since President Thomas Jefferson was a widower, Mrs. Madison often was White House hostess. In this capacity she unwittingly became storm center in a struggle for precedence waged by the British minister, Anthony Merry.

Madison became President in 1809 and when they were forced to flee before the British invaders in the War of 1812, Dolly saved many state papers and a portrait of George Washington. When they left the White House they lived quietly on a Virginia plantation. After Madison's death in 1836 Dolly returned to Washington and died there in 1849.

Almost Incredible Score

A General Classification score of 157—in only 30 minutes! Sounds almost incredible, doesn't it? But that's the feat performed recently by a Keesler Field soldier, Private Wallace B. Hardeman (now Corporal Hardeman) who was among the last group of men leaving this unit of the army air forces technical training command for officer candidate training at Miami Beach, Fla. Corporal Hardeman, a VOC from Fort Valley, Ga., actually completed his GCT during processing here with a mark only four points from perfect. Grades usually fall far short of 157, and few men complete the test even in the 45 minutes allowed.

Forestall Farm Labor Shortage

Michigan youths will be recruited and trained during the winter months to forestall a farm labor shortage next summer. Co-operating in the program are the Michigan state council of defense, the War Manpower commission, various farm groups and a variety of Michigan governmental agencies. Under the training plan county youth farm labor committees will be set up to handle each county campaign for recruits, and to help train them to serve as farm workers. A state farm youth labor committee will work with county committees to fit the campaign to local needs.

Short Takes

Private David A. Jernigan, Raleigh, N. C., now stationed at Keesler Field, Miss., is an uncle of Corporal Hargrove of "See Here, Private Hargrove," fame. (Hargrove recently was promoted.) . . . Going up! That's the description of Private Robert Wickizer, Aurora, Ill., who stands six feet, six inches and weighs 250 pounds. Incidentally, the soldier wears a size 16 GI shoe . . . The huge mural in the Service club at Keesler Field is completed. The huge undertaking occupies an area of 1,000 square feet and upon completion will be valued at approximately $10,000.

American Tung Oil Increasing

While production of tung oil in the United States has a long way to go before it can approximate the quantities imported from China in pre-war years, nevertheless the estimated 1942 production in America will approximate 10 million pounds, or approximately 8 per cent of the annual American requirements. American tung oil is of very high quality, lighter in color and more uniform in quality than the Chinese oils which are produced by more primitive means than the modern mills used in this country.

Sheep Casings

The drug phenothiazine, used in controlling nodular worms in sheep, helps to prevent damage to sheep casings. Sheep receiving the drug produce eight times the normal number of undamaged casings.

Was Formerly Publisher of the Devils Lake Daily Journal

Harry W. Fredericks, formerly publisher of the Devils Lake Daily Journal, was elected temporary executive secretary of the Grand Forks Civic & Commerce association, by the organization's directors Monday noon.

Fredericks succeeds W. W. Blain, who resigned effective Sept. 1 because of poor health, after 22 years service with the group. The new secretary will take up his duties within a few days.

Fredericks, the new secretary, comes to Grand Forks with a background of wide experience in newspaper and promotional work. He published several different papers on the west coast and has been president and director of a number of civic commercial groups.

He has recently been visiting in Thief River Falls at the childhood home of Mrs. Fredericks.

Blue Token Use to End Saturday, September 30

Blue tokens can be spent only in multiples of ten between September 17 and October 1. After September 30 blue tokens will no longer be required as "change" as processed foods point values will be in multiples of ten, such as 10, 20, 30, etc., calling for one, two or three 10-point blue stamps. In order that no persons lose points, OPA suggests buyers pool their tokens during this period, to make an even ten tokens.

Ceiling Prices on Live Hogs to be Maintained Until June 30th, 1945

The Office of Price Administration and War Food Administration with the approval of the office of economic stabilization has announced that until June 30, 1945, the ceiling price on live hogs will remain at $14.75 per hundredweight Chicago basis for hogs weighing 240 pounds or less and at $14.00 per hundredweight for hogs weighing more than 240 pounds according to information received by Carl R. Anderson AAA chairman of Pennington county.

Previous to this announcement these ceilings would have expired September 30, 1944, Mr. Anderson said. The assurance to farmers that there will be no reduction in ceiling price of hogs on October 1 should avoid any panicky selling of hogs before that date because hogs are now selling at, or near the ceiling price and any reduction in ceiling on October 1 would probably send many hogs to market before they were properly finished out. Hogs sold because of this reason will help create unnecessary market jams that are likely to drive prices downward.

PRICE PANELS REFUND OVER-CEILING CHARGES ON USED CARS

Local price panels throughout the Fargo-Moorhead OPA district settled fifteen price violations on used car ceilings out of 3118 sales docketed between July 10 (when used cars came under price control) and September 1. Five additional cases were referred to district enforcement officials, and local boards hold 138 cases on which no action has yet been taken.

Certificates of transfer filed with local war price and rationing boards show 1500 dealer sales of used cars and 1618 individual transactions during the seven weeks' period.

Fourteen local price panels handled settlements on over-ceiling charges between July 10 and September 1, with $386.87 refunded to buyers during August. Figures are not available on July refunds. The fourteen county price panels which have handled such cases are Adams, Bottineau, Burke, Cass, McHenry, Sargent, Slope, Stutsman and Walsh in North Dakota, and Norman, Ottertail, Polk, Wadena, and Wilkin in Minnesota.

Price regulations require the individual buyer of a used car to file a certificate of transfer, showing price details of the purchase, at the time of applying for gasoline rations, and dealers are now required to file a certificate of transfer for used cars purchased for resale. Dealers' used car inventories as of September 11 must be filed with local boards by September 21.

LT. FORREST ANDERSON

Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Anderson of Thief River Falls are serving with the armed forces in the Pacific. They are W. O. Leigh A. Anderson, USNR, and Lt. Forrest T. Anderson, USMCR.

Warrant Officer Anderson has been stationed at a base in the Aleutians for the past nine months. He has more than 90 men working under him and is in charge of all of the electrical maintenance at the base and at the large naval airport.

Lt. Forrest T. Anderson's promotion to first lieutenant was effective July 31. He is with a field artillery unit of the 13th Marines, stationed in the Central Pacific.

They are both graduates of Lincoln high school. Until he was commissioned, Leigh was an electrical contractor in Grand Rapids. Forrest was sworn into the Marine corps the same week he was graduated from the St. Paul College of Law.

PUT IN HIS PLACE

A grumpy old cynic in church said when the collection plate was passed to him, "Not a cent. I don't believe in missions."

"Then," replied the alert usher, "won't you take something out? This collection is intended for the heathen."

Wrong Word

Mrs.—I'm afraid our new housemaid is dishonest.

Mr.—My dear, you should never judge by appearances.

Mrs.—I don't. I judge by disappearances!

Sandy Sr.—Well, you've been such a good boy lately, I'll let you keep it.

TOO MUCH

You can't say that to me!

Maid—I left my last position because I was told something I didn't like.

Prospective Employer—Really. What was that?

Maid—Look for another job!

On the average 1,276 veterans are being returned to civil employment each month.

ALL FOR NOTHING

A man came home in the small hours of the morning and, having a wholesome fear of his wife, decided to proceed with caution.

Taking off his shoes, he crept noiselessly upstairs, stealthily opened the bedroom door, and, with the greatest care, crawled into bed. With a sigh of relief, he went off to sleep.

In the morning he looked round for his wife, and suddenly, remembered she had been staying with an aunt for the past two weeks.

And Few Do!

Jones—Why didn't you listen more closely to what Brown was saying?

Smith—Well, I've learned something in all my years that few people ever find out. That's why.

Jones—What's that?

Smith—If you spend half your time attending to your own business, you can spend the other half leaving the other folks' business alone!

Slight Misunderstanding

Rastus—Ah wants to git a pair ob shoes fo' mah little boy.

Clerk—Black kid?

Rastus—Yo' jus' mind yo' own business and git dem shoes.

Dumb Dora

He—Do you play golf?

She—Heavens, no! I don't believe I'd even know how to hold a caddy!

Can You Beat It?

Harry—Boy, that cream sure looks good.

Jerry—Well, it ought to be. I just whipped it!

Simple Reason!

Sarge—Now I want one of you fellows to explain to me why it's important not to lose your head at any time.

Rookie—Well, you'd have no place to put your helmet!

True Love

Joe—Why do you call your girl friend "Ration Book"?

Bill—Because I can't get along without her!

Thoughtful Woman

Friend—Aren't you worried when your husband loops the loop testing planes?

Pilot's Wife—No, I take all the change from his pockets.

Worth Pepper

Once Rome was worth 4,000 pounds of pepper. When invading Goths conquered this ancient capital they demanded a pepper ransom, for at that time, spices were more precious than rubies or gold.

Ever Hear of Chittagong? It's Leading Indian Port

Chittagong is normally one of India's leading ports. Its commercial fame is not new for, in the 16th century, the Portuguese thought so well of it they called it Porto Grande.

Nature was generous in providing the city's site on the deep Karnaphuli river, 12 miles from its outlet in the Bay of Bengal. The largest ocean-going ships can safely proceed up river nine miles. Cargoes are handled between ship and shore by modern cranes serving waterside tracks of a rail terminal. Coal, machinery, railway materials, mineral oil and salt are brought for distribution to Indian and Burmese points. The ships take away tea, jute, cotton, hides and wax. Passenger steamer lines regularly served the port and there is telegraph communication with all the principal towns of India.

A loose grouping of villages, Chittagong stands on low ground, making a colorful picture as viewed from the river. A 200-foot hill where Europeans live, is a local distinction. Natives people the lower districts, their huts framed in fruit trees. Paddy fields give the same clusters of huts an island effect. Gardens brighten the uplands. Business buildings are modern.

Keep Farm Account Books, Save Yourself Much Worry

Keep farm account books in 1943 if you want to save yourself a lot of trouble figuring out how much victory tax you owe your government in 1944, says W. F. Knowles, extension specialist in farm management at Rutgers university.

Unlike people who receive regular salary checks, you will not pay victory tax in 1943 if your income is derived solely from farming, Knowles explains to farmers. Instead, you will be asked to pay the 1943 tax the following year in the same way regular income tax has always been paid. But unlike the income tax, you will receive a post-war credit or refund amounting to 25 per cent of your victory tax if you are single and 40 per cent if you are married, plus an allowance for dependents.

One item farmers will not have to compute, Knowles adds, is the deduction of taxes from their employees' wages, for wages paid to agricultural labor are specifically exempt from the withholding provisions.

In the little more than three months that have passed since the landing of our forces on the beaches of Normandy the battle for France has been won and the battle for Germany is already well under way. That is a remarkable military achievement. Larger areas than this have probably been conquered in a shorter period of time, but considering the problem of supply that added to the difficulty of this operation, the invasion and liberation of France is without parallel in history. Now the big question is how long will it take to win the battle for Germany. Military authorities encourage us to believe it will be over in a few months and we will not argue with the military authorities. With the good ports of the channel coast of Europe being made available for our ships, the problem of bringing in men and supplies is now comparatively simple. A little time may be required to get set but we can rest assured that there will be no unnecessary delays. The battle for Germany will proceed rapidly, with the United Nations closing in on all sides.

According to the calendar this is the first day of Fall, the start of what usually is this country's most beautiful season. Several weeks of warm, dry weather would make it perfect.

Things are not going so well in China. The Nips seem to have become reconciled to the impossibility of defending their island empire and appear to be strengthening their position on the mainland of Asia with the view of prolonging the war in that area and eventually settling for a negotiated peace. The most serious problem in China however is the sagging morale of the Chinese rather than the military strength of the Japs. The people of China are questioning the good faith of the governments of Britain and the United States. That is not a recent development but is due to a series of incidents extending over a period of years back to the time when we were giving assistance to the Japs by selling them scrap iron and gasoline. Our dealings with the Chinese have been laudable neither from the humanitarian standpoint nor from the standpoint of hard headed, long range diplomacy in the Pacific. China is not now a great nation but the Chinese in many ways are a great people. Their leaders question the sincerity of our leaders but the Chinese, as a people, respect us as a people and want our friendship. If our relations with them in the future we have much to gain and much to lose.

Our guess is that Winston Churchill is not the popular hero now that he was during the first years of the war. During those trying times his rugged personality was the rock against which the storm of adversity lashed its fury without avail. He was the beacon light of hope and to his determined leadership can be attributed much of that fortitude and courage with which his people survived the dark days. As a back-to-the-wall fighter Winston Churchill was a magnificent character. But while in adversity he was superb, in victory he gives the impression of being arrogant. It probably would be fortunate for the world of the future if Mr. Churchill would retire from public life when the fighting ends and leave to others the task of solving the problems of the peace.

Governor Dewey Will Give Three Talks over Radio This Week-end

Minnesotans who have been following by radio the western tour of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential candidate, will have opportunity during the next several days to hear more of the radio talks upon which he is depending for victory in the coming election.

The addresses will be heard over eight Minnesota stations including KSTP, Twin Cities; and WDAY, Fargo.

Tonight, Thursday, Governor Dewey's talk in San Francisco will be heard in Minnesota from 10 to 10:30 P. M. Dewey's talk at Oklahoma City Monday night will be heard in Minnesota from 9 to 9:30 P. M.

SEVEN FIRES IN ONE HOME IN ONE DAY

Baudette.—Something like the cat with nine lives, were the seven fires at the Mission Covenant parsonage in Spooner recently. Four alarms in one afternoon kept the volunteer fire department on its toes. Cause of Fire No. 1 was an overheated stove; Fire No. 2 resulted from defective wiring; Fires Nos. 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7 were not so quickly understood. All of them were in the interior and strongly suggested all was not quite right. After considerable questioning it was discovered that the young sons of the household were the instigators of the last five blazes. It seems every time their mother and father turned their backs they started a new blaze. Total loss was estimated at approximately $650.

Rabbit Sanitation

Success in producing rabbit meat depends upon the selection of strong, healthy breeding stock, proper housing and feeding, and sanitation. Many breeding enterprises have failed because proper sanitation was neglected.

Gadget for Soap Scraps

To take the place of soap shakers that are now unobtainable, ingenious homemakers are making their own by fastening together two non-pelorily(?) tea strainers. The odds and ends of soap that might otherwise be wasted fit nicely into this homemade gadget, and whip up into grand suds in the dishpan. The strainers can be fastened together with a bit of picture wire or with cord.

IRON TIRE, NIMBLE FINGERS MAKE RUGS

Mankato.—In a humble little white cottage, 83-year-old Mrs. Lena B. Furney weaves rag rugs on nothing other than the steel tire from the old family buggy. No new fangled factory frame or loom for this little lady. For 15 years she has been making beautiful colorful rugs from rags given to her by neighbors, her total output running over 100. Not only does the "young" Mrs. Furney make rugs but she also tends a vegetable and flower garden and 150 chickens.

Pretty Smart

Harry—I'm the smartest guy in the world.
Jerry—I don't believe you.
Harry—You'd be awfully stupid if you did!

Sailor—I love you, dear.

Sailor—Gee, you're a regular mind-reader!

Didn't We All?

Joe—Did you learn right and wrong at your mother's knee?
Bill—Not me! Over my father's!

TIT FOR TAT

Harry—Does your wife use your razor to open packages?
Jerry—Yes, but I don't mind. I use her powder puff to shine my shoes.

Food for Thought

Harry—It looks as if we're getting back to the horse and buggy days.
Jerry—I can manage to eat horse meat all right, but I draw the line at bugs.

Solid Clear Through

Joe—How far would you say it was from one of my ears to the other?
Bill—Exactly one block!

Keeping American Homes Intact

We're great home lovers in our town. Family folk—like most Americans. So when war came, and the boys left in uniform, and the girls went into war plants, folks began to shake their heads.

Take Ben Ryder's family, for instance—all doing something different. Young Ben's in the Navy, and his sister's in the airplane plant. Ben's foreman at the tool shop, and Ma spends her days at the Canteen.

A broken home? Don't you believe it! When Ben relaxes with his evening glass of beer, and Mom and Sis sit down to write their daily letter to Ben Jr., they're closer together than ever ... bound by a strong and common purpose—to keep their family, their America, intact.

From where I sit, the strength of America lies in that family spirit—in the tolerance and mutual respect and understanding that have made the American family a strong and vital force for Good!

Spots, Stains Removed Without Scraping Floor

Spots and stains similar to water stains may be removed from an oak floor without going to the trouble and expense of scraping the entire floor. Wax can be removed with turpentine, cleaning the wax down to the bare wood. If the floor has not been varnished, and then rewaxing the bare spots. If the stains are in the wood itself, the spots should be treated with a solution of oxalic acid after the removal of the wax. After permitting the acid to stand over night, all traces of it should be washed away, and the floor rewaxed. If the floor has been varnished and waxed, the wax should first be wiped off with turpentine, and if the stain extended through the varnish, the varnish should be removed with a good varnish remover, after which the stain, if it has extended into the wood itself, can be given the oxalic acid treatment, with the acid thoroughly washed off afterwards, the same as in the case of an unvarnished floor, and then revarnished and rewaxed. If pores are apparent in the wood, a coat of wood filler should be put on and allowed to dry thoroughly before the application of the varnish. In most cases, the best results are achieved by cleaning off and refinishing the entire floor board to its ends and edges, rather than by confining the job to the stained spots, for in this way a much more uniform result will be obtained.

RED LAKE FALLS ELEVEN TO MEET PROWLERS FRIDAY

Lincoln High Football Team Defeats Alumni 7 to 0 Last Friday

The Prowlers, after opening their season with a well-earned 7 to 0 win over a strong alumni team Friday night, will move into district competition tomorrow night when they face their traditional rivals, Red Lake Falls, under the lights on the local field. This year's rivalry between the two teams is heightened by the fact that Red Lake Falls is the defending district champion. Last season's game ended in a 12 to 12 tie, with Red Lake Falls completing a touchdown pass in the final seconds of the contest.

Last Friday's game was an evenly played contest, with the Prowlers, after a seventy-yard drive, smashing across a first period touchdown to gain the win. The Prowlers, defending the east goal, received the kickoff, but two running plays failed to gain and an attempted punt was blocked, with Sam Plough recovering for the alumni on the Prowlers' 30-yard line.

Ferrier plunged through center for 3 yards, and added 5 yards over right tackle. A pass, Stephens to Welton, gained a first down on the 18-yard line. An alumni fumble carried the ball back to the 27-yard line, and on the next play Billy Nelson recovered another alumni fumble, giving the Prowlers possession of the ball on their 30-yard line.

Ninsk Carlson swung off right end for 7 yards; Wes Hovie cut back over right tackle to the 50-yard line. Carlson picked up 7 yards on a drive over right guard; and on a spinner, Ninsk made a first down on the alumni 35-yard line. Les Vigness failed to gain on a sweep of left end; Herb Claffy marked up 2 yards over right tackle; and Carlson moved the ball to the alumni 20-yard line. Carlson circled left end for 8 yards, and Hovie spun through the line for a first down on the 8-yard line. Carlson, on a cut-back over left tackle, went across for the touchdown; and Hovie, on a plunge over center, added the extra point.

The alumni, in the final minutes of the second period, on a lateral pass play, and two completed passes, Stephens to Sammy Plough, moved the ball from their 27-yard line to the Prowlers 30-yard marker. A final pass was incomplete as the half ended.

The Prowlers made one strong bid to add to their total in the second half, carrying the ball to the alumni 8-yard line, but a fumble, recovered by Ray Oen on the 18-yard line, ended the threat.

The Prowlers rolled up 11 first downs during the game, while the alumni were credited with six.

Recreation Highlights

The first puppet show of this season will be presented Thursday, Sept. 28th at 4:30 P. M. in the play center in the arena. Those entertaining features will be given each month and are open to anyone interested in this form of entertainment. There is no charge.

The enrollment of children of pre-school age is not quite as large as last year. We hope to build this so it will surpass last year's.

There will be a 'teen-age dance on Friday evening after the football game.

Anyone interested in learning to puppeteer is asked to come to the play center for rehearsals. It is necessary that some children show an interest in this in order to have our monthly performances.

S/Sgt. MANY AUTOS HAVE POOR EQUIPMENT, PATROL REPORTS

328 Arrests Made in August by Patrol for Faulty Equipment

That faulty motor vehicle equipment is becoming more prevalent is indicated by the August report of the Minnesota highway patrol. Increasing age of cars and trucks and inability to get repairs is believed partly responsible, according to Elden Rowe, chief patrol officer. The patrol, nevertheless, will continue without let-up to enforce provisions of the law against use of vehicles with equipment which endangers safety.

In August the patrol made 328 arrests for driving with illegal equipment and issued 1,896 tags calling for correction of illegal equipment, the report shows. In August, 1943, there were 235 arrests and 1,608 tags issued. Greatest increase was in tags for faulty brakes, 257 in August, 1944, and 135 in August last year.

A large increase was also noted in tickets and arrests for lack of driver's license. The patrol checked 7,891 drivers, gave warning tickets to 430 for failure to have license in possession and made 43 arrests for lack of licenses. In the same month in 1943 the patrol checked 9,111 drivers, issued 163 tickets and made 35 arrests. Failure of some drivers to renew licenses before their first birthday after September 1, 1943, as required by law, is believed responsible for the increase.

Total number of arrests was 1,034 compared to 1,106 in August, 1943. There were fewer arrests for drunken driving; excessive speed and nearly all other causes except illegal equipment and no driver's license. Fines imposed totaled $11,937, compared to $13,293 in Aug. last year.

Order Fuel Oil at Once, Ration Board Advises

"Order your fuel oil now, if you want to stay warm this winter," is the suggestion of Waldie Christensen, chairman of the local war price and rationing board. Oil refineries are devoting fuel production to military needs, and dealers must empty their tanks this fall, in order to refill for winter demands. Manpower shortages complicate deliveries.

S-SGT. PALMER LORENSON GIVEN WINGS IN FLORIDA

S-Sgt. Palmer Lorenson, husband of the former Marion Green of this city, was graduated recently from the army air corps flexible gunnery school at Buckingham Field, Florida, at that time receiving his wings. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludvig Lorenson of Strathcona.

TWO PAIRS COUSINS HAVE SAME BIRTHDAY

Cold Springs.—On January 22, 1943 when Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schleppenbach learned two new granddaughters had been born that day, one to their daughter and son-in-law in Wichita, Kansas and one to their son and daughter-in-law in Muskegon, Michigan, they were pretty surprised grandparents. But this year when again on August 31, two telegrams arrived from the same two couples announcing the arrival of baby boys in each home, they started wondering if all their grandchildren are going to arrive in pairs.

Machines Plant Trees

Tree seedlings are now being successfully transplanted by mechanized methods. A machine originally designed for setting out celery plants was altered slightly to handle the differently shaped and rooted young trees. More than a million pine seedlings have been set out by machine, at a cost of only 46.8 cents per thousand. Mass transplanting is expected to aid in insuring new timber stocks in spite of labor shortages. The machines require a crew of only three persons.

RECRUITERS FOR MEDICAL CORPS TO BE HERE SEPT. 27-8

Cite Need for 25,000 More Women in U. S. Army Branch

A total of 25,000 women are needed in the medical corps of the army of the United States. These are in addition to the nurses. This is the word that Sgt. Alvin P. Collins and Cpl. Vivien Hall, members of the women's army corps recruiting team will bring to Thief River Falls on their visit Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 27 and 28.

Some of the openings are for positions for which the army will train women; such as medical technician, laboratory technician, physical therapy aide, and others. However, there are also places for women who are already trained in any type of hospital work. Anyone who has had six weeks of nurses training is eligible for some of the jobs. Women who can teach braille, lip reading, and the use of artificial limbs and hearing aid are also in demand.

These two people from the recruiting office in Fargo will be in Thief River Falls Wednesday and Thursday. They can be reached at the selective service office.

They will make arrangements for eligible women to take the physical examination in Minneapolis.

Burrell, was recently graduated from the combat crew training school at Davis-Monthan Field, Tucson, Arizona, and will soon go to an overseas combat zone for active duty as a bombardier on a B-24 Liberator bomber. Lieutenant Burrell entered the service in August 1942.

Held Innocent of Charge of Driving While Drunk

After pleading innocent of a charge of drunken driving in July on Highway 1 two miles west of Thief River Falls, Harry Myrum, living northwest of the city, was found not guilty by Judge H. O. Chommie in municipal court last Thursday. Myrum contended that he was not under the influence of liquor, and that another party was driving his car at the time.

Keeping Score

Herman Bauer

A dispatch from St. Louis reveals that S/Sgt. Herman Bauer died of wounds received while in action with an armored force division in France on July 12th. Bauer, a resident of East St. Louis, was a catcher for the St. Paul Saints when he joined the army in 1941, and in 1939 and 1940 he played in the Northern League as a member of the Grand Forks Chiefs. It was in 1939 that local fans became acquainted with Bauer, as he caught several games for Jack Dempster's club.

And what a catcher he was! Lloyd Johnson, who formerly played a lot of first base for St. Hilaire, recalls playing against Bauer, and he avers that Herman was the best catcher that Thief River Falls ever had. What impressed Lloyd, and others, was the all-round ability of Bauer, he had a strong arm, was a fine leader, and could he ever line the ball while at the plate! It's very probable that Bauer would have reached the big leagues in a year or two, perhaps with the White Sox, who had a player agreement with St. Paul at the time Bauer joined the army.

Pag to Grafton

Armando Pagliarini, more familiarly called Pag, was in town Monday while enroute to his new duties at Grafton. Pag was "shop" instructor here last year, and coach of the Hornets junior hockey team. He will be industrial arts teacher at Grafton high school, and he intends to reorganize the junior team up there, too.

Pag states that Eveleth's Cliff Thompson, coach of the Eveleth Rangers high school hockey team, intends to forward his entry and eligibility list for the Northwest Junior hockey tournament by the first of the year this season. Last year, due to a misunderstanding, the Eveleth team did not get its entry recorded until after the tournament schedule had been drawn, and as a result the Rangers weren't allowed to enter the tourney. Glad to hear that Cliff will bring his teams up here, for that will add prestige to the Northwest hockey set-up.

Duckhunters Unlimited

There were more tents pitched around Neptune bridge on Tuesday night than there were on the midway at the county fair this fall. And all these tents contained duckhunters or fellows masquerading as duckhunters. And did the boys ever salute the ducks? It seemed as if most of the ducks up there were three-gun ducks, entitled to a full three-shot salvo. There were a few two-shot ducks; and only a scattering of one-shot ducks. And I have an idea that by nightfall, after wading the marshes all day, that there were a number of half-shot duckhunters, too. Reports on the luck of the opening day were spotty, with many complaining that the ducks were flying higher than usual. Some hunters contended that that was due to the fact that "sooners" had been busy the past week or two.

Prowlers by a Touchdown or Two

Recalling what happened when we claimed that Warren would be the only "soft spot" on the Prowlers basketball schedule last year (one result was a 60 to 20 win for the Ponies), we won't say that the Prowlers will roll up a top-heavy score against Red Lake Falls here Friday night. Even though the Red Lake team lost their entire backfield and several of their linemen by graduation, and with fullback Lyle Bourdon sidelined by an injury to his right foot, and quarterback Louie Schmitz receiving his call to report for navy duty, and in spite of having a new coach, John Larson having resigned, the Red Lake Falls team may spring some unpleasant surprises tomorrow night. Those fellows down there don't scare very easily.

The Prowlers drew considerable praise from the sideline followers on their performance against a rugged alumni eleven last Friday night. For an early season game, the Prowlers showed fine coordination; and with Herb Claffy feeling fit and nimble again, the Prowlers' backfield should really click on Friday.

But as we said, the Prowlers will probably win by only a touchdown or two.

Tin Can Salvage Still Critically Important

No improvement in tin supply can be expected until our chief tin sources, now in the hands of the Japanese, are restored to the Allies. To help meet critical military needs, 100,000 members of the National Restaurant association and nearly a million Girl Scouts have pledged their cooperation in salvaging tin cans Byron Hanson, general salvage executive secretary for Minnesota, WPB, announced today.

A NEW IDEA FOR RED CROSS PROFITS

Windom.—A new two-fold idea was inaugurated at the local auction sale recently. Ceiling price requirement on much of the farm equipment sold at public sales has induced auctioneers to ask for written bids. The plan worked well for some time, but with the increasing demand for machinery, many speculators entered written bids. Often the total number would run to 200, making much detail for the auctioneer. The new plan requires each bidder to make a small deposit, 50c or $1, with each bid as evidence of good faith. The money thus received is then turned over to Red Cross. A total of $43.50 resulted from one recent sale.

VALLEY CORN DAY AT CROOKSTON SET SEPTEMBER 27TH

To Reveal Maturity Dates of Thirty Varieties of Corn

The annual Red River Valley Corn Field Day and tour will be held on the afternoon of Wednesday, September 27, at the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston. The program will start at 1:30 P. M. Superintendent T. M. McCall of the Northwest Station states, "The cooperative corn trials this year will be of particular interest to all Red River Valley farmers in that the comparative maturity dates of thirty Minnesota and commercial hybrids can be noted both at Crookston and Fisher."

The program on Corn Day includes talks in the field by R. S. Dunham, agronomist of the Northwest School and Station; and Dr. E. H. Rinke and Ralph Crim from University Farm, St. Paul. Dr. Rinke, Assistant in corn breeding, will speak on the new Minnesota corn hybrids for the Red River Valley; Ralph Crim, extension agronomist, will discuss commercial corn hybrids for the Red River Valley.

County Agent Carl Ash of West Polk county will direct the tour to the Herman Skyberg farm at Fisher for the inspection of cooperative plots there at 3:15 P. M. Following the formal tour, inspections will be made of a large farm fields of hybrid corn.

At the present time over 2,500,000 persons are employed in the airplane plants of the United States.

One of British Secret Weapons

The crocodile flame-throwing tank, one of the secret weapons used by the British in the invasion of France. These tanks landed at Normandy 25 hours after the first troop landings on beaches.

Backyard Rabbitry

Building and supervising a backyard rabbitry is a relatively simple task. Only a small space is required for a portable standard hutch, 4 feet long, 2½ feet wide and 2 feet high. Also, rabbits are economical to feed and very little time is necessary for their care.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

The Red Cross advisory board meets this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Chairman Herman A. Kjos' office. Will all members please remember this date?

At the writing of this column, we have not as yet received our new quota of surgical gauze, but there will be a notice on the front page if it has arrived before the paper goes to press. Please look for that announcement.

Home Front Health Is Vital Part of Post-War Planning

Attention to family health is an "at home" essential of sound post-war planning Mrs. Orrin G. Lynde, home nursing chairman of Pennington county chapter asserted today, urging that Thief River Falls women enroll now in Red Cross home nursing courses.

While our national leaders are laying plans for an economic and social reconversion program, the American woman's personal responsibility is preparedness to do her part in building physical and mental health in her family.

"The medical and nursing shortages on the home front caused by the demands of war increase rather than diminish when the final peace is signed. Treatment and rehabilitation of war casualties will have first priority for professional services long after the war, and there will be medical problems among the populations of liberated countries needing the attention of American doctors and nurses.

Red Cross home nursing stresses mental as well as physical hygiene in the home. When a serviceman finally comes home, he has a right to expect to find a healthful, happy family awaiting him. He will find his readjustment to civilian life much easier if he comes home to a family emotionally as well as physically healthful.

Registration for home nursing courses is being conducted now by Mrs. Lynde. Drop a card to her at 241 N. Markley or call phone number 487. The course is free.

Mrs. William Gilbertson has been appointed procurement nurse for this district by the Red Cross, to enlist all available nurses for services with the armed forces. Mrs. Gilbertson will have information in next week's column for all those interested. Her address is 102 E. 8th Street; her telephone number 729.

First Unemployment Checks Issued to Vets

Check No. 1, for $20, covering the government's readjustment allowance for World War II veterans for a week of unemployment, was issued Sept. 18 by the Duluth representative of the division of employment and security, it was announced by Victor Christgau, director of the state agency. Check No. 2 for the same amount went to a Willmar veteran.

The two checks cover operations during the first week of the program. These claims are paid by the Minnesota agency, under an agreement with the Veterans Administration at Washington. The program went into effect Sept. 4.

During the first week claims were filed by four veterans. To qualify, they were required to report again and attest that they had not had work during the seven day period. Two of the claimants did not report back.

Oil From Coal

The greatest reserve source of fuel for automobiles lies in the extraction of oil from coal. Two processes are now available which can accomplish this—the hydrogenation process and the Fischer-Tropsch process. Both are expensive when compared with the present costs of obtaining petroleum.

WAR SERVICE FUND GETS THANKS FOR AID TO RUSSIANS

More than $5,000,000 in Medical Supplies Shipped Last Year to Soviet

"Thank you" straight from the children, soldiers, and war workers in Russia who benefitted by gifts from Minnesota residents to Russian War Relief, one of the 22 agencies financed through contributions in local Minnesota War Service Fund campaigns came today to the state in letters to three Montevideo residents.

From Sergeant Maximov, Military Hospital, Moscow 18, SEG 1072 to Mrs. A. J. Axness, Montevideo, came this note "I was overjoyed by your gift. You are proud of the heroism of the Russian army and your pride is justified. We shall soon crush the Germans and drive them from the territory and then along with you we shall free the oppressed people of occupied Europe."

"We received your gift and thank you very much," Tanya and Olya Orlava wrote Solveig and Inger Berg, 905 North 4th, Montevideo. "My sister and I live in a children's home. Our parents were killed in the war."

"I received your gift," Zoya Olgina wrote Janet M. Roust, 723 North First Street, Montevideo. "During these bitter war years I have been living in Svordlovsk and working in a war plant. Please write and tell me what you are doing to aid the war effort. Many thanks."

The three letters express, according to J. Cameron Thomson, state chairman of the Minnesota War Service Fund, the gratitude of the Russian people for the help Americans have given them through Russian War Relief, in contributions to the Minnesota War Service Fund and in gifts of clothing, household kits, medical supplies and seeds.

In 1943, Mr. Thomson said, Russian War Relief, shipped more than $5,000,000 worth of medical supplies to the Soviet, helped Soviet surgeons save 98.9 per cent of Red Army wounded and return 79.3 per cent to the active fighting forces to aid the United Nations military offensive.

Permit Production of Septic Tanks, Stokers

First approval of civilian production under the recently issued "spot authorization" order was announced today by W. A. McMillan, Fargo WPB district office manager. Manufacture of steel septic tanks, metal signs and Class "B" coal stokers for civilian use was approved by WPB field offices. None of these three authorizations involves any additional labor or new materials. The new items will be on the market as soon as they can be manufactured, said Mr. McMillan.

NON-HIGHWAY GAS COUPONS TAKEN AT ALL GAS STATIONS

New Way of Handling Tractor Gas Goes into Effect September 22

All gasoline stations may again accept non-highway "R" coupons for bulk deliveries of gasoline, beginning September 22, S. M. Walker, district rationing officer said today. Since April, 1944 only bulk gasoline dealers were authorized to accept R coupons. Although the order lessened the flow of non-highway gasoline to illegal users, Walker said, it resulted in considerable discrimination between retail gasoline outlets.

The gasoline industry advisory committee for the Fargo-Moorhead district recently recommended changes in the R coupon acceptance provision.

Gasoline purchased on R coupons—commonly called "tractor gas"—is for non-highway occupational purposes, and cannot legitimately be put into automobile tanks. Dealers were cautioned to accept no R coupons for other than bulk gasoline deliveries.

R coupons are now serially numbered, and gasoline which has been diverted from non-highway use to illegal channels can be traced directly back to the person who was issued coupons.

Farmers May Use Own Trees for Lumber, Says War Production Board

Farmers may receive without certification up to 5,000 board feet of lumber annually if it is produced from trees cut from their own farms, W. A. McMillan, Fargo WPB district office manager, said today.

Previously, a farmer who cut trees from his own farm could take them to a sawmill, but could not receive any lumber cut from his logs unless he could furnish a certificate obtained from the county agricultural conservation committee or produced a certificate he had received from a customer, or unless the sawmill cut less than 100,000 board feet annually and, therefore, was not subject to the provisions of Lumber Order L-335.

Permission to farmers to receive this lumber back from the sawmill in this limited quantity will not affect the supply of lumber for other purposes because it would not have been produced if this action had not been taken, said Mr. McMillan.

An accident is a bitter pill to swallow. Drive carefully and avoid accidents.

HOLT

A tragic and sad accident occurred on Wednesday evening, Sept. 13, 1944, when Duane Swenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Swenson and Virgil Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eneas Erickson were out getting the cows. The boys had taken their shot guns in order to shoot some birds. They got down in the tall grass close together and as some birds were in close range they pulled up to shoot, when the gun held by Virgil Erickson discharged before he had it raised high enough to miss his pal Duane Swenson, who was between him and the birds. The shot hit Duane killing him instantly.

Funeral services were conducted at the Ringbo church for Duane Swenson on Saturday afternoon, Rev. J. I. Systuen officiating. Another service was held near Goodridge childhood home of Duane's mother and interment was made in that cemetery.

Robert Duane was the older son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Swenson. He was born May 28, 1930 being at the time of death 14 years, 3 months and 17 days.

He received his Eighth grade diploma last spring and was about to start his Freshman year in high school.

Left to mourn are his sorrowing parents, one sister and one brother, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gullick Swenson, many uncles and aunts and cousins.

Relatives from a distance at the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Strong of Alexandria and Mrs. Gaylord Strong of Thief River Falls.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community is extended to the sorrowing parents, sister and brother in the loss of their son and brother, also to Virgil, who has lost his boyhood pal.

A complete obituary will be published in next week's paper.

After the ceremony Mr. Engen served supper.

Mrs. O. B. Johnson left on Sunday for Pontiac, Mich. to visit at the home of her daughter, Mr. Leonard Peterson and family.

Orlin Ness and Merle Johnson spent some days of last week at Fort Snelling, where they had their physical examination prior to their induction into the army.

? WHICH CENTER CIRCLE IS LARGER ?

You can guess which circle is larger—but you won't know unless you measure them.

And you can guess your sight is right—but you won't know until it's "measured". An eyesight examination, periodically, is the only way of making sure that you are seeing clearly, easily. Faulty sight may be hampering your work and your pleasures.

Don't "guess", about your sight. Be sure it's right. Have it examined—now."

Innocent Bystanders of War

Not the least amazing thing about this war is the manner in which children have endured terrible hardships and came up smiling. Their resilient young spirits apparently unimpaired, left, a little lad of Sarbiano, Italy, puts on a winning grin. Right, a young lady of Trun, France, hauls her wagon load of possessions.

Trouble Found in Itching Palm, Not Love of Money

The itching palm used to mean a love of money, but during the war production boom it means trouble.

Skin diseases, or "occupational itch," are responsible for 70 per cent of lost industrial man hours, it was revealed today in a survey conducted by a national linen supply organization. In addition, the survey showed, thousands of other workers have skin troubles which are not serious enough to cause absence from the job.

The best prevention of skin troubles, according to a concensus of industrial physicians, is scrupulous cleanliness, the report states. Frequent washing of all parts of the body coming into contact with chemicals or dust particles, using mild soap and clean cloth towels which thoroughly dry the skin, are recommended.

Also, working uniforms especially designed to keep out fumes and chemicals should be worn and changed frequently. Many plants obtain uniforms and towels from linen supply firms and furnish them to the employees, to prevent workers from "economizing" on cleaning to the detriment of their health and productivity.

"Occupational itch" usually results when persons who are allergic or sensitive to such substances as formaldehyde, TNT, turpentine, machine oil and mercury are in jobs requiring contact with them.

Have a Coca-Cola = Soldier, refresh yourself

POST EXCHANGE

. . . or a way to relax in camp

From southern camps with their moss-hung cypresses to camps near the north woods, there's one place soldiers can relax—the Post Exchange. There they settle down to "shoot the breeze" together. Have a "Coke", they say. Coca-Cola is a refreshing reminder of what they left behind. On "Company Street" in camp as on Main Street at home, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes. In your own refrigerator, ice-cold bottles of Coca-Cola are a symbol of a friendly way of living.

RENT SURVEY WILL BE UNDERTAKEN IN N. W. MINNESOTA

Tenants Asked to Report to Fargo OPA Office on Rent Increases

All tenants who have experienced rent increases since January 1, 1944 are asked to report these increases to their local war price and rationing boards. The request was made by Harold W. Bangert, district OPA director, in a statement prepared for radio broadcast Saturday night.

Bangert said that before a decision could be made whether rent control was needed in the Fargo-Moorhead district, it was necessary to determine how much rents have already increased. The reports to be made to local war price and rationing boards will not be considered as complaints and will be used only to determine the facts.

In the broadcast which was participated in by Harold King, district OPA price attorney, it was pointed out that rent accounts for 20% of the average family's cost of living and that a $5 or $10 per month rental increase meant a substantial cost of living increase to the average family.

As one of the first steps toward enforced rent control, Mr. King explained that it would be necessary to determine what normal rents are in this area so that a base period can be established. Under the present order establishing voluntary rent ceilings the base period is March, 1942. The speakers said that investigation might disclose that rents were below normal in this area in March of 1942 and that to bring them up to normal some other rental date might be adopted.

Pork Barrel Legislation

The term "pork barrel" legislation came into being when the first bill for harbor improvements was before congress in the early winter of 1823. Opponents of the bill charged that its advocates promoted it solely to gain popularity among their constituents at home by accomplishing something which would benefit only certain communities. They compared the onslaught on the federal treasury to the rush made by the slaves on Southern plantations when the pork barrel was opened. Afterwards river and harbor improvements bills were called facetiously "pork barrel bills." Later the term was extended to any legislation allegedly passed for the purpose of political patronage. The total contributions to a campaign fund sometimes are called the pork barrel.

Heated Fats

The most important thing to remember is that fats vary as to the amount of heat they can stand and when they reach the smoking point they begin to break down chemically and develop a strong flavor or odor. So keep the heat low when you melt fat for making sauces or for pan frying.

HELP SHORTAGE SHOWING UP IN OUT-STATE AREA

Poultry and Other Processing Plants Calling for Many Workers

The manpower shortage in Minnesota, outside the need for farm help, which for several weeks has centered in the Twin Cities and Duluth, is now being felt in the out-state areas, according to Dreng Bjornaraa, state WMC director.

The season of increased activity at the state's packing plants, poultry and dairy products processing plants is on in earnest and as a result, USES offices have unfilled orders for approximately 500 workers in such plants, compared with fewer than 100, ten days ago.

Reports reaching Bjornaraa's headquarters show marked manpower deficiencies at Fairmont, Worthington, Marshall, Redwood Falls, and Alexandria. The overall need is for women as well as men, and among the unusual jobs open are those in the state's hemp plants.

In the state as a whole, the agency has unfilled orders for 28,000 workers, about 17,000 of which are in St. Paul and Minneapolis. This is an increase of 8,000 in 30 days. About 80 per cent of the jobs are in essential work.

All persons not now holding a war job are urged to get in touch with the local USES office.

Here's why I have put every cent I can into War Bonds...

Here's the way I figured it out.

The more money Uncle Sam can put into winning the war the sooner the war will be over—and that's what all of us want.

I would be dumb, then, if I didn't buy all the War Bonds I could to put that needed money into Uncle Sam's hands, for it means victory sooner, lives saved and peacetime ways of living again.

—But that's not all there is to it by a long shot.

—That money I put into War Bonds will return me up to $4 for every $3 I put in. That means after peace is won I'll have greater financial security, more money to spend for the things I want in a peacetime world. So in buying War Bonds I feel that I am helping win the war and doing a favor for myself.

If you ask for Hamm's Preferred Stock Beer and your dealer has none, it probably is because Uncle Sam has first call, but ask, nevertheless.

ELKS LODGE WILL AID IN ENLISTING WAVES MONDAY

Interested Local Women Are Requested to Meet with Recruiters

Several hundred thousand men must be placed in the navy between now and July 1, 1945 according to Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal. Such a quota is prompted by the need of the navy with particular emphasis being placed on our part in the Pacific conflict.

In order to obtain these men it will be necessary to enlist several thousand young women in navy blue, thereby releasing able-bodied men now on active duty within the continental limits for duty afloat and at advanced bases.

The navy is calling again for the assistance from all of the Elks lodges in the state of Minnesota to assist in procuring those young women.

Any woman of good moral reputation, age 20 to 36 inclusive, with minimum of two years high school education, single or married (but with no children under 18 years of age) can qualify for the WAVES.

The WAVES are coming Monday, October 2, to explain in detail to Thief River Falls women eligible for enlistment, the opportunity for service in this colorful branch of the naval services.

Opening a state-wide recruiting campaign on October 2nd and continuing on until October 30, the navy department will enlist Minnesota women for the WAVES. In this effort it is being assisted by the Minnesota State Elks association through the various Elks Lodges.

A traveling board of WAVES and Naval recruiting officers will be here during that time.

All eligible and interested girls, as well as their parents, are urged to visit with members of the board. Out of town girls who find it impossible to come to Thief River Falls for an interview are requested to write to the WAVES board, Elks lodge, Thief River Falls.

MASONIC BLOCK IS BOUGHT BY ROSEAU MEN IN PAST WEEK

Hildahls and Bill Ekstrand to Open Hardware Store Next January

Following ratification last Thursday evening by the membership of the local Masonic lodge, negotiations were completed whereby the lodge transferred title to its two-story building at 209-11 Main av. N. to Olaf and A. E. Hildahl of Roseau and Bill Ekstrand of Greenbush.

The new owners, in Thief River Falls last week-end, stated that on January 1 they will occupy the entire ground floor of the structure with a hardware store, with Mr. Ekstrand as manager. Present tenants on the first floor are the Falls Supply company and the Club Cigar store.

The Masonic lodge will continue occupancy of its quarters on the second floor for a five-year period, and plans to erect a new lodge home as a post-war project.

The Hildahls have operated a hardware store at Greenbush the past 47 years, and one at Roseau since 1938.

RAM TRADING DAY AT FAIR GROUNDS SCHEDULED OCT. 6

Animals of Superior Quality Will be Consigned by Local Breeders

Pennington County will continue its march toward better and more profitable flocks of sheep with another ram sale and exchange day October 6, at the fair grounds in Thief River Falls, it was announced today by County Agent Ernest Palmer. As in past year, the get-together for sheep raisers is sponsored by the county extension office and a committee of local breeders.

Steady improvement in the quality of locally raised lambs can be attributed largely to the improvement in sires, Mr. Palmer believes. No farmer can afford to slip backward in his ram selection. Each ram must be better than the one before, and should be chosen with an eye to correcting any weaknesses in the present flock.

Rams of superior quality, Hampshires, Shropshires and other breeds, will be consigned by purebred breeders in this vicinity. This will insure a good selection for farmers who want to introduce new blood.

Any commercial sheep grower who has a flock ram that deserves to be moved into another flock can bring that ram along and arrange to sell or swap it. The purpose of the event is to place a purebred ram at the head of every flock and to bring about a gradual improvement.

The sale and exchange day also serves as a clinic at which farmers may get information for the improvement of their sheep business. Leading problems will be discussed and the advice of successful sheep men may be sought.

Committee Asks Public to Support Fund Drive

On Monday, Oct. 9th, 1944, The Minnesota War Fund campaign will commence. Our quota for Pennington county is $7,650.00 and in addition the city of Thief River Falls will be asked to raise $1,200 for the Boy Scouts; $200.00 for the Girl Scouts; and $700.00 for the Salvation Army.

These organizations are all worthy of your support, and the need is great. There are some 22 Allied relief organizations in this group and they all deserve your support.

As we near the end of the war in Europe, it is all the more important that we do not let down on the home front. Nothing would so please our enemies as to know that we are relaxing in our efforts to win the war. And nothing could be more disheartening to our boys on the fighting fronts than to realize that we are letting down in our efforts to make life more bearable for them.

In the war-torn countries of Europe and China the children and old people will have to be furnished with food and clothing as well as medicines if they are to survive.

Our own wounded soldiers and sailors must be supplied with entertainment and recreation while they are in hospitals lest they think we do not appreciate the sacrifices which they have made.

We here in free America have not had to make many such sacrifices. Therefore, let us show our boys that we appreciate their efforts by giving freely to these funds.

Arnhild Fjelstad and Palmer Wermager Speak Wedding Vows Saturday

In a ceremony at Trinity Lutheran church of Moorhead at four o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 23, Arnhild V. Fjelstad, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. R. M. Fjelstad, 922 Tenth Street South, Moorhead, became the bride of Palmer G. Wermager, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Wermager, Gary. The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of chrysanthemums, ferns, and palms. The marriage was performed by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. Roy A. Harrisville, pastor of Trinity Church.

The bride's gown of white satin was fashioned with sweetheart neckline, pointed sleeves, and scalloped train. Her chapel veil was of illusion net attached to a crown ornamented with pearls. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the groom, and carried a cascade bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Acting as matron of honor was Mrs. D. W. Telsberg, sister of the bride, who wore a floor-length dress of gold five o'clock rayon. Her bouquet of talisman roses was semi-cascade. The two bridesmaids, Mrs. James Needham, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Ralph Fjelstad, sister-in-law of the bride, wore identically styled floor-length dresses of aqua and rose crepe and carried bouquets of briar cliff roses.

Lawrence Wermager, the groom's brother, acted as best man, and ushers were Eldon Olson and Gifford Wermager, also a brother of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a dress of dusty rose, and the mother of the groom black silk crepe. Both had black accessories.

Pre-nuptial music was played by Miss Della Dahl, who also was the accompanist for vocal selections by Miss Delores Wermager. Before the entrance of the bridal party Miss Wermager sang "O Perfect Love," and just before the ceremony, "Holy Spirit, Breath of Love," by J. Lamont Galbraith.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a wedding dinner at the Graver Hotel in Fargo for the families and intimate friends of the bride and groom. An informal program was presented with Mr. Lawrence Wermager as toastmaster.

For traveling the bride chose a suit dress of orchid crepe with matching hat, gray coat, and black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Wermager left for a trip to Duluth and North Shore, after which they will make their home at 3240 North Chowen Avenue, Robbinsdale.

Mrs. Wermager is a graduate of Lincoln High school in this city and of Concordia College, Moorhead. Since her graduation she has been an instructor of home economics, having taught at Kasson, Minnesota, last year. Mr. Wermager is employed as design engineer at Naval Ordnance, Minneapolis.

New England States Maple Sugar Centers

As spring moves northward, nature raises the sap in the sugar maples, and sets the stage for a seasonal industry touched with sentiment, and steeped in tradition, but finally rooted in practicality.

Chief producers are the New England states, and New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin. Some sirup and sugar is imported from Canada's Quebec and Ontario provinces. Sapping time usually runs from mid-March to mid-April, began this year in Ohio the first week in February.

In Vermont the processing of the sap is a big business. Trees tapped in a season have totaled five million. The annual revenue from maple products sometimes runs above two million dollars. Sirup is brought in from other states to keep processing plants busy. The sirup is shipped in 50-gallon drums to outside dealers to be retailed in a wide variety of containers and package styles.

Detroit Wipes Out Deficit

With the help of careful budget planning, Detroit has wiped out a 23-year deficit which reached its peak in 1933 when the city was $21,600,000 "in the red," the municipal finance officers association said.

By June 30 the city will have a surplus of between $1,000,000 and $3,500,000, according to estimates of Detroit fiscal officials.

Relief expenditures, bank closings and failure to collect taxes in 1933 stretched the deficit to its $21,600,000 peak by the close of the first depression year. Careful budget operations, revenues from delinquent tax sales, liquidation of closed banks, decreases in welfare costs and some general revenue increases wiped out the deficit and promise the surplus.

University Conference Called for Discussion of Rural Child's Status

Rural education must take account of the fact that five out of every ten boys and girls who attend our rural schools—one half, that is—are destined to live and make their livelihood, not on the farm but in a town or city. Rural education, therefore, must direct and prepare young people for living on the farm, but also for living away from the farm, say University of Minnesota administrators, who have called a Minnesota Conference on Education and Rural Life. It will be held October 5, 6 and 7 in the Center for Continuation Study on the main campus.

"These young people in rural schools", says the announcement, "must have a better understanding of how to adjust to the complexities of city life, how to work in harmonious cooperation with many different groups of people, and how best to utilize their rural heritage amid new and strange environment.—Here is a task to be shared by all whose business it is to promote and advance the right sort of citizenship and to direct the thinking of those who a few years hence will help shape the destiny of this country."

When Guilds Controlled Production

The jewelry and musical instruments industries at Pforzheim, Germany, developed when guilds controlled production. Manufacture of jewelry there had its origin in the Black Forest guild of lapidaries—workers in precious stones—whose heyday was in the 16th century. Musical instrument making developed slowly from wood carving. The Industry House, popular with tourists, is headquarters for a permanent exhibit of the varied craft of over 500 jewelry manufacturers. Pforzheim was once a Roman settlement, Porta Hercinia, meaning Gate of the Hercinian Forest. Its most ancient landmark is the Castle church, dating from the 11th century. The church is divided into separate places of worship for Roman Catholics and Lutherans.

Successful Game Bird Season

Iowa proclaims that 1942 brought the finest upland game bird season in the state's history, and calls its first 21-day pheasant season "a success from almost every standpoint," reporting plenty of birds through the entire season. Easy limits appear to have been the rule at the start, but birds are said to have become wiser and warier as the season wore on, sitting tight in heavy cover or flushing far out of gun range. However, experienced, hard working hunters managed to get their limits in many localities throughout the season. Sufficient pheasants are reported left to produce a good crop next year under favorable conditions.

Walking Good Exercise; Also Improves Posture

Walking is an excellent foot and leg conditioner. It also can strengthen your stomach muscles and help remove surplus from your waistline. It can tone up the muscles of the upper body and help you keep your chest up and your back straight. The result will be a marked improvement in your posture. And a man or woman with good posture and a peppy stride will look young and be young.

The walking must be done correctly for these benefits to accrue. The step must be steady and firm, with the toes pointed straight ahead or slightly in—never outward. The heel should be the first part of the foot to strike the ground, followed quickly by the outside edge and then the ball of the foot. The ball and the big toe will push off for the next step.

Your pace must be brisk and rhythmic. Start with a mile a day. After about a week, pace and distance may be increased gradually.

Remember that you walk with your arms as well as with your feet and legs. A good arm swing, rhythmic but not forced, will improve your gait. It will help equalize your balance and eliminate waste motion. The arm swing should be forward and backward at the sides of the body, never across the front of it.

At the start of your walk, make yourself as tall as you can without straining. Then pull your stomach in. These two directions may seem hard to follow at first if you are not accustomed to them. But in a surprisingly short time they will become a part of you.

Market Best Milk To Get Better Income

Quality and quantity of market milk can be increased by dairymen if the milk produced by cows affected with mastitis is fed to chickens or other farm animals, a survey by the department of animal pathology and hygiene of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture disclosed.

Dairymen who sell milk of good quality often gross a higher income from their milk checks than dairymen who sell greater quantities of milk of low quality from mastitis-infected cows, it was pointed out. Proper management of affected cows also conserves feed and, of greater importance, approved management methods reduce the hazard of spreading the disease to healthy cows.

Animal pathologists urged prompt diagnosis of mastitis. By treating affected cows in the early stages of the disease, it is possible to prolong their production, experience has shown. Veterinarians have found that some cows in the early stages of the disease respond to treatment, and best results may be experienced by treating cows at the end of the lactation period while the animals are dry.

MRS. O H. EKEREN DIED ON THURSDAY: FUNERAL TUESDAY

Respected Resident of This City Succumbs at the Age of 63

Rev. G. S. Thompson conducted rites Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Trinity church for Mrs. Oluf Ekeren, well-known and respected member of this community, who passed away Thursday, Sept. 21, at the age of 63. Interment was made at Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Gertrude Ekeren was born April 3rd, 1881 at Cresco, Iowa, a daughter of the Reverend Magne Langeland and his wife, Sigrid Peterson Langeland. She was baptised by her father into the Lutheran faith on April 17, 1881. In 1883 she moved with her parents to Ottertail County where her father became the pastor of the Hedemarken, Hamar, and Vaku congregations near Rothsay, and where he continued to serve for 38 years. She was confirmed in the Hedemarken Church in 1896. She attended the district school at Hedemarken and, upon completion of this course, entered the Red Wing ladies seminary at Red Wing, from which institution she later graduated.

She was married on April 24th, 1903 to Oluf H. Ekeren, of Rothsay, and together they operated a drug store in that community for 30 years. During all of this period they were both very active in church and community affairs. In 1933 they moved to Thief River Falls, where, with the help of his sons, Mr. Ekeren operated a pharmacy business. They became active members of Trinity Lutheran church upon their arrival in this city and Mrs. Ekeren was a busy and aggressive worker in the ladies aid society and the circles of the church until the time of her death. Until her illness in the past few months she was a faithful attendant at divine worship and the Communion table. Despite the considerably advanced age at which they moved to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Ekeren entered easily into its life and became loyal lovers of their community and its people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ekeren made a trip to Norway on their honeymoon, and when they returned they brought back with them a nephew, H. O. Ekeren, now of Montana, and two nieces, Mrs. Bertha Olson, also of Montana, and Mrs. Ole Norseth, of Crookston. They made a home for these young people until they became established in life here. In recent years they have also made a home for a grandson, Halvor Ekeren, Jr., who was still residing with her during the school term at the time of her death. Her husband died on August 22, 1943 and was buried at Greenwood cemetery in this city. About five months after his death, in February of this year, Mrs. Ekeren suffered the first of several attacks which led to her death last Thursday morning.

She was a devoted mother of three sons who all survive her: Halvor, of St. Cloud; Olaf, of Thief River Falls, and Lieutenant Walter, of the United States army medical corps at Carlisle Barracks, Carlisle, Pa. Mrs. Ekeren is also survived by three grandchildren, Halvor, Jr., Robert, and Constance; by one brother, John Langeland, of California; and by four sisters, Mrs. J. S. Serkland, of Rothsay, Mrs. S. J. Strandjord, of St. Olaf, Iowa, Mrs. Anton Amundson, of Moose Lake, and Mrs. B. L. Hudtloff, of Estherville, Iowa.

That her many friends have valued her pleasant association with them is attested by the beautiful floral display at the funeral services, and by the list of generous memorial gifts to the charitable and religious projects in which she was greatly interested. Among these is a fund to provide an art-glass window for the chancel of her church, begun at her request in memory of her husband, and now augmented by her family and friends as an expression of their love and respect for her, as well as for her husband.

Paint Supplants Galvanizing

Paint is specifically excepted in Conservation Order M-11-b as Amended by the War Production board, restricting the use of zinc as a protective coating, including galvanizing, as well as other uses, for a variety of automobile parts, building materials and industrial materials. The order, which is a recent one, says: "No person shall apply a protective coating or plating (other than paint) of zinc" in specified classifications of metal items. Paint is already being used extensively on garbage cans and other metal items which prior to the present emergency were customarily galvanized with zinc.

New Guinea Pig

A fierce little burrowing animal called the cotton rat, which has been found susceptible to both the poliomyelitis virus and diphtheria intoxication, has stolen scientific favor from its laboratory friends the guinea pig and the white rat which refuse to become infected. The cotton rat is thus becoming increasingly important in experimental work, report biochemists at the University of Wisconsin who have made studies of the animal's nutritional requirements.

C. A. Elvehjem and research associates at the Wisconsin college of agriculture found that the cotton rat's diet is the same as the white rat, except that it requires nicotinic acid in addition. They also found that certain factors in liver extract aid the cotton rat's growth. The animal is native to the southern states, Mexico, Central and South America.

Mexican Cement

Mexico is expanding its domestic capacity for the production of cement to meet the increased needs of a great road-construction program and other building activities. According to an economic review published by the National Bank of Mexico, cement production from eight domestic plants increased in 1943 to 744,000 tons from 584,000 in 1942.

This year, the bank reports, new plants are scheduled to begin operations at Lagunas, Mazatlan, Tlalnepantla and Monterrey. Likewise, it is planned to put in operation the old one in Monterrey. The total capacity will aggregate 1,494,050 tons of cement, which will imply a 300 per cent development over and above the 1942 capacity.

Pulp Wool

The recent development of a staple fiber has broadened the use of rayon and has made it more of a direct competitor of wool. This process is obtained by cutting the continuous rayon filaments into short lengths, similar to natural fibers, that can be spun into yarn. Good style effects and favorable results have been achieved by combining this with natural wool for lightweight suitings. There has also been produced an all rayon fabric that has some of the characteristics of wool. This product has been used more extensively in Europe, where the fiber is called "pulp wool" rather than rayon, and it has made rapid strides there as a substitute for wool.

American Pigment Standards

During the past 10 years the standards of the American pigment industry have grown to be the best in the world, and most of the foreign pigments formerly imported because of fair quality and low freight have failed to keep pace with the advancing standards of the American pigment processors, the bureau of mines reports in Information Circular 7198. The curtailment of imports of French yellow ochers, Spanish red oxide, Persian Gulf red oxide, Turkey umbers, and Italian siennas during World War II is therefore not the hardship which it might appear.

Differences in Wood

Generally, hardwoods are broad-leaved trees; softwoods are needle bearers. These terms have nothing to do with the actual hardness of the wood. Most hardwoods are deciduous, meaning that they shed their foliage annually, while most softwoods are evergreen; i.e., they retain their leaves for more than one year.

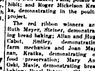
During the past ten years 12,285 forest fires have ravaged Minnesota timber.

Running Accounts

Jones—What's your occupation?

White—It isn't an occupation, it's a pursuit. I'm a bill collector.

THE LOWDOWN



Stranger—Can you tell me what a joint account is? My wife and I wanted to open one.

Cashier—Well, in that case, a joint account is one where you put the money in and your wife takes it out!

Right Definition

Joan—How do you know it's real love?

Jane—Well, she's quitting her job as his secretary to marry him and work for him for the rest of her life without salary!

Army Training

First Pvt.—I don't get much kick out of necking girls!

Second Pvt.—I never heard one complain either!

Hooked!

He—Am I good enough for you, darling?

She—No, but you're too good for any other girl!

Natural Death?

Mr. Jones—It's just ten years today I lost my wife.

Mr. Smith—That's too bad. It must be hard to lose your wife like that.

Mr. Jones—Hard! It's darn near impossible!

Easy Does It

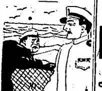
Lady—I want to know if I have grounds for divorce.

Lawyer—Are you married?

Lady—Yes.

Lawyer—That's all that's needed!

IN THE NAVY



Captain—You aren't sick, are you?

Gob—No, but I'd hate to yawn!

Zoo Work Too

Harry—How do you like being a farmer?

Jerry—It's too tough. You go to sleep with the chickens, get up with the roosters, work like a horse, eat like a pig and everybody treats you like a dog!

Dish-ish Fun!

Housewife—Be careful not to drop any of those dishes, Sadie!

Sadie—Don't worry, ma'am, if they did fall, they'd be too light to hurt my feet.

Why They're Doughboys

During the Mexican campaign the American soldiers called the Mexicans "adobe boys," because their uniforms, covered with mud, were the same color as the adobe huts. Then, during World War I, the word, now spelled "doughboys," was used by American soldiers to describe themselves after they were covered with mud during the battles in France.

Pennington Co. Schools Given Health Libraries Thru Yule Seal Funds

Schools of Pennington county have received Christmas Seal Health libraries this week from the Pennington County Tuberculosis association, according to Dr. Baldwin Borreson, president.

With an increasing emphasis on physical fitness by both military and civilian authorities, several of the books are devoted to instruction and training for fitness. Other books deal with subjects from first aid to the story of the Christmas seal. The libraries range from one to ten books, according to the size of the school.

These books, of practical help to both teachers and pupils, have been purchased with Christmas seal funds as a part of the education program for health.

Flag Display

When the United States flag is displayed on a church altar, if displayed in the chancel or on the platform, it should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation; if displayed in the body of the church, it should have the position of honor at the right of the congregation as it faces the clergyman.

Goodridge Sergeant Makes Improvement in Truck Gadget in Italy

With the Fifth Army, Italy—Sergeant Olaf Dahlen of Goodridge recently made a practical improvement on the trucks of his firing battery on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

The Minnesota mechanic now in action on the Pisa-Florence front has discovered that a block of wood fastened above the axles of the vehicles prevents the brake hose from being bound by loose wire picked up in muddy weather.

Ordnance companies in the rear are enthusiastic about Sergeant Dahlen's innovation and have called it a "brilliant idea". During past muddy seasons they have been burdened with brake repairs due to the problem which has been solved right at the front.

Sergeant Dahlen is a member of an artillery battalion in the 34th "Red Bull" infantry division. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dahlen, of Goodridge.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER URGES SUPPORT FOR NATIONAL WAR FUND

Appearing on the program with him were Nancy Ness, Norwegian born dramatic soprano; James R. Hill, volunteer ambulance driver from the battlefronts served by the American Field Service; Governor Edward J. Thye, who introduced him; and J. Cameron Thomson, state chairman of the fund, who presided.

"To see it through," Mr. Rockefeller said means first of all to achieve victory on all the fronts; second, an organization of all peace loving nations of the world so devised that it will be effective, so broadly planned that it will not interfere with the independence of its members and so flexible that it can adapt itself to changing conditions; third, the creation and proper control of some instrumentality to maintain peace; and finally, the ultimate development of peace on terms that are Christian, just and easy of adoption.

"To achieve this, immediate action is vital," he said. "The time to get agreement among the Allies is now. Each one of us can help mightily toward the ultimate realization of such a peace by what we think and say and do and are every day. At the same time, the immediate task at hand is not to let down in the war effort, to prove to the men at the front that we have the power to see it through."

We can give proof of that power, he said, in supporting generously the War Fund campaigns, which finance the three great agencies serving the armed forces and providing supplementary relief to the people of the Allied nations.

"Responsibilities of the National War Fund will increase as the fighting in Europe stops," he said. "If the armistice should come tomorrow we must redouble our giving and our working, remembering that the period of demobilization will extend over months and years, that our men will need our backing even more after the fighting stops than before; and that our Allies will continue to need our help until normal means of sustenance have been re-established. Will power, loyalty and faith are necessary if we are to see it through to the achievement of an enduring peace."

Interesting Sidelights On French Morocco

Most of the more than five million inhabitants of French Morocco are Moslem Berbers and Arabs, with a turbulent past. There are large Jewish colonies, and a good many Negroes. In recent years, large numbers of Europeans, especially French, have settled in French Morocco. New quarters of cities, with striking modern buildings, have sprung up. Huge sums were poured into the construction of the new "show city" of Casablanca. Contrasts between the unchanging ancient oriental customs and 20th century civilization are seen on every hand.

Rabat, on the Atlantic coast north of Casablanca, is the seat of the French administration; capital of the Sultanate is Fez, in the interior. Marrakech, almost within the shadow of the high Atlas, is a colorful resort city.

More than a thousand miles of railway link the chief towns of the colony and connect with Algeria's main lines. Of the 4,500 miles of roads, more than 2,500 are first class, with paving over long stretches. In normal times, there was daily air service between Casablanca and Toulouse, in France; another route reached to Dakar, jumping-off place for South Atlantic trans-oceanic flights.

France's authority in the colony is administered by a resident general. Nominally, French Morocco is an absolute monarchy, headed by the Sultan Sidi Mohammed.

Wealthy Islands Strung Along Mexican Coast

Mexico, one of the most prodigal storehouses of natural riches in the world, has another source of untapped mineral and forest wealth in hundreds of romantic, little-known islands off her Pacific coast, some within a few hours' easy sailing of the mainland. Many of these virtually unexplored islands are closely linked with Mexico's past history and traditions, while their strategic location along the coast gives them great potential importance in American defense and Mexico's future development as a nation.

Remotest of the islands are those in the volcanic Revilla Gigedo group, about 500 miles due west of Manzanillo, consisting of Socorro, San Benito, Clarion, Roca Partida, Roca de la Pasion and numerous smaller islands. From the time of their discovery by Baron de Humboldt until 1862 they were unoccupied and ignored. In that year Mexico sent an expedition under Francisco de la Cueva to investigate their possibilities as a penal colony, but their distance from the mainland led to abandonment of the plan in favor of the island of Maria Madre.

Socorro, the largest of the group, is at the same time the most fertile; San Benito has a long stretch of good beach along its eastern shore, while semiarid Clarion offers fishermen good anchorage in Azufre bay and unlimited possibilities for game and commercial fishing.

Once Neglected Seaweed Now Being Cultivated

Seaweeds, as long neglected by Americans as land weeds, are under close scrutiny at the University of California as possible sources of food. In rather crude form they are traditional articles of diet in Japan, and it is considered not impossible that with better processing they might be made palatable to Americans and Europeans.

In the botanical laboratories a Chinese scientist, Dr. C. K. Tseng, has transplanted a number of species from offshore rocks to tanks of sea water, where they can be studied under known and controlled conditions. His idea eventually is to establish a "submarine agriculture," with large scale cultivation and regular harvesting methods.

A South African botanist at the university, Dr. George Papenfus, says that several seaweed species along the coasts of his native land have been found to be good sources of agar, a kind of vegetable gelatin needed for laboratory culturing of bacteria and other micro-organisms. Before the war agar was supplied practically altogether from Japan, and the lack of it has been a serious handicap in hospitals and research laboratories.

Lifeboat Supplies

Rocket pistols, flares and Morse code signals, a compass, matches, extra rope, first aid materials, a bailer and bucket, flashlights, hatchets, 150 gallons of water, an ample supply of food in concentrated form—everything that might be needed in the emergency is carried in the lifeboats of the new EC-2 Liberty ships.

Test Poultry

The most useful tool for poultry improvement and greater egg production today is the family test for breeding birds, in which the breeders are judged on the performance of sisters, brothers and offspring.

This kind of testing involves much care and work. As a result the producer of hatching eggs or baby chicks can often improve his stock best by purchase of eggs from family-tested birds from specialists in that work.

Before introducing the birds grown from these eggs into his own selected strain of breeding birds, he should observe them for the first year of laying, to make sure they are better than the old stock. In the second year, the birds of the better strain can then be added to the breeder flock to improve it. To avoid disease, it is safest to introduce hatching eggs or baby chicks, not grown birds. Two or three strains should be tested.

Sorghum Syrup

Crushed through home-made rollers and boiled on the back of the kitchen stove, vitamin-rich, sugar-full sorghum syrup is often the main "sweetener" in southern diets. The "home-grown" variety seldom reaches a commercial market, but is grown, made and consumed by the small farm family.

Even bagasse—the waste, or squeezed-dry stalks from the rollers—has its use. Spread over the ground, it feeds the soil for next year's crop. Chopped up and mixed with other feed, it is fed to cattle. Bagasse, like the fully matured green plant, is "safe" feed, but the young tender shoots, still in the developing stage, contain prussic acid and cattle must be kept from planted fields.

Indian 'Green'

Bruised or gashed milkweed leaves, wrapped around pieces of meat prior to cooking, have been used as tenderizers by the Mexicans for years. Early American pioneers cooked the young green floss-filled pods with their buffalo meat. They learned it from the Indians.

Young clusters of budding milkweed flowers were boiled by the Indians for "greens." The leaves, gathered young, and boiled in two waters, served in some localities as a substitute for spinach, while spring shoots were often boiled and served like asparagus. French Canadians made sugar from milkweed. They boiled down the honey-filled dew which dripped from the flowers gathered early in the morning.

Tree Species in U. S.

According to the U. S. department of agriculture check list, there are 862 species, 228 varieties, and 87 hybrids—a total of 1,177 different forms of tree, in the U. S. A few are naturalized foreign species. Only 34 softwoods and 70 hardwoods are commercially important.

Holds Crates Together

Hardwood is far better than softwood for the corner posts of crates because it holds nails better; elm is extensively used and is satisfactory.

OUR LEADER SPEAKS

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, commander-in-chief of our country's armed forces that are now engaged in death struggles on a dozen battle fronts thruout the world, opened his campaign for re-election Saturday night in a most hilarious mood. His audience responded to his many sparkling witticisms with roars of laughter and prolonged applause. As good entertainment his speech hit a new high. As an appeal of a national leader in an hour of grave emergency, his speech hit a new low.

A few weeks earlier, in accepting the fourth term nomination, he stated dramatically that because of the war he would not campaign in the usual manner. This time, we were lead to believe, his appeal would be honest and forthright and dignified; the kind of an appeal that would tend to unite the nation rather than divide it. It was a noble resolve that caused us to wonder if we had underrated him. Saturday night's harangue satisfied us that in our lowest estimates we had been too generous.

Now, when American boys are giving their lives on battle fields the world over, we are launched into a political campaign that is to be argued by the your're-a-liar method; a campaign in which issues will become befogged by personalities. The enemies of our country, whose only hope for victory lies in our internal dissension, were among those who greatly enjoyed President Roosevelt's opening campaign speech.

Thomas Dewey showed some signs, in a negative way, of being qualified to give the country leadership, in his rebuttal of President Roosevelt's defense of Falla. As far as we are concerned we need no further proof that a new high standard of honesty and integrity in our government is needed. It is desperately needed. What we would like to have now is some assurance that Mr. Dewey will provide that honesty and integrity if he is elected. We are not impressed by promises that a new administration will out-new-deal the New Deal. We would like to know what the new administration, if there is a new administration, will do about the national debt. We have not yet been called upon to make a sacrifice to pay the cost of the war. We haven't even been called upon to pay for our social security. It has all been financed on I. O. U.'s. We would like to know what the new administration proposes to do about these hayracks-full of promises to pay that are cluttering up the roads we will have to travel over. Let's assume that we are going into this post war period in competition with nations like Russia. Is Russia going to come out of this war with a burden of debt such as that which hangs over us? Comparatively, we think, Russia has had an honest government. We would like to know what Mr. Dewey proposes to do if and when he inherits the results of a government that has been, and is, dishonest.

Our nomination for the distinguished service medal on the home front this past week goes to Doreen Champagne, ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Champagne of Brooks, who saved three tots younger than she when their home burned. Awakened during the night by the cries of her sister and unable to escape down the stairway because of flames, this heroine helped two of the youngsters out an upstairs window and then dropped to safety with the baby in her arms. For calm courage under extremely trying conditions, hats off and a round of cheers for ten year old Doreen Champagne of Brooks.

We are letting the bars down on contributed poetry this week to make room for the following bit of free verse that appeared originally in Yank, American army paper published overseas. The exception to the rule is justified not only by the merit of the composition but also because our city is mentioned, giving us, shall we say, international recognition. It was clipped and mailed to his home by Capt. Byron Hess from somewhere in Europe. Here it is:

A STRANGER AND ALONE

We are the insolent invaders with many uniforms
Who have come to England from far away
Bringing gifts of chewing gum and Chesterfields.

We are the harsh strangers—the vain, hearty foreigners.
The aliens thoughtlessly trampling your calm vineyards.

The slim colored boys send our heavy trucks
Screaming along your narrow roads.
The big tanks rip up the pavings
Of your ancient towns.
The jeeps and weapons carriers
Do fifty-five around your Z-shaped curves.
The half-tracks hold your traffic up for hours.

The countryside rings
With the blare and whirl of our machines.

We are loud and fast and wild and lusty.
We are drunken, proud, hard and potent.
We could drink your island dry if you would let us.
We are the terrible, mischievious warriors
From far away.

We are, I'm afraid,
Just a trifle bestial
For your highly tempered tastes.

But, England,
Understand us!
Though we sneer and boast in the pubs,
Consuming your beer and belittling your glory,
We tremble and are afraid in the streets
Before the blind audience of closed doors.
We are young men whose roots
Have been left far behind
In strange places called Brooklyn and Sacramento and Tucson and Thief River Falls and Council Bluffs and Cincinnati and Coon Hollow.
We have been torn from the soil where we grew
And flung like exiles across an ocean
To a land we never dreamed of.

We are bewildered and weary,
Lonely to the point of madness,
And if we shout and curse
Through our quiet dreams,
Forgive us.

We are merely looking for a way to go home.

1934—TEN YEARS AGO

Resources of the Union State bank for the first time have passed the $1,000,000 mark.—Oscar M. Peterson of Clinton, Minn., was killed in a truck accident on Highway 1 two miles east of Goodridge.—Only a small crowd showed up to hear an address by A. C. Townley, candidate for governor of Minnesota.—Rev. R. K. Calloway, 79, former local resident, died in a Minneapolis hospital. — Dedication ceremonies for the new Third st. bridge have been set for October 18.

1924—TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Commercial club was considering the promotion of a canning factory in this community.—Herbert Fuller was elected president of the Pennington County Agricultural society, sponsor of the county fair.—Speaking in this city, Cong. Gilbert Haugen of Iowa discussed the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, of which he is co-author.—Miss Ruth Johnson, local school nurse, was married in St. Paul to Oscar R. Smith.—Sugar beets in this locality were yielding up to twenty tons per acre.—John Brandvold, for 38 years a resident of Sanders township, died Sept. 21 at his home.

Servicing French Trade

Djibouti dominates French Somaliland. Its splendid harbor is the best in 2,000 miles of northeast African coast. Being the only French port in a 3,000-mile range from Tunisia to Madagascar, it has been of increasing importance throughout its 50-year history as a ship coaling and servicing point for French trade from Marseille to the Far East. The Franco-Ethiopian railroad, only rail outlet for Ethiopia, is the other major factor that has contributed to Djibouti's importance. Built by degrees from 1896 to 1917, this line reaches 486 miles inland and 8,100 feet upland to Addis Ababa, capital and hub of Ethiopia. It normally carries most of Ethiopia's exports of coffee, salt, ivory, hides, and wax.

Hitler Vitamin-Starved?

The world may have vitamin starvation to blame for Hitler. Fantastic as it may seem, this speculation has plenty of scientific support. It is well known that for years Der Fuehrer not only ate sparingly, but also avoided meats. So, by now, he must have built up some choice deficiencies, if he has been depending upon food alone for his vitamins and minerals. Just on the score of being jittery and irritable, Hitler certainly qualifies as a Grade A case of vitamin deficiency. But that's not all. Recent medical research has established that lack of vitamins B1, thiamine; B2, riboflavin; and P-P, niacin, produces symptoms like those of the neurasthenia, which many psychiatrists have detected in Adolf. This leaves open only the question of whether he was born that way or starved himself into it.

Airplane Plant

Brazil's National Motor factory is going into production with precision tools and equipment obtained exclusively in the United States. The huge $9,000,000 plant will be the first in the other American republics to build complete airplane engines, using production methods patterned after United States assembly line production. Prior to the war, Brazil purchased most of her precision tools from England and Germany.

New Georgia Islands Are In Pacific Danger Zone

New Georgia island is only a half hour's flight northwest of Guadalcanal. Like the rest of the Solomons, the island is of volcanic origin, and in its 45-mile length it is quite irregular, with mountains in the north. One peak rises nearly 2,700 feet above the sea, while another, shaped like a crouching lion, is more than 2,250 feet high. There is considerable level ground suitable for landing fields in the south, says a National Geographic society bulletin.

New Georgia is one of the larger of the Solomon chain. It is noted for its huge Roviana lagoon, a slim body of water enclosed behind 20 miles of islets off the southwest shore. Another large expanse of water useful for anchorage and landing space for seaplanes is Marovo lagoon, at the opposite end of the island. The islets and shores of Roviana lagoon—rated one of the most beautiful spots in the South Pacific—are normally the most thickly settled of the New Georgia group. Before the war, it was estimated that nearly 2,000 natives, many of them English-speaking, lived in this area.

On Lake and Sea

La Goulette, Tunisia, also has the advantage of being both on the lake and on the sea, which has made it the port for a sizable fishing fleet that can fish either in lake or sea, as the weather and run of fish may dictate. The fishermen are mostly Maltese and Sicilians. The smaller port also profits [illegible] from being a seaside resort with a beach superior to that of the many resorts along the shore. It is the resort most accessible to the residents of Tunis, who have an unusual approach to La Goulette. They take a seven-mile ride over the lake in street cars. The trestled line parallels the canal.

Use for Cooking

Both dried, whole and dried, separated milk can be used for cooking, either by reconstituting it first as fluid milk, or just by mixing it dry and then adding water. The milk dishes wash easily. The milk is freer of bacteria than most fluid milk is, and is practically as nutritious [illegible].

Air Imports

Imports by air for 1943 totaled 41,000,000 pounds valued at $110,209,000, reports Donald M. Nelson, chairman of WPB. "That's about 6 per cent of the value of the cargo imported by ship," he adds.

Roman Ruins

Medjez-el-Bab is at the eastern edge of Tunisia's richest agricultural region, says a National Geographic society bulletin. This region is known to many tourists for its wealth of Roman ruins. The town lies on high ground sloping down to the Medjerda, Tunisia's principal river, at a point 40 miles west of Tunis and 55 miles south of Bizerte. Medjez-el-Bab means "Gateway to the Sea." Upstream from the town the Medjerda is a winding silver tape flowing between two chains of the Atlas mountains. Below the town it is muddy and sluggish, crossing low-land to the Gulf of Tunis. At Medjez-el-Bab a Roman bridge of many arches, reconstructed of ancient stone in the 18th century, spans the stream. Crumbling remains of Roman baths, arches and mausoleums are numerous in the vicinity. The town flanks the route of a military road which connected ancient Carthage, near Tunis, with Tebessa in Algeria. Today a railroad and a highway cover the same route.

Mineral Pigments Have Many Uses

Mineral pigments find their main outlets, both alone and mixed with chemical pigments, in paint. Iron oxide pigments are used extensively in the preparation of paints for the protection of iron and steel work from rust, for which graphite and red lead are also widely used. Iron oxide paints are also used on freight cars, barns, etc. Other uses for iron oxide pigments are as coloring agents and fillers in the manufacture of imitation leather, shade cloth, shingle stain, and paper and cardboard filler. Siennas and umbers are used in wood stains and wood fillers. Comparatively large amounts of ground sienna were formerly used for lithographic and typographic printing, but this use is now negligible.

Kok-Sagyz in Bessarabia

The government of Rumania has set aside $30,000 to extend the cultivation of kok-sagyz, the rubber-bearing plant, in Bessarabia and Bucovina, according to information from Istanbul.

Trouble Often Starts at Home

Read the other day where some folks have put up $100,000 to establish a bureau to combat intolerance and prejudice.

Reckon we all agree that that's a mighty worthy cause. But I wonder if tolerance, like so many other things, doesn't begin at home.

You take a family where Ma objects to hubby's smoking in the parlor; and Pa can't stand his wife's hats; and they both yell at Sis for liking to listen to swing music—and you've got the seeds of trouble! Trouble that spreads to intolerance among neighbors, and intolerance among nations.

From where I sit, you can put your faith in the family that lives and lets live—where Pa enjoys his smoke and maybe a mellow glass of beer or two; and Ma wears funny looking hats and likes 'em; and Sis grows up as healthfully full of spirits as a child should be.

Need Strong-Minded Men During After-War Period

Public opinion, backed by strong men behind a conference table and not merely idealists and dreamers, will mold the peace after this war, Dr. Henry J. Bruman, assistant professor of geography at the Pennsylvania State college, said recently in outlining a four-point peace plan.

Dr. Bruman pointed out that we must start now to think about the terms on which peace can be maintained and listed the following steps for a lasting peace:

1. A program of re-education and indoctrination for democracy in the conquered countries. To do this will probably take a lifetime, gradually placing into positions of power youth who have been taught the principles of freedom and democracy. This re-education program should have the full co-operation and support of our department of state and the U. S. office of education, Dr. Bruman stated.

2. Military occupation of Germany, Italy and possibly Hungary, with maintenance of an army of occupation in those countries for at least eight to ten years, and perhaps a whole generation during the re-education process.

3. Compulsory military training in the United States for every male citizen to provide sufficient material for the large standing army which would be necessary.

4. Generous boundary allotments to Germany and Japan, and equally generous allotments of sources of adequate raw materials. Germany should be given Austria and the Sudeten Germans.

Some Fertilizer Results

A study by the department of agriculture of 33 state pasture experiments shows that one pound of plant food produced an increase of 16 pounds of digestible nutrients, the equivalent of 4 bushel of corn, 33 bushel of wheat, 8 bushel of oats, or 22 pounds of oilmeal. Thus a ton of complete fertilizer would produce increased grazing equal to 11,500 pounds of milk or 1,400 pounds of beef.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

Johnny was not at the dinner table when his father came home, for the reason his mother had sent him upstairs to bed for swearing.

"Swearing!" bellowed the father. "I'll teach him to swear!" He dashed up the stairs and midway, stubbed his toe, stumbled and crashed his chin on the step.

When the atmosphere cleared a little, Johnny's mother said sweetly, "No more now, dear. You've given him enough for one lesson."

Circulate Heat

Increase the useful heat output of a hot-water or steam radiator by aiming an electric fan at it. For a party or other occasion when quite a few people are in the room, you can make the air seem fresher by placing a fan so the air stream is directed along one wall. Place it three to five feet above the floor. If the fan has several speeds, set it for medium or low.

Go Into Field

Gathering field data on the value of a new fungicide requires a lot of crawling over a lot of loose, cultivated soil. In one series of tests on 49 different farms, plant pathologists, under a hot southern sun, crawled along about 35 miles of peanut rows. Moving along on hands and knees, these scientists counted over 235,000 plants to obtain information under actual farming conditions.

Sniffles Dangerous

Sniffles are dangerous if ignored. For while colds properly treated can be nipped in the bud, neglect can lead to more serious infections. Moreover, the cold victim who persists in neglecting his cold can infect any number of his fellow workers. "At the first sign of a cold," the booklet warns, "get plenty of rest, drink lots of fluids, and stay indoors until the cold is licked." Preventive measures suggested include proper diet, adequate outdoor exercise and warm dress.

More Country, Less Aridness

Principally an agricultural country, French Morocco presents a more fertile appearance than one familiar with motion picture romances set in its "desert wastes" might suspect. There are large areas of sandy and rocky desolation, but abundant crops of wheat, barley, corn, beans and other vegetables, as well as groves of olive, lemon, orange, fig, and almond trees clothe the productive regions, particularly in the broad, river-ribbed plains north of the Atlas mountains. French Morocco has almost five million acres of forests, made up of cork, cedar, oak and palm trees, in addition to the extensive orchards and vineyards. High in the Atlas mountains huge cedars attain a height of more than 100 feet.

Lack of Guayule Seed

The expansion of California's guayule project has been retarded by the lack of seed, but recent reports indicate that this has been overcome due to the successful mechanical gathering of the seeds from the 500 experimental acres that have been planted in the Salinas valley. Now there is on hand approximately 130,000 pounds of guayule seed and the harvest this fall is expected to duplicate this amount.

The United States officials in charge of this project estimate that one pound of seed will produce sufficient seedlings for approximately two acres. Present plans call for the establishment of two new nurseries. One near Indio, Riverside county, and one near Oceanside, San Diego county. These new nurseries, together with the present one at Salinas, will produce seedlings for 90,000 acres to be harvested in the fall of 1944.

E. G. Forks Here Friday; Prowlers Swamp R. L. F.

With Wes Hovie leading the Prowler-scoring parade (the blond fullback tallied four touchdowns and a conversion point), Coach Glenn Hanna's Prowlers marked up an easy 47 to 6 triumph over Red Lake Falls here Friday night. The locals are due to face sturdier opposition tomorrow evening when the Little Green Wave of East Grand Forks meet the Prowlers under the lights on the local gridiron. Last year's game between the two teams resulted in a 39 to 0 win for the Prowlers, with Herb Claffy having a field day for himself.

Five plays after receiving the opening kickoff Friday night, the Prowlers had slashed across the east goal for a touchdown. Billy Nelson returned the kickoff from the Prowler 28-yard line to the Red Lake Falls 32-yard marker. Ninak Carlson and Les Vigness carried the ball to the 1-yard line, and Herb Claffy sneaked over for the score. Carlson added the point on a plunge. Bob Baker, kicking off for the Prowlers, recovered his own kick on the Red Lake Falls 34-yard line to set up the second score. Carlson made 3 yards around left end; Claffy added 4 yards through center; and Les Vigness circled right end to the Red Lake Falls 7-yard line.

The locals added another touchdown early in the second period, with John Powell flipping a pass to Vigness, scoring from the Red Lake Falls 20-yard line. Coach Martin Husby's team marked up their lone score in the second period when Paul Thibert intercepted a pass on his 32-yard line and ran 68 yards for a touchdown. Ed Cuno's try for point, a kick, was wide. Hovie scored the first of his four touchdowns shortly before the end of the half, driving over left guard from the 5-yard line, giving the locals a 27 to 6 lead at half-time.

Hovie opened the second half scoring by plunging over for a touchdown after Claffy had swung out around right end for a 22-yard gain, bringing the ball to the Red Lake Falls 5-yard line. Seconds later, Hovie intercepted a pass on the Red Lake Falls 40-yard line and raced up the north side-line for another touchdown. The game's final tally was recorded early in the fourth period, with Hovie sliding off right guard for 10 yards. Johnny Powell added the 47th point by sneaking through right tackle.

The Prowlers margin over superiority can be judged by the fact that the locals gained 13 first downs, while Red Lake Falls marked up 1 first down. The entire Prowler backfield—Les Vigness, Wes Hovie, Ninak Carlson, and Herb Claffy—revealed speed and power, with Vigness being especially effective on sweeps around right end, the sophomore back having runs of 20, 25, 23 and 28 yards. Chuck Richards, Bob Baker, Billy Nelson, Gerry Flattum, Cliff Anse, Alan Thompson, and Phil Beadle turned in first-rate performances in the Prowler line.

Red Lake Falls, riddled by graduation, was handicapped by an inexperienced backfield. Vern Nieland, right end, Ed. Cuno, tackle, and Bill Cutten, center, were coach Husby's most dependable players.

The summary:

T. R. F. (47)		R. L. F. (6)

Officers and directors of the City Bowling Association at a meeting held last week, completed plans for the coming season. League bowling is scheduled to begin on Oct. 23rd.

Hazel Sergeant Uses Shovel for a Helmet in Battle in Italy

With the Fifth Army, Italy—When he couldn't find his helmet, Staff Sergeant Irvin Arne of Hazel used a shovel for protection during a recent German barrage on the Fifth Army front in Italy.

The concentration apparently was aimed at the gunpit of the 34th "Red Bull" infantry division artilleryman while he was trying to get a few hours rest.

"Someone must have given my helmet a kick, because it was no longer on the bank above me," Arne said. "I had the choice of getting above ground and looking around for it or staying below and covering my head with a shovel. I chose the shovel."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Arne of Hazel.

Not So Easy

It's sure that the competition that the Prowlers bump up against tomorrow night, East Grand Forks, won't be as easy to handle as was the Red Lake Falls team last Friday night. The East Side coach, H. E. "Hans" Hanson, was at the game here last week, and while he was impressed by the speed and the scoring punch of the locals, he said that his veteran outfit was capable of upsetting the Prowlers. Hans has ten lettermen on his squad, having lost only Red Johnson, Don Bain, and Bob Vickery from last year's eleven. The Green Wave were beaten in the first start, losing to Don Norman's strong Crookston Cathedral team, 13 to 7, at Crookston on Friday, but that loss, contended Hanson, was due to "opening game" jitters.

In quarterback Jim Stewart and left halfback Bob McGarry, Hans claims that he has two backs that can run with the speedy Prowlers, and if his heavy line—the East Grand Forks forward wall will average 175 pounds per man—can develop a fast charge, the game should turn into a contest.

Have Met 24 Times

Since 1919, when the East Grand Forks vs. Thief River Falls series originated, the two teams have met 24 times. The Prowlers won 12 games, East side the winner in 11 games, and one game, the 1941 affair, having ended in 0 to 0 tie. Last year's Prowler 39 to 0 win was one of the highest scores recorded in the series; with the "tops" being that 92 to 6 score rolled up by the locals in 1919.

Perhaps the outstanding features of Friday night's 47 to 6 conquest of Red Lake Falls was the play of Wes Hovie and Les Vigness. In scoring 25 points, on four touchdowns and an extra point, fullback Wes had one of the highest scoring games that a Prowler has recorded; and in addition Wes played a bang-up game on defense, intercepting three Red Lake Falls passes, one of which he returned for a touchdown. And closely pressing Wes for starring honors was right halfback Les Vigness. Les carried the ball ten times for a net gain of 138 yards, nearly a 14-yard average, and he was on the receiving end of a pass that gained 26 yards and a touchdown. Les was running very well to his right picking his holes and then sprinting away for long gains.

If the Prowlers can keep the injury jinx away from the team—Herb Claffy twisted an ankle and Ninak Carlson bruised a knee in the Red Lake Falls game, but they'll be ready for tomorrow night's game — Coach Hanna's team should be a tough club to beat from now on. We'll see tomorrow night how they'll fare against a team that has a weight advantage.

Mostly Optimistic

Reports coming in on last week's opening of the duck hunting season continue to be optimistic. One of the finest shoots was reported by a group of Bemidji hunters, who hunted around John Mostrom's place east of River Valley, for the ten nimrods returned to Bemidji with 300 mallards. They probably hunted in the Twin Lakes area.

Bill LaFave and a group of Bridgeman boys were south of Thief Lake on opening day, hunting with John Henning, and they, too, had a good shoot. That Thief Lake hunting was erratic, as some hunters reported that the ducks were flying too high and if you didn't have a boat and decoys you were out of luck.

George Williamson and Slim Lawson opened the season around Stephen and after a day of hard hunting, came in with a limit of mallards; and on Thursday they trudged through the old Elm Lake burn-outs and picked up 26 mallards. Slim didn't lower his blood pressure any by that Elm Lake hunt, that's tough stuff to go through.

Helmer Ness, Al Berge, and Art Rambeck had a fine shoot east and south of River Valley, that is Helmer and Al had a good shoot, for it is rumored that of the thirty ducks bagged, Sheriff Art didn't get more than one or two. Art's been kidded a lot about that performance.

THYE DISCUSSES AID TO RETURNING VETERANS OF WAR

Plans to Set up Community Service Information Centers

In a report to the people this week Governor Edward J. Thye outlined a program for aid of Minnesota's returning veterans designed to reach into every community and afford an agency for the fullest possible organization of its resources to help the service men get reestablished in peace-time pursuits aftr the war.

Greatest obligation that confronts the people of Minnesota, he said, is to help men in the armed forces get jobs and obtain other assistance they will need. He said pointedly:

"None of us has a right to prosper unless the men who fought this war can find jobs."

Following his policy of making no political speeches in his own behalf, the Governor confined his talk, given in St. Paul, to a straight report on state governmental affairs, with much of the discussion centering about plans for assistance to Minnesota veterans after the war.

Governor Thye outlined plans for the community service information center which the mayor of each municipality in the state has been asked to form to assist veterans, following appointment by the Governor of the new state veterans advisory committee, and disclosed plans for a state-conducted school, to be held later this fall, to train a representative of each community in services to assist returning veterans. This will provide a uniform and effective program, functioning in every community, Governor Thye hopes, to assist returning veterans in getting jobs, compensation claims and other help.

The potato is one of our principal sources of starches and sugars, a fair source of iron and phosphorus and contains some vitamin B1 and riboflavin. A good-sized baked potato supplies about one-fourth of our vitamin C requirement for the day.

Civil Service Agent to Interview Men Here for Navy Yards October 5-7

Workers are urgently needed in California and Washington to help repair ships damaged in the Pacific. In California, the Mare Island navy yard at Vallejo is seeking automotive mechanics, laborers, machinists, welders, and many others. The Hunter's Point naval drydocks at San Francisco needs blacksmiths, drillers, helpers, machinists, plumbers, etc. In Washington, the Puget Sound navy yard, at Bremerton is seeking electricians, laborers, machinists, mechanic learners, and many others. Although men are wanted for positions at these Navy Yards, women working members of a recruit's family are acceptable for certain positions.

Salaries are good, transportation is paid, and housing is available.

A representative of the U. S. civil service commission will be at the U. S. employment service office at Thief River Falls on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 5, 6 and 7, to conduct interviews and offer immediate appointment, according to Russell E. Olson, manager.

Persons now employed in war work should not apply.

MINNESOTA
INDUSTRIES

There are two main reasons why Minnesota needs all its industries at this time:

First: In a short time the war in Europe will be over and jobs must be found for all of the returning service men . . . unemployment may become a serious problem. We are glad to report that the Brewing Industry in Minnesota supplies jobs for approximately 55,000 people in the manufacturing, distribution and sale of beer.

Second: The tax load on every individual following the war will be stupendous and Minnesota needs all its industries to help pay the bill. It is interesting to know that one industry, The Brewing Industry, pays nearly two million a year in excise taxes to the state, besides several millions in personal, real estate, and income taxes. In addition to this, approximately thirteen million dollars are paid each year to the Federal Government by Minnesota Brewers.

After your day's work is done, you'll find a bottle of cold beer refreshing and economical. Patronize only Taverns that obey local laws.

The Brewers of America pay daily approximately $2,000,000.00 to Federal and State Governments. This amount would purchase 20 medium tanks each day.

ALLOW DEFERRED FARM WORKERS TO TAKE WINTER JOBS

County Agents and Selective Service Announce Program

A program under which farm workers, deferred by selective service, may engage in certain types of other employment during the winter months becomes effective October 1.

Details similar to those in effect last year governing II-C and III-C deferred were work out by the state administrators of selective service, the agricultural extension service, the Minnesota state war board, AAA, and the War Manpower Commission.

Purpose of the program is to fully utilize the state's manpower resources by authorizing persons holding agricultural deferments to accept temporary employment in war supporting and certain local industries after October 1, until such time as the workers are needed for farm operations, particularly next spring.

Details can be obtained from county agents, county war board members, selective service boards, or at offices of the U. S. employment service.

The program was worked out in an effort, on the part of the government agencies involved, to help fill some 28,000 job orders now held by USES.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

Our September and October quota of surgical dressing gauze has arrived. Work will begin Monday afternoon from 2 to 5 P. M. as before. All available volunteer help is needed any day in the week from Monday through Thursday. The only evening that is open to those that are working is Monday evening. If any one finds it easier to come Monday evening instead of in the afternoons that will be satisfactory, too. So make a date to be at the work room some time next week; your work will be very much appreciated, not only by the instructors in charge, but by the "boys over there".

This month is "Army Nurse Month". Because the work of the medical department of the army is growing heavier as the war progresses, the army needs more nurses. So does the navy. Together they need 9,000 before January 1, 1945, 4,000 of them for the army before October 1, 1944. General Eisenhower wrote in July, "From Bataan to Normandy the contributions of American women serving as nurses in our army have spoken for themselves. One need only talk with the wounded or witness our nurses at work, in the field and in hospitals, to realize that they are taking their places alongside the greatest women in the history of our country". And Surgeon General Kirk says, "Without her (the army nurse) the present high standard of health among our soldiers, and the gratifying percentage of recovery of battle casualties, would be impossible". Navy nurses too, ever since that baptism by fire at Pearl Harbor, have added lustre to the wartime record of American nurses.

For those interested in getting information about enlisting as an army or navy nurse, contact Mrs. William Gilbertson, 103 E. 8th st. or call her number, 729. Mrs. Gilbertson has been appointed procurement nurse for this district by the Red Cross.

Have you thought any more about joining a Red Cross home nursing class this winter? Classes will be arranged for your convenience if you will get in touch with Mrs. Orrin G. Lynde, home nursing chairman, 241 N. Markley, telephone 487. With the nation's war emergency requiring even greater numbers of doctors and nurses, it becomes an individual obligation to family and neighbor to prepare ourselves for such eventualities.

Southwestern German City Was Jewelry Trade Center

Pforzheim, Germany, normally has one of the world's largest jewelry industries. Until war's outbreak over 22,000 workers in this southwestern German city of 80,000 people were cogs in the mass production of gold and silver ornaments and jewelry, mostly for the popular price trade.

Spread over hillsides at the northeast corner of Germany's famous Black Forest, Pforzheim softens the hardness of its smoke-belching industries with 17th century gabled residences and business buildings, venerable bridges crossing the Enz and Nagold rivers that meet there.

Lying 20 miles southeast of Karlsruhe and 30 miles northwest of Stuttgart, Pforzheim is part of a region in which war industries have been feverishly developed in the past decade. In addition to its long-established jewelry and musical instrument industries, it has copper, chemical and machinery plants, forges, tanneries and paper mills. It is a timber center, dispatching logs down river to the Neckar and the Rhine. Its ancient trade in oil, fruits, wine and cattle continues.

Times want ads bring results.

HOLT

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Folden received the sad news a short time ago of the death of their youngest son, Pfc. Lawrence Folden. Reports stated that he had been killed in action in France on Sept. 7. Sympathy is extended to the sorrowing parents, sisters and brothers. An older Folden boy died in an army camp in World War I.

Funeral services were conducted at the Free Mission church on Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Turi T. Sollom, pioneer of this community. Rev. Thv. Myhrer officiated. Mrs. Kore Myhrer and Joyce Anderson sang at the funeral with Mrs. Albert Fredrickson as organist. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

Mrs. Turi T. Sollom was born Dec. 6, 1864 in Satesdal, Norway. Together with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Myhrum, two sisters and three brothers she came to America at the age of five, living in Fillmore county until 1873. From there they moved to Grand Forks county N. Dak., making the journey in a covered wagon.

There she was united in marriage to Torger T. Sollom. In 1885 they came to this community being among the first pioneers. The past 17 years she has made her home in Grand Forks, spending the summer months on her homestead near Holt the past five summers. She was a charter member of the Free Mission church of Holt, also being an active member of the ladies aid and other church activities.

Thirteen children were born to Mr. and Mrs. T. Sollom. Mr. Sollom and three sons preceded her in death. She was a gold star mother of World War I. Mrs. Sollom passed away at a hospital at Thief River Falls Sept. 13, 1944 at the age of 79 years, 9 months, and 7 days.

Survivors are six daughters, Mrs. Bella Carlson, Middle River; Mrs. Clara Carlson, Argyle; Mrs. Elvina Johnson, Moorhead; Mrs. Myrtle Feliatroult, Des Moines, Iowa; and Misses Gunhild and Olava at home, four sons, Theodore Sollom, Bagley; Alfred Sollom of San Francisco, Calif., 21 grand children and six great grandchildren. All were present at the funeral except Alfred. Out of town relatives and friends present at the funeral were Mrs. Anna Helland and Norma Sollom of Grand Forks, Mrs. L. P. Poppenhagen, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Reierson, Mrs. P. P. Reierson, Jim Turnwall, Mrs. O. Thompson of Thief River Falls, Mr. and Mrs. Tonnes Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hanson, Mrs. Thv. Myhrer and Mrs. Andrew Hanson of Newfolden; Mrs. A. Gordon, Bagley; M. Field and Mrs. Reuben Carlson of Stephen.

T. B. Folden recently underwent a major operation at Warroad and is very ill.

Mrs. Eddie Henning and Jerome went to Fargo on Monday to meet their husband and dad, Eddie Henning, who arrived there by plane from the Aleutians, where he has been employed the past eight months. He was called home due to the illness of his father, a patient at a hospital in Thief River Falls.

Mrs. John Engstrom sold all her personal property at auction on her farm on Wednesday. Mrs. Engstrom and Sidney will leave for Detroit, Mich. to make their home.

Col. Hughey Engstrom arrived on Thursday from Seattle, Wash. to spend his furlough here visiting his mother, brother and other relatives and friends.

FOOD FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM
MINUTES SAVED MEAN MORE FOOD

You can Wash the Cream Separator in two minutes

By this time-saving plan

After all milk has left supply tank, stop turning machine. Run one pint of skim milk through bowl to clear cream. Rinse supply tank and bowl with one pint of warm water. Shut off faucet. Place tablespoon of wetting agent in supply tank.

Pour in pail of water, 120 degrees F. While this goes through separator, use soft brush on supply tank and outside of cream and milk spouts.

Dismantle machine. Place parts in supply tank.

If disks are not clean, set in dishpan of water; run brush through hole, pumping water between disks. Shake disks apart for inspection, place in supply tank. The soft brush will cleanse rest of bowl parts.

After all parts are in supply can, pour a kettle of boiling water over them, drain, and allow to dry.

Use of wetting agent is the secret of this process. Ordinary washing powders will not give results described. Among the common wetting agents on the market are Dreft, Swerl, Vel, Nacconal N. R., Neosuds, and M. P. 189.

Annual Loss of $450,000,000

Dr. Henry A. Gardner, director of the scientific section of the National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association, Inc., in his "Economics of Paint," cites a finding by a distinguished British scientist, an expert on problems of corrosion, that the annual loss of steel alone due to corrosion was in the neighborhood of $500,000,000. Speller, in his book entitled "Corrosion; Causes and Prevention," suggests that the annual replacement value of steel due to corrosion may be as high as 2 per cent of the total tonnage in use. Taking 450,000,000 tons as a basic peacetime annual figure, 2 per cent of this, if figured at $50 a ton, would suggest an annual loss of $450,000,000. But fabricated steel corrodes so rapidly that the annual loss, if unpainted, would probably be at least 20 per cent, Dr. Gardner estimates. Even assuming that only 10 per cent of the steel produced in the world is used in America in exposed places, there would still be an annual loss of $450,000,000 that is preventable by the use of paint.

Why do I have to wait for a telephone?

The reason is that there is a shortage of telephone facilities, due to wartime demands for telephone service and because manufacturing plants, manpower and materials are being used to supply battle fronts.

Can some folks get service right away?

Yes, those designated by government order as entitled to receive service immediately. In most cases, it is not possible to install service for other applicants without delay.

Can I get service promptly if I move within the city?

In most cases, we will be able to connect service for you at your new address when you move, but in some cases there may be a delay. If you are planning to move, please get in touch with our Business Office so we can explain the situation as it applies to your particular case.

Will I get service sooner if there is a telephone in the house where I am moving?

It makes no difference. There's such a shortage of telephone facilities that prompt removal of all non-working telephones is necessary to serve those on the waiting list. When your turn comes, however, the charge for connecting your service will be the same as if the telephone was still in place.

Can I keep my extension telephones if I move?

In accordance with a government order, we are not permitted to install nor reconnect residence extension telephones except in special cases for practicing physicians or surgeons, or temporarily when there is serious illness in the family. This restriction makes disconnected extension telephones available to serve persons who have no telephone service at all.

If you have other questions about availability of telephone service, please get in touch with our Business Office. We shall be glad to do everything possible to help you.

Have a "Coke" = Otlichno!
(SWELL!)

...a way to rate with a Russian sailor

In west coast ports, newly-arrived Russian sailors encounter a familiar American greeting. It's the hearty Have a "Coke" of a Yankee tar... and the Russian smiles as he replies, Otlichno! In many lands around the globe, Coca-Cola is spreading the custom of the pause that refreshes,—has become the happy introduction between friendly-minded folks, just as it is when served in your home.

AVERAGE FAMILY'S SHARE OF WARTIME COSTS IS $8,200

Average Family Investment in War Bonds About $1,000

The average American family's share of its country's wartime expenses is about $8,200, of which it has already contributed over $1,400 since Pearl Harbor; will still owe over $6,800 as its pro rata share of the postwar national debt, according to a summary by Northwestern National life Insurance company.

To date, the average U. S. family has invested approximately $1,000 in E, F, and G War Bonds, of which it has cashed in $90 due to some emergency or other cause leaving a net cash investment of about $910. The family since 1941 has paid over $500 in federal income taxes. As such a family paid no income taxes prior to 1942, its subsequent tax contributions should be considered as net investment in the war effort, the study says.

The family's $6,800 share of the postwar national debt, some $1,200 of which share was peacetime, pre-1941 debt, will mean a pro rata interest burden of over $100 a year. The per family share of the annual cost of our army and navy will be around $160; its share of the cost of postwar veterans' cost of farm payments and farm price supports after the war will approximate $55 a year, according to current estimates. With other postwar costs of government, the U. S. family's share of the nation's estimated 18 to 20 billion dollar annual operating costs will total about $500 a year. Thus it can expect little relief in income tax rates in the immediate postwar period.

As the war nears its close, the typical U. S. family faces the future with $910 cash invested in War Bonds and some $930 in the form of other savings — banks, savings and loan association, or postal savings. It has over $3,000 in life insurance protection.

The family will start the postwar period with little or no instalment debts, as restrictions on instalment selling, combined with the scarcity of goods ordinarily purchased on instalments, have held down new purchases while old obligations were being liquidated.

Most Traffic Accidents Occur Near Driver's Home

Analysis of traffic accidents reported to the Minnesota highway department in 1943 showed that 91.8 per cent of the drivers involved lived within 25 miles of the place of accident, 5.6 per cent lived elsewhere in the state and only 2.6 per cent were non-residents. This contradicts the belief that out-of-state drivers and other long distance travelers are responsible for most of the accidents.

Long distance travel in 1943 was below normal, but in pre-war years the far-away-from-home drivers involved in accidents were still a small part of the total. In 1941, 86.1 per cent of the drivers in reported accidents lived within 25 miles of the accident, 9.3 per cent elsewhere in the state and 4.6 per cent were non-residents.

MORE SPEEDING, LESS DRINKING IS NOTED BY PATROL

1107 Drivers Licenses Were Revoked During First 8 Months of Year

Revocations and suspensions of drivers' licenses in 1944 show 10 per cent increase over 1943, according to the August report of the drivers' license division of the Minnesota department of highways, the total being 3,528 in the first eight months this year, and 3,260 in the same months last year. Revocations, based largely on convictions for driving while under the influence of intoxicants, decreased 19 per cent. Suspensions, based largely on charges of speeding, reckless driving and similar violations increased 26 per cent.

Revocations in the eight months totaled 1,107, compared to 1,358 in the same months last year. Following were the main revocations in 1944; driving under the influence of intoxicants, 942; inebriacy, 54; repeated speed violations, 48; driving stolen car, 23; hit-run driving 22; reckless driving, 22.

Of the 2,241 suspensions, 959 were for persons under twenty, but of the 1,107 revocations, only 69 were twenty or under.

Sardine, Sponge Fishing From 'Haunted' Island

Nearly four centuries ago Lampedusa, a Mediterranean island, was deserted; two centuries later a lone islander led a Crusoe existence there. Italians thought the island was haunted. If the inhabitants are inclined toward celebration, next year they could celebrate the 100th anniversary of the establishment of a colony of several hundred Sicilians. Today the island's population is in excess of 3,500. An Italian penal colony is situated there. Off the southern shore, connected by a fordable reef, is the Isola Conigli, the Island of the Rabbits. Rabbits and rats long had the run of Lampedusa proper, and 22 species of birds have been noted nesting there. Seals frequent the many coastal grottoes. In addition to sardine and sponge-fishing, the islanders grow grain and vegetables, especially potatoes. Wild olive trees once covered the island. Figs and prickly pears now are the chief fruits cultivated.

Tipping Originates

Here's how tipping and the word "tip" originated, it is claimed. In English taverns long ago, the tavern keeper put a receptacle with the sign, "To Insure Promptness," on it where all could see. The proceeds went to the servants. Eventually the words were contracted to "T.I.P." and then "tip."

Suspend Crow Control Contest

Indiana's annual crow control contest, which has accounted for nearly 400,000 black marauders since its inception in 1934, has been suspended for 1943, the division of fish and game has announced. "While there is need for continuous control measures against the crow," the announcement states, "it was felt that no organized campaign should be sponsored this year when gasoline and tires are being rationed and when ammunition for sporting guns is increasingly difficult to obtain. This does not prohibit the individual conservationist from killing crows, nor does it prevent a club from continuing activities against crows in its community."

STORE VEGETABLE CROP NOW, ADVICE OF COUNTY AGENT

Should Store Medium-sized Specimens of Best Quality

Vegetable storage pays in money saved, in satisfaction and convenience, says County Agent Ernest Palmer. In addition, it is the only method of keeping certain vegetables not adapted to canning or freezing.

Store only the best vegetables, Mr. Palmer advises. Products to be stored should be of good quality, free from disease and from mechanical injury. Because vegetables often become woody and lose flavor with age, those selected for storage should be about medium sized. They should be cleaned, dried, and graded before storing, then placed in small bins or boxes so they can be sorted occasionally during storage.

Ideal storage conditions cannot be maintained for each vegetable when they are all stored together, since requirements for the different vegetables vary.

An ordinary basement, furnace room, attic and upstairs storage room will provide satisfactory storage for squash and pumpkins, which require a dry atmosphere and a temperature ranging from 40 to 50 degrees F.

Squash and pumpkins should be picked when fully mature and before heavy frost. The fruit is mature when the skin cannot be punctured easily with the thumbnail near the stem end. Leave three to four inches of stem attached to the fruit. After harvesting, it is best to let squash and pumpkins cure for a couple of weeks to harden the shell. If the weather is warm and dry, they can be left outdoors in piles for several days. If the weather is cool, put them in a heated room 70 to 80 degrees F. for two weeks before placing in permanent storage. They should not be stored in the root cellar or vegetable storage room.

MUNICIPALITIES LEAGUE CONVENES IN RED LAKE FALLS

Thief River Falls Officials Present at Regional Session

Officials of seven Northwestern Minnesota cities and villages met at the Community hall in Red Lake Falls Wednesday of last week for a regional session of the Minnesota League of Municipalities, says the Gazette of that city.

C. C. Ludwig, executive secretary of the league, presided. One of the principal problems discussed was that of juvenile delinquency. Mayor W. J. Dourille of Thief River Falls proposed that the league recommend legislation prohibiting the sale of food in beer parlors but after considerable discussion it was evident that the move did not meet with favor as a remedial measure, and the proposal was voted down.

R. A. Whitaker, supervisor of municipal reporting in the office of the state public examiner, spoke on the need of a better system of accounting for municipalities and for more uniform financial statements.

The need for fire departments in the smaller villages of the state was among the subjects brought for discussion. The proposed amendment to the state constitution relative to aid navigation and taxation was explained. This amendment is to come up before the voters at the coming November election and in order to carry it must have a majority of all the votes cast and counted.

The development of airports for the smaller cities of the state was considered as one of a number of proposed post-war projects which municipalities might undertake with profit. W. F. Rosenwald, safety supervisor for the state highway department, spoke on traffic safety problems.

Attorney Orville Peterson of the League and Dean Julius Nolte of the University of Minnesota were present with Secretary Ludwig for the meeting and participated in the various round table talks.

Following were those in attendance at the session: W. J. Douville and Theo. Quale, Thief River Falls; George Lefaivre, F. J. Mack and E. H. Kopp, Plummer, W. J. Kirkwood, J. J. Flynn and James Deneen, Crookston; Harry Harms, A. G. Lund, Adolph Lund and L. H. Everett, East Grand Forks; C. S. McReynolds and Albert Anderson, Clearbrook.

A. P. Thompson and John Larson, Holt; Royal M. Oistad, Al Turnwald, B. M. Folland and H. Lundberg, Karlstad; V. H. Higinbotham, M. E. Davis and Jos. Vezina, Red Lake Falls.

Lutheran Pastors Meet at Moorhead to Discuss Concordia Fund Appeal

About forty-five pastors of the immediate Northwest, who will engage as active solicitors in the Concordia Memorial Appeal, met at Concordia College Friday, September 22, to plan the ingathering.

They heard an explanation of the effort by Dr. A. J. Bergsaker of Minneapolis, Rev. R. M. Fjelstad of the Northern Minnesota district, Dr. David Stoove of the North Dakota district and listened to a short address by Dr. Carl B. Ylisaker of the college faculty. Dr. J. N. Brown, Prof. G. L. Schoberg, and Prof. Sigurd Mundhjeld were present to explain the various phases of the appeal.

The ingathering will get under way in the near future after a series of circuit rallies will have been held. The first two of these rallies were held on Sunday, September 24 with the Fargo circuit of the church meeting at Kindred and the Moorhead circuit meeting at Concordia college chapel at Concordia in Moorhead.

Pastors from Minnesota present at the meeting Friday included G. S. Thompson, Thief River Falls.

Michigan-Minnesota 'U' Football Game October 7

Dads of University of Minnesota students will be honored again this year on October 7, when the annual Dads Day festivities will be carried on in connection with the Michigan football game.

As was true in each of the past two years, the evening dinner will not be held, because of food rationing and shortage of help at Coffman Memorial Union. Coffee and doughnuts for the dads will be served, however, immediately following the football game in the ballroom of Coffman Union, during which time the yearly business meeting of the Minnesota Dads association will be conducted by its president, Edward F. Flynn of St. Paul.

Following the business meeting, President Walter C. Coffey will address the fathers, outlining to them the university's present situation, its problems, its needs and its principal current endeavors, such as its program of providing special care for veterans who enroll.

Seven Seas

The Seven Seas is a figurative term denoting all the oceans and seas of the world. Today they are listed as the Arctic, Antarctic, North Pacific, South Pacific, North Atlantic, South Atlantic and Indian oceans, but in ancient literature the terms applied to other bodies of water which constituted the seas of the world as they then were known.

FIRST TRAIN RIDE IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

Edgerton.—First train ride in twenty-five years for three local men was a high spot for them a few days ago. War has brought many changes and this was one of them. The three men in good old days of "plenty" would have gone by automobile the short distance from Edgerton to Pipestone, to pick up an automobile left their for repair.

Cook, Add Water, Eat

Pre-cooked and pre-mixed breakfast cereals are now available to United States troops overseas, the war department disclosed. A process, developed by the quartermaster corps, permits the serving of these dishes, chiefly whole wheat and oatmeal, merely by adding water. The cereals are cooked until they contain no more than 12 per cent moisture. They are then packed in containers and sent to the far flung outposts where by adding the water they are made as edible as the freshly cooked dish.

PEACH TREE WITH FRUIT

Hastings.—On the east side of Mrs. Constance Walbridge's home a few days ago stood a beautiful little peach tree with 22 big, luscious peaches and many smaller ones on its branches. In some parts of the United States such an observation wouldn't merit mention. However, in Minnesota a beautiful peach tree thus laden is something to talk about. The tree has been in the yard for at least five years and this is apparently the first time it has borne any fruit.

WPB Releases Materials for Making Oil Burners

Material has been authorized for the production of 30,000 domestic type oil burners during the fourth quarter of 1944, for replacement and hardship cases, WPB officials announced today. Production of this type of oil burner has been prohibited since 1942 but essential replacements have been made from inventories of manufacturers and dealers. Although material has been authorized for production during the three months beginning October 1, WPB officials do not expect that any appreciable quantity of these oil burners will be on sale until early in December.

In all cases, nitrogen supplied as urea was satisfactorily utilized by the animals.

Lengthens Building Life

"Paint when properly selected and applied lengthens the serviceable life of buildings as much as 40 per cent," says Circular 279, "Farm Building Repair," by J. C. Wooley, published by the University of Missouri agricultural experiment station in furtherance of the war effort on the farm front. It is further stated that "an investment in paint brings an annual return of about 2½ per cent through saving in buildings alone."

Cassowaries Largest of Borneo's Odd Birds

Largest of the many strange birds of Borneo are the cassowaries, relatives of the ostrich and emu. Characteristic features are possession of horny casques and neck wattles. Some six species of these flightless birds of the genus Casuarius occur in Australia, Borneo and neighboring islands. They inhabit the forests and, while preferring a fruit, vegetable and rodent diet, have strong digestions, for, in common with the ostrich, they will eat almost anything.

All are about five feet high, with a black, horny-plated casque on the head, writes Edith M. Laing in Nature Magazine. Stout gray legs, capable of high speed, can deliver a bone-breaking kick and the long, horny, spiked claw of the inner toe can mortally lacerate an enemy. Would-be molesters had better beware, too, of the spine-like quills with which the rudimentary wings are equipped. These black spines are used by the natives to make bracelets.

French 'Reunion' Isle Has Interesting History

Reunion's history is as varied as its topography. Discovered in 1545 by a Portuguese, Mascarenhas, the island bore his name until 1643 when it was claimed for France and renamed Bourbon Island. Colonization began in 1664 at St. Paul bay under the direction of the French East India company. In 1764 the island reverted to the French government. When the Revolutionists came to power in France they called the island "Reunion," an idea that endured only to the rise of Napoleon.

"Ile Bonaparte" then became the fashion. The English seized the island in 1810, and gave it back five years later. "Reunion" again emerged as the island's official name.

Reunion has been administered as a department of France through a resident governor and consul general. Three delegates, one to the French senate, two to the house of deputies, traveled the 7,500 miles to Paris to represent the island's interests in the French parliament. Their constituents are, for the most part, Frenchmen, British, Indians, Chinese, Africans, and natives of Madagascar. To Reunion, France has sometimes sent political exiles, notably Abd el Krim, famed Riff leader, in 1926.

'Deferred Pay' Plan

City employees of Dearborn, Mich., can take out "insurance" on their 1943 income tax payments through a deferred compensation plan set up by the city. Under the plan any employee can ask the controller to withhold a portion of his pay and retain it until the federal tax payments are due. All money for this purpose is held in trust and is not assignable or subject to garnishment. When an employee leaves his job with the city, he is entitled to full payment of any money withheld, without interest, and an employee may at any time discontinue participation in the plan, though once having done this, he cannot re-enter it for a year. This pay-as-you-go plan is separate from the Victory tax withholdings.

CORN SHOW

We are planning on our annual corn show and program again this fall and we hope all who took part last year will come again and many others.

There is a lot of very fine corn in our territory this year and if all who have corn will help by starting now to pick out your samples and bring in for the show, we should have a very fine display.

Last year it was a corn growers party and we believe all who attended felt it was all very much worth the time and effort spent, so lets start planning now and make it a big success. We shall try to do our part and will arrange for a program of special interest to corn growers.

We shall again plan for this gathering for some time in the first part of November, but start picking out the ten samples of good ears of corn now. We will announce later the exact date with further details.

Oars and Sails

The corvette name belonged to peaceable craft until it was appropriated by the French navy for a type of war sloop in the 18th century. Some authorities aver that the name descends from the corbita, a slow, cumbersome cargo ship of ancient Rome named for the basket (Latin: corbis) carried atop its single mast to indicate cargo duty. Others contend the name goes no further back than a 15th century fishing boat of Flanders known as a corve. Corvettes of about 1700 are described as powered by long oars in addition to sails on the bowsprit and one or two masts.

It is estimated that from 6,000,000 to 9,000,000 Americans suffer from hay fever.

About 30,000,000 [illegible] are marked annually in the United States.

WHOOPING IT UP

A man recently married had in his bachelor days a reputation for drinking too much. One day he said that he had to be at a meeting to elect a new director.

His young wife was distressed, and made him promise he would not touch a drop of anything all the evening.

The voting at the meeting resulted in the election of a man named Hoops. All the evening the young husband had determinedly steered clear of proffered drinks and at 11 o'clock—completely sober and filled with righteous pride—it occurred to him to phone his wife.

"Hullo, dear," he said. "It's Jim."

"Oh," replied his wife. "How did everything go? Whom did you elect?"

"Hoops, my dear," responded the husband.

"Oh, Jim," said the wife, her voice breaking, "how could you? After all you promised!"

Plan Calving Program For Best Dairy Results

No matter how fine your dairy stock may be, it can't produce at its best for you unless each cow calves every 12 or 13 months. The best way to see that they do this, according to E. J. Perry, Rutgers university extension dairyman, is to tack up a breeding record sheet in some prominent spot in the barn, jot down dates of calving and other necessary data and let the sheet dictate your breeding program.

"Breeding record sheets, available free from county agents' offices, provide an easy way to keep track of the date each cow is bred, the bull to which she is bred, the approximate date calving will take place and dates of heat periods," Perry said.

Then, assuming the cows are healthy, they should be bred 60 to 90 days after calving and turned dry six to eight weeks beforehand so they can build up reserves of energy for the next lactation, Perry advises.

He says a cow calving normally will generally show up in heat in two to six weeks. Although this is too soon to breed her again, the first heat date should be marked down to determine regularity. Animals which fail to show heat within eight weeks after calving should be examined.

U. S. Counties Improve Conduct of Operations

Improvements in financial administration, health and welfare facilities and various other services of county governments during the last year or so were noted by the International City Managers association. Scores of counties, for example, are building up postwar reserve funds, particularly in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Maine, New Hampshire and a few other states.

North Dakota counties, as a result of legislative action last year which eliminated many obsolete practices, are improving accounting, auditing and budgeting procedures. Rutherford county, Tenn., now must have an annual audit of all county offices by an independent agency, has adopted centralized purchasing, and adheres strictly to its budget.

All of Michigan's counties, with the exception of Wayne (Detroit), now use the calendar year as the fiscal year, while Wisconsin county highway departments with state financial assistance are devising a uniform accounting system. In Kentucky the state court of appeals held constitutional a recently enacted state law authorizing the state department of revenue to give examinations for county assessors seeking office.

Cadmium Coatings

Cadmium is now being electroplated in coats over 50 times thicker than those normally deposited to protect from corrosion iron and steel sheets used in certain war equipment. It greatly extends the scope of cadmium plating which was formerly applied chiefly to small metal radio parts and other plane equipment.

KILO, GRAND FORKS OPENS BIG WINTER PROGRAM ON RADIO

Lists Many Attractive Features for the Coming Season

A vast abundance of entertainment, embracing every form of drama, comedy and variety, along with all the developing news of the global war fronts, the presidential election campaign and other major events as reported by crack network correspondents, is contained in the new CBS fall schedule for KILO Grand Forks.

In the drama category, Cecil B. DeMille's "Lux Radio Theater" celebrates its tenth anniversary October 16, six weeks after its 1944-45 debut September 4. (Mondays, 8:00 to 9:00 P. M.)

First of the CBS "regulars" to return to the air after its summer hiatus was "The George Burns and Gracie Allen Show." This season the two comics continue to play hosts to famous Hollywood stars in their weekly half-hour fun festival, (Tuesdays, 8:00 to 8:30 P. M.).

The "Jack Carson Show," which took over the "Frank Sinatra Show" time during the latter program's hot-weather vacation, returned to its own Wednesday period, 8:30 to 9:00 P. M. CWT, August 16. "The Voice," of course, is back in his Wednesday 9:00 P. M. slot.

Kate Smith, America's singing sweetheart, is now a diadem in Columbia's crown of Sunday entertainment. Opening date for Kate's hour show was September 17. (6:00 to 7:00 P. M.).

Fanny Brice's characterization of Baby Snooks, bane of Daddy's existence, is a newcomer to the CBS program lists. It bowed in Sunday, September 17, and precedes the "Kate Smith Hour." (5:30 to 6:00 P. M.)

"Adventures of the Thin Man," weekly stories of the romances and sleuthing experiences of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Charles, returned to the CBS ranks September 16. (7:30 to 7:55 P. M.).

"The Aldrich Family," starring the lovable, laughable Henry Aldrich, returned home, when it entered the Friday night 7:00 to 7:30 P. M. period on CBS, September 1.

Lionel Barrymore's "Mayor of the Town" returned to its regular Saturday location, 6:00 to 6:30 P. M., CWT, effective September 2.

Nelson Eddy, movie star and concert baritone, launched his new weekly half-hour musical show on CBS, September 20, 9:30 to 10 P. M.

Flavor Sauces

If you want to make your Spanish sauces have a rich cast, be sure to include ripe olives. Whole, chopped or pitted ripe olives, because they are rich in fruit oil, give a delectable flavor.

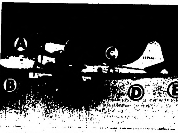
B-29 Secret Armament Revealed



The armament of the B-29 super-fortress has been revealed to the public. All turrets and guns are remotely controlled electrically. Gunners in the different parts of the ship can operate all the guns and the fire-power can be instantaneously concentrated on any approaching enemy. They were first used against Japs.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare,
University of Minnesota

Think Before you Punish

Punishment is a part of child training that most parents wish was not necessary. They sigh, "If Mary would only do the things she is permitted to do," and "If Johnny would only use better judgment when little sister is around," it would be entirely unnecessary.

But more regrettable still is the fact that many parents are sighing after the punishment has been administered. They have failed in their directed efforts to change or check the misbehavior. When this is the case, it is more likely that they have neglected some important phase of the punishment process suggested by the following questions.

Does the child actually deserve the punishment? Has he deliberately done, or failed to do, something for which a child of his age can be held responsible? Many a young child is punished for toilet habits or accidents that arise from a physical condition or a situation in which only an older child could have exercised the necessary control. Often a child is punished for an act that was not known to be wrong. In many areas the child must gain experience and understanding before his acts should be considered wrong-doings. First offenses should serve as opportunities to inform rather than to reform.

Does the punishment fit the "crime?" Far too often it fits only the mood of the parent. Instead of a slap or scolding, the punishment should be a natural outcome of the misdeed. Sending children to bed or giving them extra work are not natural punishments and usually result only in dislike of work or of going to bed. The child should face the consequences of his own act. when he takes another's playthings, he should replace them and apologize, and when he fails to perform duties, privileges should be withheld.

Does the child see the connection between the punishment and his misbehavior? Very often he sees and fears only the angry parent. Unless he sees clearly the relation between the deed and the consequence, he cannot be expectd to change behavior which calls for punishment.

Is the correct behavior made so clear at the time of punishment that he will know what is expected of him in the future? In pouring from bottles or in letting water run in the washbowl, the child may fail to realize that tipping back the bottle or turning off the faucet will avoid an overflow.

Is the same punishment administered for the same misdeed? If a parent is convinced that the punishment fits the act, he should carry through the same action each time. This will help the child to associate the punishment with the act; it will reduce emotional tension in the parent, and make for a more stable child.

Next time you find it necessary to punish your child, ask yourself the above questions. If you can answer "Yes" to each, the management of your child in difficult situations will be much more effective.

Hand Pollination

A successful method of seed production for one of the more popular species of Chinese primroses has been developed by Dr. Gustav Mehlquist, assistant professor of floriculture on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California. Before the war, varieties of primula obconica were grown in large quantities as pot plants from seed obtained principally from Germany and Switzerland. When this supply was cut off, American growers found difficulty in producing seeds, as many plants failed to produce seed or were untrue to type.

The primrose normally produces two different types of plants whose flowers differ in structure. Following extensive experimentation, Dr. Mehlquist discovered that good results could be obtained by hand cross-pollination of the two types. A camel's hair brush was used to distribute pollen from the flowers of one type to another. With this method one well grown plant will produce 10,000 or more seeds.

Alfalfa Butterfly

The alfalfa butterfly has two principal enemies which generally hold it in check. An insect parasite generally known as apanteles, and the wilt disease, are the two main factors in controlling the depredations of the butterfly in alfalfa fields.

The parasite apanteles has a shorter life cycle than that of the butterfly, and usually attacks the butterfly larvae in their first two stages, sometimes in the third, and often proves an entirely effective control itself. The wilt disease, with a large host population and high humidity, may appear and save a crop from destruction. At times it does not spread fast enough to destroy the larvae before they have done serious damage to the crop, but it may prevent destruction of a crop when the parasite fails.

Spread Diseases

Club root, a disease that costs growers of cauliflower and cabbage thousands of dollars a year, may be spread by wild mustard, shepherd's purse and other weeds of the cabbage family.

Common nightshade and black henbane spread early blight of tomatoes and potatoes, horse-nettle and jimson weed carry the late blight of tomatoes. Persons who lose their hollyhocks from rust disease may look to ground mallow and other weeds for the source of infection.

Yellow dwarf of potatoes is carried by daisies, leafroll of potatoes, cucumber and tomato mosaic, lettuce yellows, raspberry mosaic and other destructive diseases of important crops are carried by the wild plants around them.

Pacific Atoll

A typical Pacific atoll stands only a few feet above sea level, encloses an oval lagoon up to 90 miles long. It has a rim from a few yards wide to several hundred yards wide, is broken in places with passes from the sea to the lagoon, haven for big or little ships. At high tide the sea may pound over the rim of the saucer, and wash into the calm lagoon. Sea wall of the atoll is rough, is strewn with chunks of dead coral dislodged by the constant battering of the sea.

California's Ordinance Preventing 'Shacktowns'

California cities and counties are using two types of ordinances to prevent trailer camps and auto courts from degenerating into "shacktowns."

The homes-on-wheels, which shelter many war workers and migrant crop pickers, must come up to certain standards in at least 23 cities and eight counties of the state which have adopted the "model" ordinances, prepared by the state division of immigration and housing. Other municipalities have adopted variations of the models.

The model ordinance, controlling trailer camps and tent spaces in incorporated cities was first adopted by Banning in 1936 and now is in force in 25 cities including Santa Ana, Marysville and Vallejo. To control unincorporated areas, an ordinance regulating auto and house courts and camp spaces and prohibiting squatter camps has been adopted by eight counties, including Ventura, Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo, just north of Los Angeles.

Features of the city trailer camp ordinance are as follows: The city planning commission—or if there is none, the building or health department—must approve the location of a trailer camp site after public hearings, and the city council grants the application for permit. House trailers must be eight feet apart, and eight feet from any lot line, the grounds kept drained, sanitary and lighted, and water supply from faucets provided. Trailers must not be fixed permanently to the ground. Separate toilet facilities for men and women are specified, one to every ten tents, camp cars or trailers, along with bathing facilities and hot and cold water. Refuse and sewage disposal facilities must be provided.

Precautions Can Check Damage to Raw Mohair

Many of the checks upon good quality mohair may be avoided by taking precautions ahead of shearing. Among those suggested are keeping goats out of fields and lots not regularly used or grazed and where bur-producing plants have grown up. This would reduce the volume of mohair contaminated by burs just prior to shearing. Another good practice is to dispose of goats with kempy and gray fleeces ahead of shearing.

Muddy lots, and shearing floors and pens which readily become wet and slick should not be used. Fleeces shorn in such surroundings become stained excessively, and animal moisture stain will not scour out. Specialists admonish further against shearing on the ground because the mohair accumulates straw and other refuse.

The specialist says that the practice of sacking mohair in two lots—kid and grown—is desirable, especially in the fall, even though it is to be graded. It is suggested, however, that it would be wise to make a separate lot of defective hair. Producers should continue their interest in the mohair until it is properly graded and offered to dealers and manufacturers on that basis. Every sale should give producers some information as to what manufacturers want.

Mend Gloves Promptly To Assure Long Wear

To give the gloves now on hand the best care possible, mend them promptly and carefully, and whenever possible, prevent them from becoming wet. However, when they are wet, stuff them with crushed paper and dry them slowly and away from the heat.

Usually the glove fingers call for attention first. One very satisfactory method to use in mending either leather or fabric that is worn—not just ripped—is to blanket stitch around the worn edge. Then remake the seam by lacing the edges together through the purl of the blanket stitch. If the fabric is not worn, remake the ripped seam just as you would mend such a seam in any garment. Gloves with inseams—seams made to the inside—should be mended with seams to the inside. Those with outseams should be mended with the seams to the outside.

Use a hard twisted thread, about the weight of buttonhole twist, and a fine and fairly long needle for mending. A long-eyed needle is not suitable because the thickness of the eye makes the needle holes too large.

Diseased Seeds

Untreated seeds generally carry on their exterior, spores of harmful disease organisms which not only infect the mature plants, but slow up germination. These spores cause seed rotting and seedling damping-off, which result in poor stands and weakened plants that fail to yield paying crops of best quality. Then too, many dangerous diseases are introduced into the soil by diseased seed, and, once established, these diseases often cause heavy losses year after year.

Stars Cluster

Here and there among the stars we find evidences of a tendency for them to congregate into clumps and clusters; a few of them are visible to the unaided eye (the Pleiades, for example) but the most magnificent of them—the globular clusters containing thousands of stars—can be discerned in their full glory only by means of photographs made through great modern telescopes.

Grand Portage State Forest is a 100,000 acre segment at the tip of Minnesota's Arrowhead country.

Fire Hazards

The agronomists also say that ammonium nitrate, like nitrate of soda, involves a fire hazard. It is well to burn the empty paper bags rather than to allow them to accumulate around the barn. Burlap or cotton bags that have contained ammonium nitrate should be washed or spread out in the open until the rains have thoroughly washed the material from the fabric.

Minnesota has over seven million acres of peat, an almost wholly unexploited resource.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS IT NOW...
YOU'LL NEED IT LATER

TO PUSH THE ATTACK — to drive Hitler and Tojo off the deep end, Uncle Sam needs more money than ever before. To raise this money we have all got to do the biggest job of its kind in all history.

None of us can lag. We must keep backing the attack. War costs going higher and higher mean just one thing — we, the people, must buy more War Bonds than ever before.

We must invest all we possibly can afford.

So, when you are asked to buy, don't put it off. Don't, of all things, say you can't afford more bonds. Make up your mind that you will buy more than you ever did before. It will mean more money for Uncle Sam driving for victory—and security for you to the extent you buy and keep bonds.

If you ask for Hamm's Preferred Stock Beer and your dealer has none, it probably is because Uncle Sam has first call, but ask, nevertheless.

SUMMONING OF DISTRICT COURT JURY CANCELED

Calendar Held Too Short to Justify Expense of Calling Jury

JUDGE MONTAGUE PRESIDES MONDAY

Some Actions Continued over Term; Two Cases Were Dismissed

At the opening of the fall term of Pennington county district court Monday morning, Judge James E. Montague of Crookston, presiding, after conferring with interested attorneys, reached a decision to cancel the call for a petit jury, the panel originally having been notified to report for duty next Monday.

The decision was reached when a survey of the calendar revealed that, with only a few cases listed, there would be little for the jury to do, hence summoning it at this time would be a needless expense. All pending actions were either continued, set for trial without jury or stricken from the calendar.

Continued were the cases of Hilma Williams vs. Arthur Williams et al., Beatrice Bothun et al. vs. L. Wayne Anderson et al., Gladys and Arthur Bixby vs. Ray Nelson of Nelson Bros., State vs. Bernard Gunderjohn and State vs. Ole Nesland.

Designated as court cases to be heard by the judge were those of Dorothy V. Arends vs. Willie Arends, Alma R. Prestby vs. Theodore E. Prestby, and Paul A. Lundgren, admr., vs. O. C. Paulson and St. Paul Mercury Indemnity company.

The case of Stephen Singer, trustee, vs. Benson-Quinn company et al., was stricken from the calendar by consent, while the criminal action of the State vs. Tom Christo was dismissed.

PENNINGTON 4-H MEMBERS WILL BE HONORED AT PARTY

To be the Guests of Civic and Commerce at Roller Skating Party

Preliminary arrangements were made at a luncheon meeting of the Civic and Commerce association last Thursday noon in the Palm Garden Cafe for the annual party honoring Pennington 4-H club members who have completed their 1944 projects.

Plans for the affair, which will take the form of a roller skating party in the arena, with lunch served in the Civic and Commerce rooms, will be worked out by the agricultural committee, of which Stuart McLeod is chairman, and the date has tentatively been set for early in November. A similar party last year was attended by approximately 400 club members, and was highly successful.

Harry Kinghorn, chairman of the Pennington county War Service Fund campaign, appealed for support of the drive, and the matter was referred to the board of directors with the recommendation that a contribution be made.

Plans to Save Big Interest Outlay by Refunding $202,000.

The Pennington County board, before concluding its October session Wednesday morning, voted to authorize County Auditor A. M. Senstad to call for bids on refunding a total of $202,000 in outstanding bonds now held by the state of Minnesota and drawing interest at the rate of three to 4½ per cent, maturing from 1945 to 1949 inclusive.

Bids will be opened at the court house Tuesday, October 24, at 10 a. m., and the board reserves the right to reject all bids if they are found unsatisfactory.

It was indicated that if the bonds are refunded on the basis anticipated, the saving in interest charges up to maturity will aggregate $17,000 or slightly more.

RAM TRADING DAY FRIDAY ATTRACTS LOCAL BREEDERS

Annual Event Will be Held at Fair Grounds Starting at 10 A. M.

A good deal of interest is being shown in the ram exchange Day to be held at the fair grounds in Thief River Falls on Friday, October 6, starting at 10 A. M., according to County Agent Ernest A. Palmer.

In addition to purebred sheep from Pennington county to be on display; six outside breeders from neighboring counties have notified Mr. Palmer that they plan on attending. This will insure local farmers of getting unrelated rams of good quality.

The Pennington county ram exchange day has been one of the largest in the northwest during past years with as many as 100 rams changing hands during a single day. With more farmers interested in seeking good sires this year all indications are that this will be a record day.

An appropriate song will be sung, after which candles representing each son and daughter in service will be brought forward by a Boy Scout and placed upon a V-shaped symbol of victory. The outer ends of the V will rest upon the altar.

The service is sponsored by the Fireside Hour (Luther League). It will take the place of the regular "Fireside" which normally meets at 5 P. M. Darkness is necessary for the candle lighted service and that accounts for the change in time to 7:45 P. M., said Rev. Walter M. Pedersen, pastor.

Increases Tool Life

Colloidal graphite, with the tiny particles suspended in oil instead of water, gives long-lasting qualities of self-lubrication to bearing metals. It can be bonded into porous-finished bearing surfaces, greatly increasing their wear. Used as a dip, it increases the life of tools used in handling hot steel forgings. It stands heat that oil cannot endure. In making high-quality steel from the national scrap collections, graphite is used to insure the proper carbon content.

SUSPENSE

Harry—Did you hear about the man who fell out of an airplane?

Jerry—How unfortunate!

Harry—Yes, but there was a haystack directly beneath him.

Harry—But he didn't hit the pitchfork.

Jerry—How fortunate!

Harry—But he didn't hit the haystack, either!

University Trains Women In Military Map Making

To aid in meeting the need of the armed forces for hundreds of thousands of maps, vital to victory, the engineering school of Columbia university is training women in military map making, a field hitherto confined exclusively to men, it is announced by A. Dexter Hinckley, assistant to the dean of the faculty of engineering. Prof. Henry S. Sharp, head of the department of geology in Barnard college, will direct the studies which will begin on February 2.

"Since many men of the federal map making agencies have been lost or soon will be lost to selective service, hundreds of women replacements are needed," Professor Sharp explains.

"Modern global warfare is impossible without maps. Nothing in warfare can be planned until the general staff has a graphic representation of the terrain before it. Planes, bombs and men may be in readiness for action, but without special types of maps to guide pilots on their way bombing missions cannot be effectively planned or executed.

"Special maps are needed for bombing missions. On the first part of a long flight, navigation charts which cover large areas and show only major features best suit the need of the airmen. As the pilot draws near his objective, he needs approach charts instead which show the critical area on a larger scale. Finally, he needs detailed target charts of the immediate area in which his specific objective is located.

Wintertime Finds Forest Inhabitants Hibernating

Perhaps we have wondered, as we sat by the warm fire on a blustery midwinter night, how the little folk of the fields were faring. Little sign of life was evident as we tramped through the snow-covered woods earlier in the day or watched the black, tinkling brook tumbling around the white-mantled boulders. A few months ago this very place swarmed with life, the countless water creatures crawling over the bottom of the pools, while bright-eyed chipmunks, their cheek pouches crammed with food, scurried in the underbrush. The meadows were lush and green, and every field had its plump woodchuck. Now a white robe mantles the northern world, and only the tracks of rabbits, white-footed mice and red squirrels, or the little flocks of nut-hatches, chickadees and downy woodpeckers, tell us that all life has not fled this hostile world.

Consider for a moment the abundance of wild creatures in the summer, how of an evening we watched the scores of bats flying low over the pond or about the city lights of even the large metropolis; the long-tailed jumping mice which were startled from the grass as the mower clattered through the still June meadow, writes William J. Hamilton Jr. in New England Naturalist. They are gone from the woods and fields, but where? Safe into the earth, ensconced in some snug ball of grass and leaves well below the level of frost.

This Is Somewhat Mixed, But You'll Understand It

Stuttering has been described as a device to prevent stuttering, Gertrude E. Chittenden, Iowa City points out in Hygeia, the Health Magazine for January. "This definition may seem paradoxical at first," she says. "The stutterer does not really stutter on a word; he stutters before he comes to it. That is, his stuttering is an attempt to keep from having to say a word that he is afraid to start. He is stalling. He fills in this period of stalling with repeated syllables, much as you and I use the prolonged 'a-a-and-uh' device when we are groping for the next word. The straining and the repetitions are reactions by means of which the stutterer tries to avoid saying the next word.

"You probably would have a hard time getting a stutterer to admit this. He would insist that he is trying his best to say a word, not to avoid saying it. However, objective evidence points in the other direction. . . ."

Miss Chittenden explains that a fear of words can be built up if the speaker has at some time or other noticed a reaction of listeners to his speech that has made him self conscious about talking.

"Often the parents who are concerned about their children's speech are parents who set up high standards in general for their children," she observes. "Perhaps lowering some of these standards would relieve the child of much emotional strain. Of course the general physical well-being of the stutterer should be checked, and any physical defects should be remedied if possible . . ."

Duluth Train Schedule to be Changed Sunday

Announcement was made today that, effective next Sunday, October 8, the Duluth passenger train on the Soo Line will arrive here at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, instead of 4 o'clock as at present. The train will continue to leave Thief River Falls at 7:55 in the morning.

The Sikhs Had Word for It

Khaki comes into its own as hundreds of thousands of soldiers fight in the deserts and on the dry plateaus of north Africa. What is khaki? It's a color, says a National Geographic society bulletin. The name comes from the Hindustani and Persian word "khak," meaning earth, or dust. British soldiers in India during the wars with the Sikhs, 1845-49, felt too conspicuous for comfort in their campaign whites. They needed camouflage. By dipping their uniforms in muddy water they changed them from white to—the Sikhs had a word for it—khaki. Thereafter khaki promptly became standard for East Indian campaigning. The name attached itself to the closely twilled cotton cloth of the uniforms and stuck without regard for the shade. Since 1900, however, it has gradually regained its correct meaning and has been applied to drab shades of gray, brown and green, regardless of the material.

Wanted Spices

The younger generation 500 years ago never asked for furs or automobiles or airplanes. Instead, they wished for precious spices, but the merchants who brought these seasonings to Venice, the trading center of the world, kept the origin of the spices secret—and the price high.

Starvation on Three Meals a Day

"Hidden hunger" for vitamins and minerals is no respecter of persons or class. Millions in all income groups, say nutrition experts, are starving on three meals a day. They are victims of vitamin starvation because they don't know enough or don't care enough to choose the right foods. Then, too, long distance shipping and careless cooking rob foods of many of the vitamins and minerals they should supply. Considering the abundance of nutritious foods and the ease of obtaining vitamin-mineral supplements, this is truly starving in the midst of plenty.

Four from Pennington County to be Present at South St. Paul Event

Four 4-H club members from Pennington county will attend the twenty-seventh annual Junior Livestock Show at South St. Paul on October 9, 10, 11, and 12, County Agent Ernest Palmer announced today. Members winning trips this year are: Eugene Prestegard, Star, exhibiting a pig; Darlene Evenson, Northfield and James Erickson, Black River, exhibiting lambs.

The number of entries in this year's show will equal that of last year, according to information from J. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the show. To be shown this year will be 290 baby beeves, 153 barrows, 240 single lambs and 30 pens of three lambs.

Because of wartime restrictions, no poultry will be shown this year, although one poultry winner from each county will be given a trip to the show. The poultry trip winner from Pennington county is Doris Williams of Steiner.

Approximately 800 boys and girls will attend the show this year, says A. J. Kittleson, state 4-H club leader.

Of primary interest to livestock exhibitors will be the sales of the livestock on October 12. Individual auctioning of 75 baby beeves, 20 barrows, 45 single lambs, and 2 pens of lambs will take place at 1:00 p. m. with the remaining animals scheduled for sale thru the regular market channels on Thursday forenoon. A record sales is expected to compare favorably with last year's 72,000 figure.

Capt. George E. Tormoen, Bombing Mission Leader, Wins Citation for Work

An Eighth Air Force Liberator Station, England—Capt. George E. Tormoen of Thief River Falls, has been cited by Col. Albert J. Shower, commanding officer of this Liberator group for "outstanding performance of duty while leading a bombing mission to Belgium on August 7, 1944."

The citation reads: "When middle clouds forced the formation down to 12,000 feet, this lead crew displayed exceptional skill and teamwork to achieve the successful completion of the mission on a day when other formations were unable to bomb their assigned targets because of restricted visibility. This squadron lead crew, leading other B-24 aircraft, was the only formation in the group to bomb and the result of 'Very Good' was the highest score of the division for the day."

Capt. Tormoen was flying as lead pilot of the Liberator formation on the mission. He has flown 24 combat missions over Germany and the occupied countries, and wears the air medal with three oak leaf clusters.

Capt. Tormoen was commissioned as a second lieutenant Apr. 12, 1943. He was promoted to first lieutenant in Apr. 1944 and to his present rank of captain in July. His mother, Mrs. Stella S. Tormoen, lives in Thief River Falls.

"Going My Way," Screen Hit of Year, at Avalon Tonight thru Oct. 11th

"Going My Way," the year's outstanding screen hit starring Bing Crosby, will be shown at the Avalon theatre for a solid week, starting this evening and continuing thru next Wednesday night, Wally Anderson, manager, announced today. The story is the simple saga of a young priest dispatched to a small parish to take charge of activities and establish it on a sound financial basis. Bing, as Father "Chuck" O'Malley, finds it difficult at first to put any of his measures into practice. Rather, he poses as assistant to Barry Fitzgerald and unobtrusively injects his methods without drawing the suspicion of the lovable Father. Self-effacing, Bing takes orders, cajoles Fitzgerald, bows to the older man's whims but still manages to organize such an unheard-of thing as a boys' choir, settle a lover's quarrel, placate the bank president who holds the parish mortgage and sell a song to raise money for a new building.

Shortland Islands Speck On Large Scale World Map

The Shortland islands, scene of the sinking of Japanese craft cluster like a mother and her five infants ten miles south of Buin, Bougainville island, the Solomons. The mother island, which gives its name to the group, itself is a mere speck on even a large-scale map. An American marine could span it afoot in about two hours. In its small area, however, hills, densely wooded, rise to 700 feet above the sea. The smaller islands are relatively low.

The islands cluster so closely that channels between them are narrow. To add to the hazards of navigation there are many reefs. Nature, however, balanced these hazards with the good shelter and holding ground in Shortland harbor. Within the harbor is the Island of Faisi, from which public affairs were administered under the British protectorate. Faisi was one of the leading ports of the Solomons. It had a 150-foot wharf, with water 18 feet deep alongside. Settlements on Shortland are small and scattered. Coconut plantations were well developed on some of the islands and production of copra was the chief source of employment. A British steamship company maintained a branch office and storage facilities on Faisi.

France's Camel Corps

Not far from the fields where heavy, clanging steel tanks from Detroit, Sheffield and Essen are fighting, France's "light tanks" of the desert—the Camel Corps—have operated for years. Recently the Camel Corps was reported operating near Djanet in southern Algeria. Low "fuel" consumption, a water supply that lasts for days, and non-slip traction contributed by wide-spreading, padded feet fit the swift-moving desert "tanks" for their jobs in rocky and sandy wastes.

Members of the Camel Corps have gone in for color rather than for camouflage. Both men and mounts are decked with gay trappings. An efficient "accelerator" is the camel stick grasped in the toes of some barefoot native troopers. A short rod of wood, curved at one end, the camel stick is applied like a drumstick to the side of the camel's head.

SERVICE FUND DRIVE GOES INTO HIGH GEAR NEXT MONDAY, OCT. 9

In every county in Minnesota there will get under way Monday the campaign to raise $2,425,000 for the Minnesota War Service Fund, this state's participation in the nationwide campaign for $115,000,000 to finance 22 war-related agencies. Combined with that campaign in many counties and towns will be appeals for funds totalling an additional $3,231,842 to finance community chest agencies serving local needs.

More than 37,000 men and women will serve as volunteers in the campaigns in 85 out-state counties and the three metropolitan areas. Under the direction of J. Cameron Thomson, state chairman of the fund and Byron W. Shimp, director, nearly 3,000 chairmen have been enlisted in counties, cities, villages and townships to lead the campaign.

Volunteer workers will seek to raise their own quotas tailored to fit local needs as well as each county's share of the state quota for national agencies such as USO, War Prisoners Aid, United Seamen's Service and allied relief funds. Out-state counties are raising $1,078,000 of the state goal and the three metropolitan areas the remainder. Last year more than 700,000 different individuals in the state contributed to the war fund campaigns and it is expected that an even larger number will give this year with the increased need for services to our armed forces and our allies.

Agencies that will be financed through the united campaign are USO, War Prisoners' Aid, United Seamen's Service, American Field Service, Belgian War Relief Society, British War Relief Society, French Relief Fund, Greek War Relief, American Relief for Norway, Polish War Relief, Queen Wilhemina (Netherlands) Fund, Russian War Relief, United China Relief, American Relief for Czechoslovakia, United Yugoslav Relief Fund, Refugee Relief Trustees, U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children, Friends of Luxembourg, American Denmark Relief, American Relief for Italy, Philippine War Relief and United Lithuanian Relief Fund of America.

Punctured Tire

It is a surprising fact, unknown to most people—even those in tire and automotive industries—that a punctured tire seldom will go flat immediately. When a nail penetrates the casing and tube, the combination of air pressure and resiliency of the rubber result in the tube's clinging to the nail causing the puncture. In so many cases, noticeable loss of air does not result until a considerable amount of time has passed—sometimes it is a matter of months.

Watch Health of Family

There will be a shortage of doctors, dentists and nurses as a result of demands for medical units to care for our armed forces here and abroad. This means we must do everything we can to insure our families with good health. Rest, sunshine, fresh air exercise, and good food will help to keep the family well. All-out victory cannot be won by people who are all-in. Long or serious illnesses may wreck a family spending plan.

These suggestions might help avoid such a calamity: Set aside a certain amount each week or month for an emergency fund. Consider possibility of joining a hospitalization plan. Enroll in Red Cross Home Nursing and First Aid groups. Enroll in a nutrition group.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Minnesota

To be submitted at 1944 General Election

STATE OF MINNESOTA
Legal Department
J. A. A. BURNQUIST
Attorney General

Saint Paul, Minnesota
February 28, 1944

Honorable Mike Holm
Secretary of State
State Capitol
Saint Paul, Minnesota

Dear Sir:

In compliance with the provisions of Mason's Minnesota Statutes of 1927, Section 44, as amended by Laws of 1941, Chapter 186, I make this statement of the purpose and effect of the amendment proposed to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota to be voted on at the November 7, 1944, General Election, in accordance with Laws 1943, Chapter 446.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

By the enactment of Laws 1943, Chapter 446, the legislature has proposed an amendment of the Constitution by adding thereto a new article, to be known as Article 19. The proposed amendment, if adopted, will not alter the form of any existing section of the Constitution. The proposed amendment reads as follows:

"ARTICLE 19.

"Section 1. The state may construct, improve, maintain, and operate and may assist counties, cities, towns, villages, boroughs, and public corporations in constructing, improving, maintaining, and operating airports and other air navigation facilities.

"Sec. 2. For the purpose of carrying on or assisting in carrying on such work it may expend monies, including such monies as the legislature may see fit to appropriate, may incur debts, and may issue and negotiate bonds to provide money therefor. The provisions of Section 5 of Article 9 of the Constitution shall not apply to the provisions of this section, and the purposes for which the credit of the state may be given or loaned as herein provided are declared to be public purposes.

"Sec. 3. The state may levy a state excise tax upon any fuel or other means of instrumentalities, or the business of dealing in, selling, or producing any or all thereof, used in producing or generating power for propelling aircraft of any kind now known or hereafter invented, or for propelling or operating motor or other vehicles, or other equipment used for airport purposes and not used on the public highways of this state.

"Sec. 4. The legislature is hereby authorized to provide, by law, for the taxation of aircraft using the air space overlying the State of Minnesota, and the airports thereof, including any contrivance, now known or hereafter invented, used or designed for navigation of or flight in the air, on a more onerous basis than other personal property; provided, however, that any such tax on aircraft shall be in lieu of all other taxation thereon, and except that the legislature may impose such tax upon aircraft of companies paying taxes under any gross earnings system of taxation, and upon the right to use such aircraft in the air space overlying the State of Minnesota and upon the airports thereof, notwithstanding the fact that earnings from such aircraft may be included in the earnings of such companies upon which such gross earnings taxes are computed. Any such law may, in the discretion of the legislature, provide for the exemption from taxation of any aircraft owned by a nonresident of the state and transiently or temporarily using the air space overlying the State of Minnesota or the airports thereof."

PURPOSE AND EFFECT

The purpose and effect of the proposed amendment is as follows:

1. To permit the state to construct, improve, maintain, and operate, and to assist counties, cities, towns, villages, boroughs, and public corporations in constructing, improving, maintaining, and operating, airports and other air navigation facilities and, for the purpose of carrying on, or assisting in carrying on, such work, to expend money, including such money as the legislature may see fit to appropriate, to incur debts, and to issue and negotiate bonds to provide money therefor and exempting such expenditure of moneys, incurring of debts, and the issuance and negotiation of bonds from the provisions of Section 5 of Article 9 of the Constitution. Because of the provisions of Section 5 of Article 9, there is now a question as to the right of the State to expenditures and incur debts for the purpose of airport construction, improvement, maintenance, and operation or for the purpose of assisting municipalities in such work. The proposed amendment specifically grants such power.

2. To permit the state to levy an excise tax on fuels and other means of instrumentalities used for aircraft and airport power purposes, or the business of dealing therein, thus permitting the imposition of an excise tax on fuels used in air navigation which are not now subject to such a tax, in the same manner as gasoline used in motor vehicles and the sale thereof are now taxed.

3. To permit the legislature to provide by law for the taxation of aircraft on a different basis from other personal property, thus permitting the imposition of taxes on aircraft similar to those now imposed on motor vehicles, in lieu of the personal property tax now imposed on aircraft.

Very truly yours,
J. A. A. BURNQUIST,
Attorney General.

Thomas Dewey spoke about taxes this week. It was the speech of a demagogue. In no sense could it be considered the appeal of a statesman discussing the financial condition of the country. There was a passing reference to the need for increased revenues but the entire appeal was for tax reduction—tax reduction for everybody, including not only the large corporations and the worker who earns only $11 a week but also tax reduction for milady who now is taxed every time she powders her nose. In his speeches to date Mr. Dewey has promised to be a more generous Santa Claus than Mr. Roosevelt and will lower taxes for everybody. He evidences no concern about the country's enormous debt load which in itself will take a big slice out of every man's pay check, and government spending is to be continued on a lavish scale to maintain employment and to provide for the needs of veterans. All this at a reduced cost. Maybe in the speeches that are yet to come he will start talking common sense but unless he comes through with something more substantial than he has given us so far in the campaign conservative voters are going to be without a candidate on election day.

Another War Fund drive gets under way next week so get ready to dig deep and give generously. One day's earnings is a small sacrifice compared with the sacrifices our men in the armed forces are making.

American forces have driven a wedge into the Siegfried line but the line has not yet been broken. That is the cautious report on developments on the Western front and it no doubt is well to be cautious in the accepting as well as in the making of reports of gains in this area. Our men are now fighting on German soil and it is reasonable to assume that every advance will be bitterly contested. The fact that our men have made some advances through this heavily fortified zone is most encouraging to us and must be equally discouraging to the enemy. It is hardly believable that four months ago we were wondering if it would be possible to establish a foothold on French soil.

Until Thomas Dewey adopts a foreign policy that is reasonably satisfactory to him Senator Joe Ball will not support him in his campaign for president. Because of his forthright statement to this effect Senator Ball has incurred the wrath of Republican party leaders who are now saying mean things about him. There is no reason, however, to question Joe Ball's sincerity. During the short time he has served in the Senate he has become prominent nationally as an advocate of certain policies that he believes are essential to a program of world peace. In view of his own active interest in this problem it could not be expected that he would make speeches for Dewey until he knew Dewey's position on this important question. The fact that he expressed himself frankly, knowing that his statement would not be pleasing to party leaders, is to his credit.

The nation has reason to mourn the death of Al Smith, one of the country's most colorful leaders. Born on the other side of the tracks, he came up the hard way, and while he failed in his aspiration to become president of his country he nevertheless made an important contribution in guiding its destinies. Some day when historians "look at the record" there probably will be a better understanding of "baloney dollars" and why he "took a walk."

Farm Equipment Check-up Helps Lengthen Its Life

By placing farm equipment in good shape now, farmers can insure against costly delays later. Many farmers know by the end of a season some of the damage their machines have undergone. However, a mere checkup is not enough. By carefully inspecting every machine part, noting its condition and the need of repair or replacement, a farmer can do much to prolong the life of his equipment.

Last year farmers conditioned their farm machinery in earnest. The machine repaired last year will have to undergo another checkup, but the job should be easier, because of the previous good care. Many counties in the country found that machinery pools set up locally supplied many parts. Repair centers gave excellent results, and several other methods were used in giving proper attention to valuable farm machinery. In any event, conditioning work should proceed in a systematic manner. To insure timeliness, machines are usually repaired to the best advantage in the order they are required for field use.

'Our Aim Is to Serve'

The Service Men's Center in Port Arthur, Texas, in a space not more than 30 by 40 feet, has had an attendance of as many as 14,000 in a one-month period. When someone asked the hostess, the only paid worker at the center, why her program attracted such large attendance, she replied: "We have no program. We just let the boys do as they please. We try to make it as much like home for them as we can. Our aim is to try to serve them, rather than to try to entertain them. Lots of times they make their own coffee and sandwiches. They take the juke box apart when it doesn't suit them and put it back together again." Centers in Houston, Beaumont and Galveston operate on the same basis as Port Arthur. Volunteers from the communities carry on the programs; food and other services are all free; even a soft-drink dispensing box is prohibited.

Sahara Djanet Oasis Now Alert in African Zone

Fringes of the vast, sun-baked Sahara desert came into the North African war news with the report that Algerian native troops established themselves in the hills along the Algeria-Libya border near Djanet, some 800 miles south of the Mediterranean coast. Djanet is a palm-studded oasis community cradled in a cramped, rock-walled valley about three-fourths of a mile long and a fourth of a mile wide, says the National Geographic society. Roundabout, the country is ridged with rocky hills merging into a belt of sand dunes.

Headquarters of French administration for its region, Djanet includes a fort and garrison. Three villages, Adjahil, Azelouaz and El Myam, and a huddle of huts named Ramat occupy the valley. Built on rocky rises, the stone houses are flat-roofed and front narrow alleys from which they are screened by walls enclosing small yards. The villages are marked by dirt and decay and an "atmosphere" of memorable strength. Fort Charlet, on a rocky spur, is a conspicuous landmark, its white-washed walls rising starkly on the site of a fort built by invading Turks.

Both in numbers of skins and in value muskrats lead in Minnesota's annual fur production. Weasels and minks struggle for second place in numbers. In dollar value, minks are in second place, beaver third, skunks fourth, red foxes fifth.

Words That Roll Off Your Tongue

Ed Hodges and the doctor were holding forth about how words only mean something when you think about them; and that a lot of words seem to lose their meaning just because they're used too glibly.

As the doctor put it, "They roll off your tongue without going through your mind. Take tolerance for instance... some of the people who use it most understand it least."

After all, it just comes down to having respect for other folks' rights. I don't mean just in the big things like maybe what political party a fellow belongs to. But in the little things, too, like having a glass of beer occasionally.

Seems to me if every time we spoke about tolerance we thought about what it means—maybe then we'd all of us start living it and not just talking about it.

From where I sit, it looks like the doctor is right. But tolerance is mighty easy to understand.

Card of Thanks

With the deepest of gratitude we wish again to express our sincere thanks to our large number of friends in the Viking Lutheran Parish for the pleasant surprises given us before we left for Granite Falls, Minn. In Oak Ridge and Bethesda churches we were most pleasantly surprised Sunday afternoon and evening, Sept. 24. And the following Monday evening at Viking, including friends from Bethlehem and from the Mission church at Viking. A hearty thanks to all of you for the many kind words spoken and for the gifts of money. We appreciate highly what you did and we shall cherish these memories the rest of our days. God knows you all and we will ask His richest blessing upon you. Sincerely yours in Christ. Rev. and Mrs. P. M. Bratlie. 40c

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother and grandmother, Johanna Gunstad, who passed away Oct. 3rd, 1943:

Deep in our hearts is a picture
Of a loved one gone to rest.
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best.
Our lips cannot speak how we loved her,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say,
God only knows how we miss her,
As we journey along life's way.
Yet again we hope to meet her
When the day of life is fled
And in Heaven with joy to greet her
Where no farewell tears are shed.

Sadly missed by her children and grandchildren. 40p

OCT. 14 DEADLINE FOR PACKAGES TO BE SENT OVERSEAS

Should Mail Parcels to Service Men without Delay, Agency Warns

If you want to be sure your Christmas package reaches that service man or woman overseas in time for Christmas, you should mail it between now and October 15, the Office of War Information says, on the basis of information from the armed services.

Only one package may be sent by or for a person or concern to any one soldier in any one week between now and October 15, and the 30-day period, September 15-October 15, is the only time during which packages may be sent to soldiers overseas without a specific written request from the soldier or without an APO mark from the soldier to whom the gift is to be sent.

Mark the package "Christmas Parcel," OWI says, and use a label that does not look like a postage mark or stamp. Print the address so that it will not run, streak, smudge or fade, and put an additional copy of the address and return address inside the package, so that if the package comes apart, the additional copy can be used.

This year the War Shipping Administration is going to try to deliver Christmas packages to merchant seamen. In addressing a gift to a merchant seaman, print his full name, the name of the ship he is on and the post office address. In the lower left hand corner, print the name of the steamship line, but don't put the name of the steamship line directly under the recipient's name, because packages so addressed are likely to end up at the company instead of the ship.

Prowlers Swamp E.G.F.; Cathedral Here Friday

A fast charging Prowler line, punching gaping holes in the East Grand Forks line and doing some splendid downfield blocking, permitted the speedy Prowler backs to flash away for numerous touchdowns and gave coach Hanna's team a decisive 47 to 0 win over the Little Green Wave in a district game played here Friday night.

Tomorrow evening the locals conclude their "home game" schedule, meeting a well-rated Crookston Cathedral team. The remaining three games on the Prowler schedule will take the blue-and-gold out of town.

The Prowlers required only four plays to register their first score Friday night. Defending the west goal, the locals received the kickoff, with the ball being "dead" on the Prowler 20-yard line. Wes Hovie plunged through left guard for 7 yards; Herb Claffy netted 2 yards over right guard, and then made a first down on the Prowler 38-yard line. Ninsk Carlson swept around left end for 62 yards and a touchdown, with Chuck Richards bowling over a would-be tackler on the East Grand's 35-yard line. Claffy sneaked through the line for the point. Following the next kickoff, with East Grand Forks receiving and failing to gain on three running plays, the locals, on a punt, gained possession of the ball on their 48-yard line. A pass, Les Vigness to Manny Forsberg, carried the ball to the East Side's 18-yard line; and then Claffy came out around left end for a touchdown.

The locals added a score early in the second period when, after a march from their 38-yard line to the East Grand 35-yard marker, a long pass, Vigness to Alan Thompson, was completed for a touchdown. Another score was recorded midway in the period when Hovie smashed over from the 2-yard line, and Tunberg added the point to give the locals a 26 to 0 lead at the half.

The scoring continued in the third period when Vigness, from the East Grand Forks 47-yard line, slashed off right tackle and then reversed his field to race for a touchdown. And a short while later, with the ball on the Green Wave's 13-yard line, a lateral pass, with Larry Rullen taking a toss from Claffy and going around left end for a score.

The final touchdown was marked up in the fourth period when Bob Baker, after receiving Harold Spriggs' punt on the Prowler 30-yard line and bringing the ball back 5 yards, flipped a lateral pass to Rullen and the fleet-footed back dashed for the touchdown. Claffy's extra point brought the game total to 47.

Coach H. E. Hanson's East Grand Forks team was handicapped considerably by the loss of left tackle Bob McWalters and quarterback Jim Stewart. Stewart, the East Side's chief offensive threat, turned his ankle during last Monday's practice session.

The Prowlers, the line and backfield, played like an all-star aggregation, with the blocking being crisp, and the backs running for big gains. The locals gained 14 first downs during the game, with East Grand Forks being able to garner but two first downs, one on a penalty. The Prowlers, though, did manage to pick up some penalties, losing 100 yards due to infractions of the rules.

Something to See

If the Prowlers play as ably against Crookston Cathedral tomorrow night as they did against Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks, those fans who haven't witnessed the local boys in action this year (and Friday night's contest is the last opportunity that they'll have to see the Prowlers, for it's the last home game on the schedule) will get an eyeful.

It's not certain, though, that the Prowlers will be as efficient against the Blue Wave as they were in their two preceding games, for Coach Glenn Hanna fears that the comparative ease with which the boys rolled up those two 47-point totals will tend to make the Prowlers somewhat over-confident and that they'll experience a let-down against Don Norman's eleven.

Preparing for Bemidji

That fact is, some of the players are already "pointing" for the Bemidji Lumberjack game, which is two weeks away. But at least three of the Prowlers—Bob Baker, Les Vigness, and Wes Hovie —aren't over-confident and aren't "pointing" for any other game but the Cathedral fray, for they have met a number of the Blue Wave boys in competition before. On Don Norman's football team are several boys who were members of the Cathedral hockey team that won the 1944 Northwest Junior hockey tournament and these boys—Spanky Sullivan, Johnny Noah, Bud Schroeder, Les Martin, and Bud Salem—remembering that they upset a Hornet team that had Baker, Vigness, and Hovie in its lineup, are primed to repeat the upset against the Prowlers. But Les, Bob, and Wes remember that hockey finals match last spring, too, so they'll not be over-confident Friday night; and the fact that left halfback Ninsk Carlson has a bruised hip and perhaps will be on the side-lines, will probably erase some of the Prowlers' over-confidence, too.

Locals Fine on Offense

The Prowlers exhibition against Hans Hanson's East Grand Forks team last Friday was one of the finest offensive performances a blue-and-gold team has turned in for a number of years. The locals weren't tested greatly on defense, so their ability to turn back the opposition's scoring drives is in doubt. Johnny Noah will maybe give them that test on Friday. The fast charge of the Prowlers' forward wall and the expert downfield blocking, created much favorable comment among the fans. And Friday's game did belong to the line, for the Prowler forwards were surely mopping up the East Side tacklers.

The reason for the success of the Prowler line play isn't any secret to those of us who watch the practice sessions. Before the afternoon's drills begin the Prowler linemen, and on their own volition, usually "pair off" and give the blocking dummies a workout. And this, of course, is in addition to the regular blocking and tackling drills that Coach Hanna metes out. Well, the results of that extra effort by the linemen could be seen last Friday.

And did you notice the way young Francis Kobliska blossomed out as a linesman against the Green Wave? Kob really smacked the East Side ball carriers, a couple of his tackles nearly rattled the windows in the Industrial Arts building.

Hats-off Dept.

The fellow who's laughing now is Harold Eide, the guy who picked the Browns to win the A. L. pennant. It's doubtful which pleased him more, the fact that the Browns won the title, or because they defeated the Yankees four games in a row. Harold expects that Yankee manager Joe McCarthy will come down with another gallstone attack after swallowing those defeats; and he asked if coach Art Fletcher, the only Yankee with baseball sense, wasn't with the Yanks when they played at St. Louis this week.

When asked about the outcome of the World's Series between the Cardinals vs. the Browns, Harold said that the series would go six games and that St. Louis would win. You can't argue with a guy like that.

Anoka's Bill Bye

If Anoka's Billy Bye continues at the pace that he has set in the first three games he'll be due for all-state rating. Anoka has scored three top-heavy wins—over St. Louis Park, Columbia Heights, and Hastings—and Bill has had a hand or foot in most of the scoring. Last week against Hastings, a game which Anoka won by a 34 to 0 score, Bill scored two touchdowns, kicked four extra points, and tossed a pass for another marker. One of Bill's touchdowns came on a 65-yard third period run.

It would be fine to have Bill on the Prowler squad this year; but I'm afraid that the other teams in the district would cancel their games, as they're having plenty of trouble with the local eleven as it is.

LABOR SHORTAGE IN STATE REACHES AN ACUTE STATUS

30,000 War Jobs in Minnesota Remain Unfilled, Says Bjornaraa

Minnesota's labor surplus is vanishing rapidly and is remindful of the hair restorer advertising of a generation ago, that featured the slogan: "Going, Going, Gone." As an alarm clock to awaken the community, the Twin Cities this week were placed in Group II, meaning that there is a sharp worker shortage there. WMC immediately began establishing ceilings on all employing establishments in Minneapolis and St. Paul, limiting the number of men that each firm could carry on its payroll.

The purpose of the group II classification and the ceiling program is to provide manpower needed to staff plants producing war material urgently needed for combat troops.

For a long time, Minnesota has been a worker surplus area, in comparison with other sections of the nation, explained Dreng Bjornaraa, state WMC director. Recent victories in Europe and the Pacific have led to a widespread belief that all the serious fighting was over and that war production no longer was as urgent as during the preparatory period.

A statement by OWI last week indicated that many long months of hard fighting are ahead, and lack of manpower to fill nearly 30,000 war jobs in Minnesota should be due notice to the entire state of the seriousness of any tendency, at this juncture, for the home front to let down.

Bjornaraa urged all persons not now in essential jobs to consult the nearest U. S. Employment office, as to backing up the war effort.

DEER CRASHES TROUGH WINDOW

Cokato.—Just what the young deer who crashed the window of a local gasoline station sought is unknown, but it is known that he didn't find what he thought he would. Jumping through a 13x16 window in the double doors of the station he landed in the greasing pit. The owner, Art Borchert, was not there at the time but arrived probably an hour later to find the animal very much distraught and making futile attempt to escape via a coal chute. The game warden was summoned and he was finally pulled throught the manhole at the top of the coal chute by the aid of a rope with a slip knot fastened to his horns. The joy of the young fellow at being out in the open again was expressed with considerable jumping and kicking until the rope was released and he was freed.

Biggest Crop of Sugar Beets Raised in Valley

The biggest crop of sugar beets grown in the Red River valley is being shipped to American Crystal Sugar Co. in East Grand Forks, local manager O. A. Holkeevig announced Saturday.

Holkeevig estimated that 12 tons of beets are being grown to the acre, and the sugar content compares favorably to other years. Weather conditions will determine any condition change.

Production is limited at the factory and receiving stations, because of the labor shortage, but the war food administration and extension office has promised more workers will be available shortly.

Care of Horsehair Paint Brushes

Horsehair is one of the substitutes for imported hog bristles from China and Russia in the manufacture of wartime paint brushes. Manufacturers of brushes containing horsehair state that to make such brushes last longer and give their maximum result in the application of paint, the horsehair should be combed straight before any attempt is made to use the brush. Then, say the manufacturers, new horsehair brushes should never under any circumstances be put in water, as water tends to curl, mat and twist horsehair. It is also bad practice to put even used horsehair or mixed bristles and horsehair brushes in water, but if soap and water is used to clean such brushes, it is of utmost importance that the hair be combed straight so that there will be no matting, after the brush has been washed, and it is equally important that the brush then be dried thoroughly before it is again used. In the case of a new horsehair or mixed horsehair brush, after it has been combed, it should be put directly into paint.

This new type rocket ship opens the beach defenses as the first wave prepares to go ashore during the invasion of Morotai island. BRISK DEMAND FOR BUTTER RESULT OF INCREASED POINTS

Ration Value Was Raised to Twenty Points by OPA Last Week-end

Spurred by an OPA announcement last Thursday that, effective Sunday, October 1, the ration value of creamery butter would be increased from 16 points to 20, last week-end witnessed a brisk demand for the commodity on the part of local housewives who had any spare red ration points.

Unlike in the Twin Cities and other larger centers, however, there was no shortage in supplies in this area.

The increase in ration points for butter, reflecting short supply and spotty distribution, is the only point change to be made in October, OPA announced.

All other rationed foods—meats, other dairy products and processed foods—retain their current values.

Hinting the record-high points on butter may continue through December, OPA Administrator Chester Bowles said:

"There are no two ways about it, we civilians are going to have to get along with less butter—at least during the next 90 days or so. We simply don't have anywhere near the normal supply of butter to distribute."

The government has ended its butter purchases for the year but OPA said production so far this year is about 12 per cent under that in the corresponding period of 1943.

Walla Walla Makes Taxi Law

Taxi passengers as well as their drivers must watch their ethics under an ordinance just passed by the Walla Walla, Wash., city council, according to the American Municipal association.

The law forbids drivers to take passengers "the long way," under penalty of a $100 fine. Passengers, on the other hand, cannot refuse payment of legal fares. And if a prospective customer who calls for a cab cancels the request after the cab is dispatched, he is charged a fee anyway.

The new taxicab ordinance also limits rates—25 cents for the first half-mile and 10 cents for each half-mile thereafter. A passenger must pay 10 cents for keeping a driver waiting three minutes and 10 cents apiece for extra passengers. Cabs from now on will be rationed in Walla Walla—one to every 2,000 inhabitants.

HELP YOUR NEIGHBOR AND YOU HELP YOUR COUNTRY

They Builded Better Than They Knew

With the help of the neighbors, many a little red schoolhouse was built. That readiness to help the folks down the road and the family across the square was the strength of our early America, the foundation for our democracy. Because of it, we have a greater heritage to defend than any other people on Earth.

In these wartime days, the spirit of neighborliness so characteristic of our people is again paying dividends. Did you ever dream ten years ago that today you would pull up to the curb and offer a ride to a stranger? That you would have a bundle of salvaged paper ready when the Boy Scouts called? That you would walk home with awkward packages because your dealers have difficulty making deliveries? When you aid your neighbor, you aid your country. Isn't it surprising how many things one person can do to help win the war?

OCTOBER TRAFFIC HAZARDS CALL FOR CAREFUL DRIVING

Minnesota Editors Continue Campaign for Highway Safety

"Drive carefully—October is a dangerous month," is the plea to motorists by M. A. Johnson of Blue Earth, chairman of the Minnesota editors' traffic safety committee. Pedestrians also are urged to observe the safety rules and help cut down accidents.

"In the decade from 1934 to 1943, traffic fatalities in Minnesota in October averaged 64, against 61 in September, the next worst month," Mr. Johnson said. "Some years this state had more than 80 deaths in October, although in 1942 and 1943 the number was reduced to 36.

"One cause for the high October accident rate is the failure to take into account the longer hours of darkness. Motorists should slow down after sunset, and be ever alert for hazards. Pedestrians too should take extra precautions after dark, cross only at regular crosswalks, cross with the green or 'walk' signal if there is a traffic control signal, walk on the left side when walking along roadways, wear or carry something white at night, and always Look Left, Look Right before crossing.

"Another cause of October accidents is that autumn rains increase the danger of skidding. Slippery road surfaces call for slower starting, gradual slowing down when stopping and taking it easy on curves.

"Hunting and football trips are another factor in October accidents. Those who drive should plan their trips so they get there and back without undue speed and without driving when very tired. Those who drink shouldn't drive and those who drive shouldn't drink.

"Minnesota traffic fatalities so far in 1944 have been 40 per cent higher than in 1943. If this increase continues, there will be 50 people killed in traffic this October. If every driver and every Pedestrian will use reasonable safety precautions, these needless traffic accidents can be prevented."

Avoid Food Losses

Losses that the housewife may not be aware of can be avoided by the way food is handled in the home. For example, cabbage cut finely for slaw and left in a warm room for a few hours will lose a large percentage of vitamin C. Milk left on the door step in the sun may lose considerable of the essential riboflavin. Vegetables placed in cold water, brought to a boil, and cooked longer than necessary lose valuable soluble nutrients.

Small Wage

Forty-four thousand teachers, five out of every 100, are being paid less than $800 a year—$11.50 per week.

RED CROSS NEWS NOTES

By Mrs. Millard Peterson
Publicity Chairman

The opening of surgical dressings classes started Monday afternoon with only twelve volunteer workers present. However, they made a total of 460 dressings which were the 4 by 8's. In the evening ten workers came out making a total of 360. Let us hope that the attendance at the dressings room will double itself this following week. No one needs to tell us the urgent need for these dressings for our growing number of wounded soldiers. Plan now to save an afternoon next week for "doing your bit".

The Army and Navy needs 9,000 nurses before January 1, 1945. The American Red Cross, as official recruiting agent of the Army and Navy Nurse Corps, has established recruiting stations in more than 400 chapters throughout the country. Our recruiting nurse here in Thief River Falls is Mrs. Wm. Gilbertson, at 103 E. 8th Street; her telephone is 729. Nurses desiring to sign up for service with the armed forces may contact Mrs. Gilbertson or write to National Headquarters, American Red Cross, Washington, D. C. for information and application blanks. All nurses enter the service with the relative rank of second lieutenant in the Army and ensign in the Navy. They are promoted as fast as their training and ability warrant, provided positions of advanced responsibility are available.

"Health officials tell us that remaining medical resources can still be adequate if everyone will cooperate by sharing those left to us", said Mrs. Orrin G. Lynde, chairman of home nursing. "Red Cross home nursing instruction helps make this possible. The woman who has had Red Cross home nursing training does not need to call a doctor for every minor ailment, yet she knows when the illness is a major one and how to report symptoms. She can follow instructions and protect the well members of her family. Through proper care of the patient, she can speed recovery". "Every American woman owes it to her family to take a Red Cross home nursing course", Mrs. Lynde said. Classes will be held for your convenience. Contact Mrs. Lynde about schedules.

SIXTH WAR LOAN DRIVE IS SET TO START NOV. 20TH

Approximately 14 Billion to be Objective of Next Campaign

The treasury has tentatively set Nov. 20, the beginning of Thanksgiving week, as the kick-off date for the sixth war loan drive and officials have decided on a goal of about $14,000,000,000, it was disclosed last week.

As in previous drives, the American Bankers association will take the leading role in promoting sales through its local branches.

Details were agreed on at closed sessions at the treasury, attended by leading bankers and federal fiscal experts.

The goal is $2,000,000,000 less than that of the fifth war loan, which was the highest of all and which was oversubscribed by $4,500,000,000, most of which came from corporations and other non-banking sources.

Three reasons were given for the cut:

Unusually good cash condition of the treasury.

Increasingly good war news from abroad.

Light bond redemptions expected as a result of the simplified redemption plan which goes into effect on Oct. 2.

Tunisian Battles Fought 200 Years Before Christ

Battles that shaped the history of the world for centuries have been fought in Tunisia. More than 200 years before the Christian era men clashed there in one of the world's most decisive military engagements, the battle of Zama. It was during the Punic wars, the long-drawn-out struggles between the Roman and Carthaginian empires for control of the Mediterranean. The Romans held the Italian peninsula, the Carthaginians, the African side of the Mediterranean narrows. An uneasy peace ended the first of the Punic wars in 241 B. C., but fighting was resumed in 218 B. C. It was during the latter phase that the daring Carthaginian general, Hannibal, marched his troops and elephants through Spain and Gaul over the Alps into Italy.

Hannibal, however, eventually had to return to Africa. He made his last stand against the Romans in what is now Tunisia, on an inland plain which military historians suggest may have been situated near the town of Zama, about 70 air miles southwest of Tunis. There, in 202 B. C., the Carthaginians were defeated by the Romans under Scipio Africanus. The battle marked the end of Carthaginian power in the Mediterranean.

STATE LEGION IS SET FOR MILLION DOLLAR CAMPAIGN

State Convention Plans for 30-day Drive to Raise Memorial Fund

Reports from American Legion posts and auxiliary units throughout the state indicate that they are all set for the biggest and fastest job yet undertaken by the Legion in Minnesota. The job is to raise $1,000,000 in thirty days for The Minnesota American Legion Foundation, dedicated to service to ex-servicemen.

Speed in raising the money to finance the foundation is made necessary by the fact that hundreds of servicemen and women are already returning to civilian life in Minnesota.

The plan to raise $1,000,000 was approved by a special meeting of the foundation at the August convention of the Legion in Mankato to meet the objective set forth in the foundation's articles of incorporation: "Temporary or permanent relief to servicemen and women and their dependents."

All members of the Legion and auxiliary are automatically members of the foundation and will be called on to decide details and location of the memorial building to be erected with part of the funds raised in this campaign. The memorial building will house state headquarters office of the Legion and auxiliary and mementoes of the two world wars.

WOMEN 20-36! Serve where America needs you most—shoulder to shoulder with the men of the Navy! Enlist in the WAVES!

LOGGING IN A PILOT. Checking fliers in and out at the field is a job to thrill any WAVE. And the Navy experience thus gained may lead to a post-war career in aviation.

EYES FRONT! The C. O. finds everything "shipshape" as he inspects the WAVES in the Bureau of Ships. Like Navy men, these girls stand Captain's inspection regularly.

RIGHT NOW, can you honestly say, "I'm doing all I can to help my country win this war"? You can say it—say it proudly—when you wear the Navy blue of the WAVES.

Of course, there are important jobs to be done at home. But ask yourself: "Can others do them—mothers with children—older women?" Then—if you are between 20 and 36—remember that you, and you alone, have the opportunity to serve where you can do the most for Victory—as a full-fledged member of the Navy.

In radio, communications, storekeeping, hospital corps, aviation ground work and scores of other jobs, WAVES are doing vital Navy work, doing it as well as men. They hold their posts as Americans who proudly serve their country in Navy Blue. The Navy ratings they wear are the same ratings men of the Navy wear. They get the same pay. They represent the same skill—the ability to do a job well, according to Navy standards.

Train in New York City

You don't need special experience to join the WAVES. Navy training takes care of that. First, six weeks at recruit school in New York City, learning Navy traditions, getting into the swing of real Navy life. Then assignment to a duty station or further training to equip you for a specialized job.

You'll draw good pay in the WAVES—$50 a month clear to start—with all your living expenses paid—food, comfortable quarters, medical care, and a uniform allowance of $200. You can advance to as much as $126 a month clear, plus allowances.

You're needed now!

It's your war. It's your country—fighting for your freedom. What are you willing to do to help win this fight? Is there any job you can do which is more important than the job waiting for you right now in the WAVES? Is there any service you can perform in which you will take greater pride as a patriotic American? You know in your heart there's just one answer. So why not make your decision now? Join the WAVES. It will be the proudest experience of your life.

The Story of You in Navy Blue

HERE, IN ONE EXCITING BOOK, you can get all the facts to help you decide about your service in the WAVES. It pictures the life you'll lead, training you'll receive, interesting posts to which you may be assigned. It describes the uniform you'll wear, the pay you'll get, promotions you can win. Covers all requirements. 50 pages, fully illustrated. Get your personal copy now. Bicycle production has increased in recent years from a low of 210,464 in 1921 to more than a million annually, though production has been restricted for the last year or two by the War Production board. The survey contained an estimate that the 74,423,000 people living in the reporting cities of 5,000 or more population owned 5,841,000 bicycles—an average of one bicycle for every 12.7 persons.

Feed Types

Of the total feed consumed by animals during the three-year period, 1938-40, 31.5 per cent was grain, 6.6 per cent other concentrates, 22.1 per cent hay and other roughage, and 37.8 per cent pasture. Pasture, hay and other forage crops supplied 59.9 per cent of all the feed consumed by all livestock.

FAIRY TALES

That Furrowed Brow

Watch for forehead furrows! They signal, "Faulty Eyesight". Two children in five have defective vision—are retarded in school, robbed of childhood's literary pleasures and the needed exercise of play.

The greatest gift you can make to your children is good vision. Have their eyesight examined periodically—and, when necessary, corrected.

Have a Coca-Cola = Eat, drink and enjoy yourself

. . . or adding refreshment to a backyard barbecue

One of the secrets of any successful home barbecue is plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Everybody enjoys its life, sparkle and refreshment. Plan to have frosty bottles of "Coke" ice-cold and ready to drink. When you shop, remember to ask for Coca-Cola. Everywhere, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a high-sign of hospitality in the American home.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

When the Older Children Have Gone Back to School

With a sudden realization of how long it has been since she had seen or heard Michael, Mrs. Porter looked out the kitchen window at the sandbox, then rushed to the front door, to see whether her three-year-old was in sight. Away down at the end of the block, sitting quietly on his trike, sat Michael, staring up the hill toward the school house.

"Poor Mickey," she thought. How lonely he is since all the children went back to school! I wish I hadn't all this canning on my hands, so I could give him a little more of my time."

Many a younger brother or sister, at this time of year, feels as though the bottom had dropped out of things. After being included with the neighborhood children all summer, a pre-school child has a pretty big adjustment to make when the older children are gone for so many hours each day. While it is good for children to learn to play alone, the sudden shift from group to solitary play is hard to take without a little tactful planning on the part of a child's mother.

His play by himself can be very rewarding and enriching, or it can be aimless moping. Perhaps Michael needs some new implements in his sand-pile, a wheelbarrow, and little rake would occupy him enjoyably now that the leaves are falling.

One of the things that Michael would find engrossing when he must play indoors is painting, either with brushes or with his fingers. Finger painting gives a child a chance to use his own hands for tools. He loves to come into direct contact with whatever medium he is working in (witness the popularity of mud, clay, or wet sand), and can experiment with his fingers better than with a brush.

Laundry starch, cooked up into a rather stiff, glossy mixture, with a few soap flakes stirred in, will keep for several days if covered and put in icebox. Vegetable coloring may be added to small quantities in seperate jelly glasses or custard cups. While smooth-surfaced paper is preferable for finger painting, ordinary wrapping paper, the reverse side of wall paper, or whatever else is available will do. Large sheets of paper should be immersed in water and then spread on a smooth surface where the child has plenty of elbow-room.

As part of the value of finger painting comes from the uninhibited use of fingers, hands, or even arms, a child should be dressed so that he will not have to be cautioned about getting paint on his clothes. An old smock can be kept for this special purpose. You can depend upon it, the grown-ups in the family will be trying their hands at this fascinating form of creative expression, too, so satisfying and exciting are the possibilities of the free, original designs that emerge.

The "help" that little children love to give their mothers will aid in tiding over the first lonesome days, too. A four-year-old in one family considers washing the spoons her special privilege. Even wiping up the water she has slopped from her pan on a chair is part of the performance. Helping to make the beds, dusting when mother dusts, talking on a toy telephone while mother is giving the grocery order, the little copycats are kept busy and happy going through the motions that mother makes.

All children need to learn to play alone, for contentment with one's own society is an asset throughout life. No mother should feel that her child is abused when he must sometimes play by himself, for, given materials and opportunity he learns to think for himself and to express his own ideas.

Soybean Culture

For good soybean culture, the soil must not be sour or acid. It needs plenty of calcium or lime. Any well-limed soil, whether it is sandy loam, rich black prairie soil, or heavy loamy clay will grow good soys. Be sure drainage is good. Soys object to wet feet.

Three Ten-Thousandths of an Inch

Axis sub commanders know that a Liberty ship can turn on a dime—maybe it's because the final machining of the steel pinions which help drive these great merchant ships through the seas must be accurate to three ten-thousandths of an inch—work which is often done in air conditioned rooms where the temperature cannot vary more than four degrees. This prevents expansion or contraction due to variations in temperature. Just another reason these ships are good!

Wood in Fighting Planes

Wood is important in the construction of 41 different types of British aircraft and makes up approximately one-third the weight of all British planes. Most of the wood comes from the United States and Canada. All of the well-known British fighting planes (Stirlings, Wellingtons, Lancasters, Whitleys, Beaufighters, Blenheims, Halifaxes, and others) contain wood from North America. Even the tires contain rayon thread produced from wood cellulose.

Empty Vacuum Cleaner

Empty the vacuum cleaner's dust bag every week. If the bag ring isn't large enough, empty it through the top. Hold it tight against the paper on the floor so the dust doesn't scatter. If you rub the sides of the bag together the dust that cakes on the felt-like inside surface will loosen.

Less Accidents

Sure It's Love!

She—It's mostly you I care for. I care for your money only up to a certain point.
He—Yeah, the decimal point!

Finders Keepers

Pvt.—Hey, she's a real pin-up! She ain't got a friend, has she?
Sarge—Yep.
Pvt.—Who?
Sarge—Me!

No Rationing?

Waiter—We have everything on this menu. What would you like?
Diner—A clean menu!

Slight Draft

She—Does this wind bother you?
He—Oh, no. Talk as much as you please.

Jerry—Well, she dyed by her own hand!

SUPPORT AVIATION AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOV. 7

Manager of State Campaign Advocates Adoption of Proposal

"The passage of the 'Aviation Amendment' at the general election on November 7th, will insure to Minnesota a predominant position in the field of aviation and air commerce," State Representative Vernon S. Welch, campaign manager of the "Aviation Amendment" volunteer committee, asserted today.

"Minnesota today stands at the cross-roads of the sky-ways of tomorrow. It is destined to become one of the great air centers of the nation. Because of its geographical and strategical location Minnesota can and will become one of the principal "ports of entry' for all international air trade and commerce with the far east and Asiatic countries," Mr. Welch further stated.

Mr. Welch stated that the real future of Minnesota lies in the development of a sound, progressive aviation program and pointed out that the 1943 Legislature enacted a far-reaching and far-sighted program, which is totally dependent upon the passage of the amendment for its fulfillment. He explained that the "Aviation Amendment" was designated to accomplish for aviation and air travel what the Babcock highway amendment did some twenty years earlier for the automobile and the development of a state highway system. He stated further that, "The passage of the 'Aviation Amendment' in turn will permit the development of a state-wide airports system. The opportunities presented through air flight and air travel know no bounds."

A Tribute From Secretary Knox

"The importance of ships in winning our ultimate victory and in maintaining the peace and prosperity of the post-war era cannot be underestimated . . . The performance of American-built navy and merchant marine vessels, operating under most difficult conditions, is a proud chapter in our history of this global conflict. These ships have character; they have been soundly constructed."—Secretary of the Navy Knox.

Dairymen Will Convene at Crookston Oct. 25th

A full day's program, starting with butter judging contests in the morning and winding up with a banquet and dance in the evening, has been arranged for the annual convention of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association, which will be held in Crookston on Wednesday, October 25. C. M. Pesek of Crookston is secretary and general chairman of arrangements.

With well over 500 dairy farmers and others interested in the industry expected to attend, room reservations are already at a premium, and a housing committee headed by Deane Wiley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in the city, is already seeking means to take care of the large influx of visitors to the city.

The convention will get actually underway on Tuesday evening, Oct. 24, when entertainment for early arrivals will be furnished, and a number of movies directly connected with dairying industry will be shown.

At nine a. m. the big day of the convention will open with the judging contests for men and women at the Crookston armory. At the same time a new feature of this year's convention will start, when dairymen participate in a milk identification contest. In this event an opportunity will be given to taste milk made from dried whole milk and compare it with other kinds of milk, with prizes awarded to the winners.

At ten o'clock the annual business session of the association will be held, at which an election to determine new officers will be staged. Also at ten a special discussion on the future and advantages of the artificial breeding program will take place at the armory, with Professor H. R. Searles of the University farm and W. Miller, manager of the Minnesota Valley Breeders association, as speakers.

T. M. McCall, superintendent of Northwest School at Crookston, will preside during this morning discussion.

In the afternoon a general meeting will be held at the Central high school auditorium, with the principal topic being the future of milk drying industry in Minnesota and the Red River valley. Stuart McLeod of Thief River Falls, president of the association, will preside, and among the speakers will be Professor Searles, Professor E. Fred Koller and Governor Edward J. Thye, a successful farmer and dairyman in his own right.

During the entire time the convention is in progress, and starting in advance on Monday, October 23, three well-known buttermen will judge entries in the butter contest. They include C. W. Fryhofer of St. Paul, federal butter grader; Art Roppe of Land O'Lakes, Inc., Minneapolis butter grader; and Cleve Sorenson of St. Paul, butter grader for National Butter company. Pesek and Henry Wyman of Fergus Falls, inspector for the dairy and food department, will be superintendents of the butter entries.

On Wednesday evening following the speaking program a banquet will be held at the armory, arranged by ladies of the Trinity Lutheran church. Mrs. Charles Repplen is in charge of arrangements. Following the banquet attendance prizes and other awards will be made.

The evening will be climaxed with a dance from 9 to 12, featuring modern and old-time music.

Pesek asked that all those desirous of making room reservations in advance should write to Wiley in care of the Chamber of Commerce, Crookston. Wiley's committee includes also Ralph B. Lycan and Mrs. A. O. Guern.

NOTHING WORTH SAYING

In the hills of Arkansas, a son was born to one of the natives. As he grew from infancy he never spoke a word and his parents raised him as a deaf mute.

One day the father was bent over at his work in the orchard and did not notice that he was directly in the path of an enraged bull.

"Look out, Pa," the son shouted. "Here comes the bull."

The father ran to safety and expressed his joy his son had found his speech.

"Well, Pa," the son replied, "I just ain't had nothing to say before."
